U.N. Shuns Cuban Charge

Castro Speeds 'Anti-Invasion' Buildup

Guns Set Up On Beaches, In Key Cities

Fidel Blames Break On Ike, Keeps Door Open To Kennedy

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro brought out all available weapons Thursday and placed them around his tense island nation to await what he insists is "an imminent invasion" from the United States.

His Cabinet kept the diplomatic door open however, to President-elect John F. Kennedy by declaring that "responsibility for the rupture between the United States and Cuba falls entirely on the administration of President Eisenhower."

Hundreds of militia reinforcements poured by train and bus into Santiago, capital of easternmost Oriente Province. Many moved down onto the beaches, but even greater numbers were sent northeast toward Guantanamo City and Songo, outside the U.S. Guantanamo Naval base.

Military-Holiday Air

Antiaircraft, antitank and other heavy weapons sprouted all over Havana. Christmas and New Year's festivities still continued, thus the city bore a strange military-holiday air.

Weapons were placed thickly around Seafront Drive. Some antiaircraft batteries were set up not far from the almost empty U.S. Embassy building, where a dozen diehard Cubans still stood around hopeful of getting visas for admission to the United States.

The sudden and open display of armament is apparently intended to underscore Castro's charge that a U.S. invasion is coming within two weeks, a charge ridiculed by Washington.

The appearance of the weapons heightened Cuba's invasion fever. All Cuban radio and television stations have been transmitting martial music, old Castro speeches and anti-American slogans around the clock for four days.

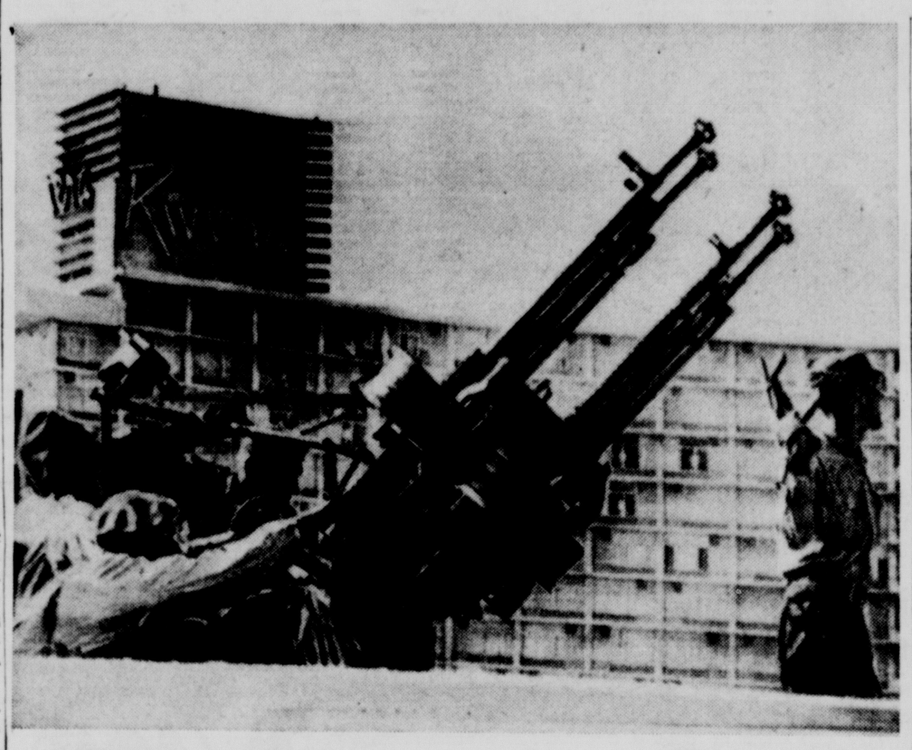

Death Decreed For Saboteurs

The Cabinet statement blaming the Eisenhower administration for the diplomatic break also backed Castro's charge that some U.S. Embassy personnel promoted counterrevolution and terrorism here.

The Cabinet authorized death sentences for any anti-Castro saboteurs and all who help them.

The U.S. charge d'affairs, Daniel M. Braddock, and his skeleton staff called in packers to help move equipment and files from the embassy.

As Braddock set about the moving job, 67 of his personnel arrived at West Palm Beach, Fla., after an overnight ferry trip. They said their departure from Havana was smooth and without incident. The embassy staff slept on cots placed in the ferry's eight staterooms.

Cuban Militiamen Await 'Enemy'

Depressed Areas Aid Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Thursday reintroduced his $398.5 million depressed areas bill with 39 Democratic and four Republican senators as co-sponsors.

The measure was assigned the number, "S. 1," indicating the top priority the Democratic leadership gives to it.

Douglas noted that President-elect John F. Kennedy also has given the bill high priority in his legislative program.

A banking subcommittee headed by Douglas will handle consideration of the bill. Douglas said he plans to try to start hearings before Kennedy's inauguration Jan. 20 and to hold them to a minimum length since much testimony on depressed areas was heard in previous congresses.

President Eisenhower vetoed two previous Douglas bills on the subject.

The new measure proposes federal loans and grants to try to attract new industries and jobs to areas which have suffered from chronic unemployment.

Two Republican proposals in the same field also were offered to the Senate.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., sent up a $180 million measure and Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., a $214 million bill.

Douglas' bill would fix ceilings on the loan funds designed to hold the cost to about $100 million for the first year. This is a new feature.

Douglas said "rising unemployment and inadequate economic growth have accentuated the problems of unemployment throughout the nation." He added:

"The number of distressed areas has risen. There are nearly a hundred such areas of substantial and persistent unemployment. In these areas, there are at least 15 million people and over 600,000 unemployed.

"Unemployment throughout the nation now exceeds 6 per cent, but unemployment in the distressed areas is nearly twice as high, and in about a score of communities it exceeds depression proportions of 15 per cent and more."

The four Republican co-sponsors are John S. Cooper, Ky., Jacob K. Javits, N. Y., Clifford P. Case, N. J., and J. Glenn Beall, Md.

Doctor Linked To Deaths Of 14 From Hepatitis

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Fourteen patients of an Erlton psychiatrist died of an acute liver disease after getting injections from him, the State Health Department said Thursday.

It said 30 other patients injected by Dr. Albert L. Weiner of Erlton also contracted the disease, without fatal results. The deaths occurred last fall, with the last one in November, it said.

Atty. Gen. David D. Furman said the State Board of Medical Examiners suspended Weiner's license Dec. 21 on a temporary basis. It has not been restored.

Furman asserted that an investigation is being held to see if the suspension should be made permanent and if criminal prosecution should be started.

The health department said the disease was presumably serum hepatitis.

A health department spokesman said Weiner used injections to administer drugs to calm his patients. The spokesman said it was possible the needle used by Weiner might have been spreading the contagious disease.

The health department said it issued an order Oct. 25, barring Weiner from using parenteral therapy, which means injection with a needle.

Furman said the State Board of Medical Examiners has hired a liver specialist to try to trace the exact cause of hepatitis among Weiner's patients.

A health department spokesman said Weiner is an osteopathic physician specializing in psychiatry.

Agreement To End Belgian Strikes Near

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Agreement was reported near Thursday night on a face-saving compromise to end the 17-day-old violent Socialist-led strikes. They had threatened to topple Premier Gaston Eyskens' Catholic-conservative government.

An informant close to Socialist party leadership said: "The end is near."

"In meetings all over the country, Socialist trade unions are being told that negotiations are under way for halting the strike, he said. The Belgian state radio quoted reports that the strike was nearing its finish.

The Socialist informant said everyone was "fed up" with the strikes which have cost Belgium millions of francs in lost production and property damage.

64 Embassy Personnel Arrive In U.S. From Cuba

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cold, tired and sick of the tension in Fidel Castro's Cuba, 64 United States Embassy personnel arrived here Thursday in response to the dictator's screams to get out of Havana in 48 hours.

"The order Castro gave on television came right off the top of his head and even caught his own Foreign Office by surprise," said Vice Consul Gerald Sutton.

"They had no note prepared for us and it took them some time to prepare it. They apologized to us for the delay."

Sutton said the Cuban militia and army intelligence men are growing more and more ruthless, and he disclosed that a militiaman took a punch at him when he entered his apartment after President Eisenhower broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"I got to the elevator and one of those militiamen asked me where I was going," Sutton said. "I told him it was none of his business and he socked me."

Eugene A. Gilmore, counselor for economic affairs and No. 2 man in the Havana Embassy, said it was "a scramble to get out in time" to meet Castro's deadline.

Daniel P. Braddock, charge d'affairs, and nine other American personnel, remained in Havana but Gilmore said they would be out in two or three days, as soon as arrangements are made with Switzerland to handle U.S. affairs.

"Any American in Cuba not sponsored by some Communist outfit may be in trouble," Sutton declared. "Even the newsmen are scared stiff. They have their embassies all picked out for refuge."

Senate Liberals Rule Out Debate Curb Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators pressing for a change in Senate rules to make it easier to shut off filibusters maintained Thursday there was no danger the issue itself would set off a filibuster.

The bipartisan group of liberals called a news conference aimed at dispelling any idea that the fight could bog the Senate in a controversy lasting beyond the Jan. 20 inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

They said they can use a parliamentary device to bring the dispute to a vote if Southern senators opposing their move should attempt a filibuster.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told reporters the Southerners were "not stalling" but he said that as a practical matter he did not see how any vote could be taken before next week.

He said he understood some senators on both sides wanted a chance to speak first.

A short time later, the Senate agreed by voice vote to take up the proposed rules changes.

One of the proposed changes would permit filibusters to be halted by a majority of the senators, or 51 of the 100 members, and another by three-fifths of the senators voting. At present it takes the votes of two-thirds of the senators voting to limit debate.

At the news conference called by the liberal group, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-NY., said "We feel we have a majority for a rules change."

An outpouring of bills hit the Senate when it took time out from the filibuster fight to open shop for regular business.

The top designation of "S. 1," meaning Senate bill No. 1, was assigned to a $389.5 million depressed areas bill. Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., its chief sponsor, said the bill was a top item on President-elect John F. Kennedy's program.

By unanimous consent, the Senate agreed Wednesday to permit the introduction of bills and other routine business starting Thursday.

A Senate aide said senators introduced more than 200 bills Thursday.

In the House, where Democratic leaders are engaged in a backstage tussle over committee organization, bills have been flowing in since opening day. The House was in recess Thursday.

Indonesian Claims Backed By Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union said Thursday it supports Indonesian claims to West New Guinea and will help in the Jakarta government's struggle for the Dutch-held territory.

"The Soviet Union always supports the rightful demands of Indonesia for West Irian (New Guinea)," declared First Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan at a reception for visiting Indonesian officials. "I can assure you that the Soviet government will render friendly aid in your great struggle against the colonizers."

Farm Groups' Aid Enlisted By Kennedy

Will Help Formulate Policies; Conference Scheduled Jan. 26

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy turned to the farmers' own organizations Thursday for help in formulating future farm policies. He also took a look at the nation's receding economic position.

The incoming chief executive arranged at a conference with a small group of farm leaders for a big all-day meeting of farm leaders in Washington Jan. 26.

The Washington meeting will be held with incoming Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman presiding.

Freeman told a news conference following Thursday's session that the farm spokesman who met with Kennedy expressed willingness to help the new administration develop policies designed to bring greater stability to agriculture and to make a broad use of American farm surpluses for economic development abroad.

Lost In Farm States

In the election, Kennedy lost heavily in farm states.

Freeman said the two-hour conference at Kennedy's preinaugural headquarters did not go into specific programs or methods of accomplishing these goals. He said this would be something for the Washington conference to take up.

Following the farm conference, Kennedy met with economic advisers on the state of the nation's economy. He received a preliminary report on the economic situation from Prof. Paul Samuelson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

During the presidential campaign, Kennedy said the nation's economy was not as healthy as it should be. When he was appointed chairman of Kennedy's economic advisors last week, Walter Heller of the University of Minnesota said the nation had been in a recession for six months and that it would be a challenge to overcome it.

Not Abandoning Own Program

Freeman said the Washington farm conference will be attended by leaders of all major farm organizations and farm commodity groups as well as farm leaders in Congress.

In answer to a query, the secretary-designate said the fact that Kennedy was turning to the farm leaders does not mean that he was abandoning a farm program outlined during the presidential campaign.

That program envisioned a broad use of powers of the government — including rigid controls, production payments, price supports and other devices — to bring farm income to what Kennedy called a parity level.

June Allyson Seeks Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress June Allyson wants to end her 15-year marriage to actor-director director Dick Powell, attorney Jerry Giesler said Thursday.

The famed filmland attorney said he will file a divorce suit for the 37-year-old actress in Los Angeles within a few weeks.

"It's just one of those things, I guess," Giesler said.

The actress will charge mental cruelty. No specific charges will be made, Giesler said.

The marriage of the petite one-time Broadway ingenue and the handsome crooner-director was considered one of Hollywood's happiest. However, in recent years there were rumors of discord as Powell's expanding job as director and producer took him away from Hollywood.

Powell, 56, is now in Europe.

The marriage, on Aug. 19, 1945, at the Hollywood home of composer Johnny Green, was the first for Miss Allyson, a squeaky-voiced newcomer to films. It was the second for Powell, who had divorced actress Joan Blondell after eight years.

Miss Allyson was 21 at the time and Powell 41.

Kennedy Study Group Reports On 'Recession'

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy Thursday night received study committee recommendations for swift emergency measures to combat the business slump. The group also urged temporary tax cuts if the situation turns a great deal worse in the spring.

A task force appointed by Kennedy to evaluate the state of the economy cautioned, however, against pushing any panic button at this time and calling for a program of massive spending and public works.

Instead, the committee recommended use of a full kit of fiscal and monetary steps in an effort to end the business lag without resort to more drastic procedures.

"Powerful Weapon"

But the group said bluntly that if conditions should grow seriously worse "a temporary reduction in tax rates on individual incomes can be a powerful weapon against recession." The report added:

"Congress could legislate, for example, a cut of three or four percentage points in the tax rate applicable to every income class, to take effect immediately under our withholding system, in March or April and to continue until the end of the year."

The study committee said further that it would be highly desirable for Congress to grant to the new president the right to continue such a reduction for one or two six-month or three-month periods beyond that time, "with the clear understanding that the reduction will definitely expire by the end of 1962."

Kennedy Has No Comment

Kennedy had no immediate comment on the report. He met with the committee at his Carlyle Hotel headquarters shortly before it was made public.

The task force is headed by Dr. Paul A. Samuelson, economics professor at the Massachusetts institute of Technology.

The president-elect recently voiced concern about what he called a lack of vigor in the American economy. He noted that the Samuelson committe was at work on a study for him, and said at the time that he would make a judgment on what to do about the business lag after he takes office Jan. 20.

The committee report hit indirectly at Eisenhower administration policies and implied that if they had been different, the 1957 recession and the current slump could have been avoided.

The report calls the current situation a recession, but said it can not be termed a depression at this point.

U.S. Diplomats Doubt If Many Reds In Laos

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Many U.S. diplomats in Asia doubt the charges of their own government that substantial numbers of outside Communist forces have intervened in Laos, informed sources said Thursday.

Other members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, here for a council meeting, have been reluctant to accept the charges. SEATO statements so far have denounced Soviet arms aid to Laotian rebels but have made no mention of outside troop intervention.

Informed sources said U.S. diplomats in Laos and at this SEATO headquarters doubt that outside Communist forces in any large numbers are taking part in the fighting in the neighboring kingdom.

They said other U.S. officials in this area, apparently including representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency, are equally convinced that substantial numbers of Red troops have entered Laos.

One Western diplomat said it appears U.S. diplomats and CIA agents are dispatching conflicting reports to Washington, and the CIA reports have gained credence in the U.S. capital.

Washington Tuesday charged that "substantial numbers of North Vietnamese Communist personnel" were parachuted into Laos.

In this connection, a Laotian government spokesman in Vientiane asserted Thursday that Soviet planes have begun flying Red North Viet Nam troops out of Laos to prevent their being captured and identified.

Rioters Burn U.S. Flag In Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) —Anti-American rioters burned a U. S. flag, threw stones and battled police in downtown Montevideo Thursday at the climax of a leftist rally in support of Fidel Castro.

Police repeatedly charged the rioters and fired tear gas grenades to break up the Independence Square demonstration in clouds of eye-stinging smoke.

Senate Republican Post Retained By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater—Arizona's outspoken conservative—was reappointed chairman of the Republican Senate Campaign Committee Thursday with a solid vote of confidence.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who had questioned whether Goldwater should be continued in the job, said he was satisfied with the ground rules Goldwater laid down for the 1962 senatorial campaign in a closed meeting of Republican senators. Javits is up for re-election in 1962.

The conference chairman, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, said Goldwater made it clear he "simply would not express his personal views in a state where the party candidate had different views."

Javits said he made no objection when the conference, by voice vote, approved Saltonstall's reappointment of Goldwater. He said it was obvious Goldwater had overwhelming support.

Javits took issue with a statement criticizing the poor showing Goldwater said New York Republicans made in losing that state to President-elect John F. Kennedy.

The New Yorker, who had supported New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the GOP presidential nomination until the latter withdrew, told reporters he did not agree with Goldwater that New York Republicans had done badly in their campaign on behalf of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"We did very well in view of the fact that the tide was very strong against our candidate in New York," Javits said.

Debate Ends Without Vote On Complaint

Council In Effect Rejects Castro 'Invasion' Claim

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council in effect rejected Thursday night Cuba's charge that she faced imminent military invasion by the United States.

The 11-nation council did so by concluding a two-day debate without taking any formal action on a Cuban complaint filed Saturday saying such intervention was expected in a matter of hours.

This amounted to another defeat for the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro in its Soviet-supported campaign to have the United Nations denounce the United States as an instigator of moves to topple Castro from power by military force.

Omar Loutfi of the United Arab Republic, council president, ended the meeting with a terse expression of hope for reduction of tensions between the United States and Cuba.

Fist-Fights In Lobby

The council wound up its debate at 7:30 p.m. in an atmosphere of relative calm compared with outbursts by pro-Castro and anti-Castro demonstrators that disrupted proceedings Wednesday.

But some fist-fights erupted in the lobby of the General Assembly late Thursday afternoon and again outside U.N. headquarters. U.N. guards ousted the participants from the lobby and New York police broke up the fighting outside the building.

In a final intervention Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa persisted in charging that his country was in danger of military aggression by what he called the reactionary and imperialistic regime of President Eisenhower.

"This threat still hangs over Cuba despite the fact that the United States may deny it," he declared. He said invaders "will not meet a Cuba who is alone. They will not meet another Guatemala but they will really get their come-uppance."

Russia Sees U. S. Threat

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said the break in diplomatic relations was proof of a threat by the United States against Cuba. He expressed hope that the incoming Kennedy administration would "take the course of peaceful settlement of the conflict which has been created."

Chile and Ecuador decided not to press to a vote their resolution merely calling on the United States and Cuba to resolve their differences by peaceful means.

They took that course after the United States and other Western powers made clear that they opposed any action in the council that would give the slightest legal recognition to the validity of the Cuban complaint.

Nigeria Ousts French Envoy

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Protesting France's recent third atomic blast in the Sahara, Nigeria Thursday night ordered the French ambassador and his staff to leave within two days. It also barred French ships and planes.

Information Minister T. O. S. Benson told a news conference Ambassador Raymond Offroy must be gone by Saturday night. Transit of French ships and planes was barred immediately, he said.

Benson said sterner measures will be taken against France if Sahara testing goes on. This could mean a break of all November. It has since been a leader in the moderate progressive group of new African nations—somewhat apart from such countries as Guinea and Ghana, which lean left in the cold war, and the less assertive former French colonies.

Benson said sterner measures will be taken against France if Sahara testing goes on. This could mean a break of all diplomatic relations with France.

In Paris French government sources had no immediate comment. France has ignored protests against the Sahara testing of atomic devices, insisting they are necessary for development of a nuclear deterrent and that all explosions are carefully controlled.

Steamer To Rescue

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) — A century-old steam locomotive came out of the junkyard Thursday to substitute for a modern diesel. The powerful diesel-electric couldn't make the 24-mile run between Limerick and Ennis because of flooding on the line and the risk of short circuits.

No Army Secretary Post For Vandiver

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Ernest Vandiver withdrew himself Thursday from consideration as secretary of the Army because "my first duty is to the people of Georgia."

President-elect John F. Kennedy, in a wire from his New York headquarters, promptly acknowledged Vandiver's telegram of withdrawal and said: "I hope it will be possible for you, when you have completed your work there to join the administration in a position of responsibility."

He gave no hint of what other high post he might have in mind later for Vandiver, who has two years left in his term.

The 42-year-old governor's announcement ended days of speculation among Georgia politicos. Among these was Lt. Gov. Garland T. Byrd who, if Vandiver had gone to Washington, would have taken over the governor's chair and the hot potato of proposed new segregation legislation due to come up when the legislature meets two weeks hence.

In a note of bitterness, Vandiver's telegram said, "Irresponsible journalism by a New York Times writer, falsely alleging 'congressional pressure,' has been embarrassing to me." He referred to a Times report that Georgia's Sen. Richard E. Russell and Rep. Carl Vinson, chairmen respectively of the Senate and House Armed Services committees had brought pressure to bear on Vandiver's behalf. Vandiver is Russell's nephew by marriage.

Kennedy also took occasion in his reply "to reiterate at this time that on no occasion did you, the members of the Georgia congressional delegation, or any other citizen attempt to influence or pressure me in regard to this nomination."

Maryland Farm Agency Study In Final Stage

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A commission studying whether Maryland should create a Department of Agriculture neared the end of its report Thursday but said some final details remain to be worked out before recommendations are presented to Gov. Tawes and the legislature.

The six-man commission, headed by J. Homer Remsberg of Middleburg, a Frederick County dairy farmer, has held 11 meetings since it was appointed by Tawes last May at the request of the legislature. It also has visited and studied agriculture departments in Virginia and New Jersey.

The group is attempting to determine whether Maryland's agricultural affairs should remain in the hands of the University of Maryland Board of Regents, which also doubles as the State Board of Agriculture, or placed under a separate agency.

After a session which lasted all afternoon Thursday, Remsberg said the report probably would be completed within the next couple of weeks. He would give no indication of the group's thinking on its studies to date but said it had been making an "exhaustive survey."

It is expected to eventually come up with some recommendation which will create a new agency with an influential voice in agricultural affairs if it doesn't feel a separate department is necessary.

Algeria Tense On Eve Of Vote

ALGIERS (AP) — Armed and battle-tested French security forces took up positions throughout Algeria Thursday on the eve of the fateful referendum on this rebellious territory's future.

Sixteen warships of the French fleet steamed in from France and reinforced ships already on guard along the coast.

In three days of balloting beginning Friday, Algerians will vote yes, no, or abstain on President Charles de Gaulle's offer of self-determination for Algeria. Metropolitan France votes Sunday.

De Gaulle has staked his prestige on the outcome. If the vote is yes, then the actual vote on self-determination will come later. He has threatened to resign if he does not get a substantial majority.

Despite the cross-currents of discontent in this unhappy land, torn by six years of the Algerian nationalist revolt, it is generally believed that De Gaulle will get his majority. This is virtually assured by the large vote in France where his popularity remains immense.

Tension and agitation gripped both Algerians and European settlers in the big cities.

Some reports said the Europeans would stage demonstrations. Others said nationalist rebel terrorism was planned. There were rumors rebel forces across the border in Tunisia would attack frontier posts.

Driver License Files Trimmed By 621,600

BALTIMORE (AP) — A three-year reregistration of Maryland drivers turned up 621,600 obsolete licenses, the Department of Motor Vehicles reported Thursday.

Commissioner John R. Jewell said 1,130,998 drivers applied for new licenses before the Dec. 31 deadline. The department had mailed 1,752,598 applications to motorists listed in its files.

Jewell said most of the 621,600 obsolete licenses represent persons who are dead or who have moved without reporting their new addresses.

The commissioner said drivers who failed to reregister are using invalid licenses.

Six Charged With Selling 'Girly' Mags

BALTIMORE (AP)—Six Baltimore news dealers were charged Thursday with violating obscene literature laws by selling "girly" magazines.

Meanwhile, two other men pleaded innocent to charges brought Wednesday after a police raid on a West Baltimore Street book store. Police said more than 1,800 pornographic items were seized in that raid, many taken from behind "secret panels."

Albert King, 41, one of the six dealers indicted Thursday in Criminal Court on "girly" book charges, also was charged with possession and sale of strip tease photographs.

Two Young Sisters Die In Fire; Two Brothers Feared Drowned

By The Associated Press

Two young sisters died in a fire which destroyed their farm home near Frederick Thursday and two Maryland brothers were feared drowned in an apparent boating accident near Baltimore.

The brothers — fathers of nine children — have been missing since they left Sunday for a fishing trip in a home-made rowboat.

A Coast Guard search boat located the craft Thursday, partly submerged in shallow water of the Patapsco River west of Brooklyn, about two miles southwest of where the fishing trip began.

A search for the two — John Tolodziecki, 37, the father of four, and his brother Francis, 34, father of five — began the next day after they failed to return home from the fishing trip.

John is from Glen Burnie, and Francis is from Baltimore.

Dead in the early morning fire at the tenant farm home near Frederick were Nancy Moals, 9, and her sister, Helen, 6.

Their father, George B. Moals Jr., a Negro, made three trips into the flaming two-story house to save his family.

Moals was milking in a nearby barn when one of his sons, George 2nd, ran to him saying the house was afire. Moals rushed inside and helped his wife, Minnie, 31, and the couple's three-week-old daughter from a second floor window to the ground below.

Moals returned to the second floor and carried two boys, Jeffery, 4, and Marcus Lee, 7, to safety. But on his third trip into the burning house, Moals was blocked by flames and smoke from reaching his daughters.

Moals suffered face and chest burns and his wife was burned about the arms.

At Annapolis, a two-story hotel in a crowded Negro section was gutted by flames early Thursday and three firemen were treated for smoke inhalation.

Eight persons lived in the frame and stucco building in a densely populated area. Those who were there at the time escaped safely.

The fire, cause of which was not immediately determined, was confined to the single structure by fire companies from Annapolis, Eastport, West Annapolis and the Naval Academy.

At Forest Glen, an estimated $4,000 damage was caused by a fire in the annex here of Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

The fire was confined chiefly to a space beneath the hobby shop floor.

Boy's Shooting "One In Million" Accident

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — State's Atty. James F. Strine Thursday described the fatal shooting of a 13-year-old boy last week as "a one in a million" type of accident.

He said no charges would be filed against another youth who fired the bullet that struck Philip Shank, son of Robert Shank, executive director of the Hagerstown Housing Authority.

According to Strine, at least four youths were in a large field outside of Hagerstown last Friday in separate groups, apparently unaware others were in the area.

Young Shank was felled by a shot fired by 18-year-old George N. Rowe, Strine said. Rowe was 1,750 feet away from Shank, who was hidden by a rise in the field.

Maryland Briefs

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) — Sentences of two years each have been imposed on four men who were stopped at a police roadblock on U.S. 40 near Aberdeen.

Police said the car in which they were riding also was carrying five pay telephones, including one stolen a short time earlier at a service station.

The sentences were imposed Wednesday by Magistrate Robert Lawder on Barksdale Carter of Arlington, Va.; George Hebb of Oxon Hill, Md., and Burgess Johnson and William Johnson, both of Washington.

HALETHORPE, Md. (AP)—Police report that two windows of a Baltimore and Ohio commuter train out of Washington were smashed by shots fired at the Lansdowne Crossing.

The shooting took place Wednesday night, police said. No one was injured. An investigation indicated the bullets were from a .22 caliber rifle or pistol, but there was no clue as to who fired them.

Damage was estimated at $150.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Injuries suffered in a fall on the ice in front of his home Sunday were fatal Thursday to Donald Villalla, 48, of Baltimore. Physicians said a blood clot formed when Villalla struck his head in the fall.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore man whose wife was killed in the crash of an Electra turboprop plane near Tell City, Ind., last March has brought a $1.5 million suit against Northwest Airlines, Inc.

Mario M. Gentile filed the suit in federal court for himself and as administrator of the estate of his wife, Elizabeth Jane. Mrs. Gentile was one of 63 passengers killed in the crash.

Gentile contends that the airline operated the plane in a negligent manner.

BALTIMORE (AP) — You could hardly say things went smoothly for Maurice D. Laupeimer as he started to drive away from the front of his home Wednesday night.

His car lurched and came to a tipsy stop. Investigating, Laupeimer found the left front wheel had been stolen. The thief left the car resting on a stack of lumber.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Republicans apparently believe in getting an early start on campaigning chores in Baltimore County.

GOP leaders have announced a rally Monday night to kick-off the 1962 campaign. "The job is just beginning," said Mrs. Christine H. Nathan, a member of the Republican State Central Committee.

Police Drag River For Missing Pilot

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — State Police began dragging operations in the icy waters of the Choptank River Thursday as a search continued for a missing Marine Corps student pilot.

Two Marine helicopters from Quantico, Va., provided assistance as aerial search efforts were maintained throughout the day in the hunt for Capt. Ernest C. Brace.

The 29-year-old officer was lost Tuesday when his T28 trainer crashed and burned near the edge of a cornfield across the Choptank, just north of this Eastern Shore city.

A helmet, parachute and flight jacket were found near the flaming wreckage. A full-scale ground and air search ended Wednesday, with authorities convinced Brace must have come down in the cold water just east of the Chesapeake Bay.

W. Virginia Coal Lands Leased To New Corporation

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co. announced Thursday it has leased to Utilities Coal Corp., the bituminous coal and surface lands of Boone County Coal Corp. Boone is a wholly owned subsidiary of Lehigh C. & N.

The lease for the Boone properties, located in West Virginia is for 40 years with an option to renew for an additional 40-years. Mining operations at Boone were discontinued Nov. 4, 1960.

Utilities Coal, a newly formed corporation with operating offices in Sharples, W. Va., and headquarters at Huntington, W. Va., proposes to operate Boone under the name of Boone County Coal Corp.

Boone also entered into a two-year option agreement with certain individuals associated with Utilities Coal to purchase the leased property for $1,500,000. The firm's buildings, mining structures, equipment, materials and supplies have been sold to Utilities Mining Corp. for $865,000, payable over a term of eight years or less.

Woman To Woman

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Hospitals need more patience with patients,"

A doctor — not a patient — makes that point in a report in "Modern Hospital," a journal for the nation's hospital administrators.

Dr. Fred Singeisen, medical director of the psychiatric hospital in St. Gallen, Switzerland, doesn't want patients to get the notion that they're being short-changed in medical matters, however.

"While patients in hospitals are generally extremely well cared for physically, not nearly enough is done to promote their mental well-being," he said.

The champion for more tender loving care in hospitals isn't in favor of all about the sick person acting sentimental. He doesn't want patients coddled, for example.

"In our view," he reported, "psychology in hospitals means extending our helping attitudes to patients and carrying out the human duty we all took upon ourselves when we chose the hospital as the setting for our work, whether as doctor, administrator or nurse."

One trouble cited by the expert occurs in some hospitals when a patient dares not to ask questions even when inwardly alarmed.

Another problem concerns the patient's anxiety about surgery.

"There is the uncanny feeling of putting oneself at another's mercy," Dr. Singeisen said. "Anesthesia gives rise to a feeling of being overpowered and brought close to death.

"In our research on this problem, we had some children write school essays of their hospital experiences, and many of them wrote of being afraid that the doctor would make a mistake and they would never wake up again."

Then the research team asked itself what to do about such problems. Among answers, Dr. Singeisen cited the following:

— A recommendation that patients be made to feel emotionally that they are in good hands. The expert said this is accomplished when all about the patient, from ward maids to the hospital director, are hospitable and good-spirited.

— A recommendation that no surly porters or ill-mannered clerks be tolorated.

Girl Finds New Home In Wake Of Tragedy

NEW YORK (UPI) —Little Patricia McKiernan will have a new home when she leaves the hospital early next week.

Patricia is the three-and-one-half year old girl who spent five days locked in a bedroom after her widowed mother, Jennie, died of a heart attack, apparently while taking a nap.

A sister of Mrs. McKiernan, Mrs. Matthew Mahoney of Amityville, N.Y., said she plans to adopt Patricia and rear her with her own four children. There had been several offers from around the country to adopt the girl.

A spokesman for Misericordia Hospital in the Bronx said Patricia ate solid food for the first time Wednesday. Although she is still on the critical list because of a high temperature, the spokesman said the girl is "alert, responsive and acting like a typical three-year-old in a hospital."

Focus On Health

By The Associated Press

Does a chill set you up for getting a cold? And can fiddler crabs provide a test for pregnancy?

COLDS

Getting chilled does not make you more likely to catch a cold.

This is one finding from studies in which volunters were injected with one virus responsible for common colds. Persons subjected to chills or to fatigue beforehand didn't get significantly more colds.

Most resistant, researchers found, were people who didn't think they would get a cold, who didn't think emotions influenced physical well-being, and who didn't have any particular worry or concern in their lives at the time.

PREGNANCY

Fiddler crabs, the little animals that skitter along beaches, may provide a cheap and simple test for pregnancy.

The color of their shell is controlled by a gland in the stalks which support the crab's protruding eyes. If the stalks are removed, the hormone is removed and the shell color changes.

The crab's color hormone is similar to a hormone produced early in human pregnancy, and present in urine samples. Experiments so far indicate the human hormone can change the color in stalk-less crabs, and thus provide a pregnancy test, researchers at the medical college of South Carolina report.

BLOATING

A chemical made from silicone —abundant in common sand — looks promising in overcoming excessive intestinal gas and bloating, judging from 200 patients tested thus far.

The product, methyl polysiloxane, brought excellent results in 73, good in 78, some improvement in 38, and had no effect in 13, report Drs. J. Alfred Rider and Hugo C. Moeller of San Francisco.

CANCER RESEARCH

Dr. Relda Cailleau, University of California cancer researcher, now has succeeded in growing human lung cancer tissue in test tubes.

This means the physical and chemical behavior of lung cancer can at last be studied under controlled conditions. The tissue came from part of the lung of a barber, 59, whose cancer was removed a year ago. He is still alive and in good health.

Animals feel pain less than humans do because their nervous systems are not as highly organized.

NEW YORK (AP)—Don't become overly bullish about the stock market at this point, a leading investment advisory service warns.

Standard & Poor's Corp. points out that about 11 per cent already has been added to average share values in a little more than two months.

It suggests that investment of reserve funds should be on a sparing basis, limited to singularly promising selections.

Standard & Poor's reminds that selectivity was the keynote to successful investing in 1960, and expresses belief it may have to be stressed even more this year.

If the recession proves to be mild and runs its course in the first half, 1961 could prove to be a more rewarding year to investors than 1960 but there are reasons to believe the economic recovery will be quite gradual, it says.

The anticipated bull market is likely to turn out to be "a bull of a different color," comments Shields & Co.

It notes that during 1960 a great deal of money withdrew from market and now a great deal is poised to return.

"This is how we will build our bull market this year," it continues.

"But during the next couple of years there are not going to be too many companies racing to fill the market void. The laurels will go to organizations which are inventive, competitive and cost-conscious. You will not be able to select the stocks you need by tossing darts at the market pages.

"The coming bull market looks to us like a market which may proceed with fits and starts, getting ahead of itself every so often. It is going to require a new and more astute kind of investment thinking."

Dairymen Face Contempt Move

BALTIMORE (AP)—Officials of three Eastern Shore dairies have been given until Jan. 13 to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of federal court.

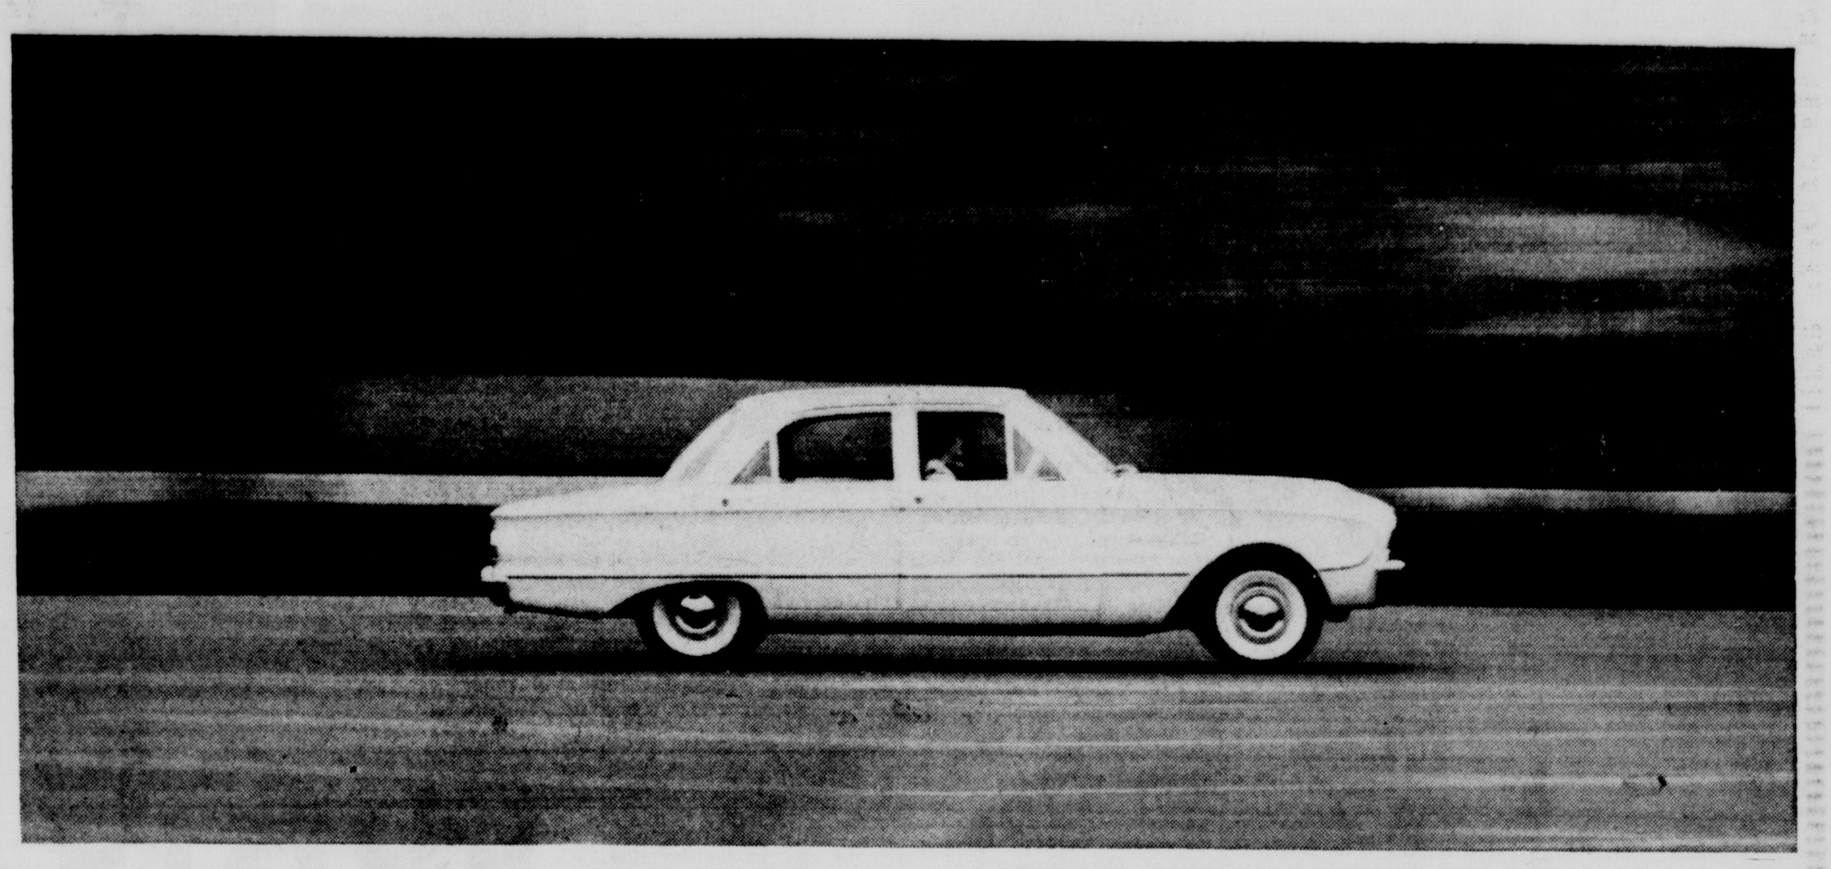

The order was issued in Baltimore Thursday by Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen after U.S. Atty. Leon H.A. Pierson charged that the dairymen had filed deficient records relating to a milk marketing order.

The dairies involved are Mills Dairy Products, Co. and Twilley's City Dairy, both of Cambridge, and Shiloh Dairy Farms of Hurlock. All three oppose a marketing order that includes their operations along with dairies in the Baltimore area.

The dairymen had agreed to comply with the order last October after the federal court had threatened them with contempt proceedings.

Why Falcon has won the battle of the compacts

The truth of the matter is this: there can be only one best seller in any field.
In compact cars, this honor goes to the Ford Falcon . . . overwhelmingly!
Unwrapped just 14 months ago, Falcon has already sold over 525,000 cars.
These sales represent the greatest automotive success since cars began.

1960 will be remembered as Falcon's year.

This was the year Falcon won the attle of the Compacts.

It was a fascinating battle. America was asked to choose from 11 different compact cars. Each one offered something different, something new. Each one had its own ideas on what America wanted in compact cars. There were rear engines, aluminum engines, 4-cylinder, 6-cylinder, 8-cylinder engines, rear transmissions, mighty horsepower, meek horsepower, expensive luxury models, cheap bare-bone models.

It was confusing in the beginning. But as sales figures began to come in . . . as state after state reported its registrations . . . a trend began to take shape.

America was going Falcon!
By March it was fairly certain.
By July it was in the bag.
By December it was a landslide!

Today over 525,000 people own Falcons . . . the greatest popular vote any new car has ever received from its introduction through its first full year. In fact, so great is the popular demand for Falcon, that every 30 seconds of every working day somebody else buys one. Just what has Falcon got the others have not? It's not just one thing . . . it's many things . . . a combination of features you can't find in any other compact except Falcon.

Economy is one of these features. All compacts save you money in some ways . . . but only Falcon saves you all ways. Falcon goes up to 30 miles on one gallon of regular gas. A proven fact! Falcon goes 4,000 miles between oil changes. With Falcon's Diamond Lustre Finish, you can forget waxing . . . forever! And because Falcon is a true compact, it costs less to service, less to license and, depending upon where you live, less to insure. Many of today's compacts are so big, so powerful, they cost about as much to buy and run as a big car. No other compact saves you as much as Falcon. It took no time for America to see this.

Another reason why Falcon has won the Battle of the Compacts: family comfort. Falcon is a full 6-passenger car . . . in every sense of the word. You can't say that about every other compact. For example, Falcon's rear seat is almost one full foot wider than another compact's.

There's also enough luggage space in Falcon's trunk so you can take off for weeks at a time. Not so with every other compact. One in particular has only about half as much trunk space.

Perhaps the greatest Falcon surprise of all is its cheery interior. All the luxury hasn't been stripped out of this compact! Falcon offers a car that is pleasant, comfortable . . . yes, even elegant . . . to sit in. Falcon has all the pleasantries: coat hooks, front arm rests, sun visors, foam-padded front seat, rich upholstery—all the little luxuries you never miss until somebody takes them away. And Falcon doesn't charge extra for these luxuries. They're all included in that low Falcon price—at not one penny's extra cost.

Finally there is the question of price. And here is where Falcon read America's mind perfectly. Compacts are smaller cars. Their prices should be smaller . . . much smaller! A good many of today's compacts are actually priced more than many big cars. To give you an idea of the difference between compact prices, let's compare Falcon with the field.

The Ford Falcon is America's very lowest-priced 6-passenger car.* And not by mere pennies. It is priced as much as $505† less than other compacts. There is a $505 price difference between Falcon and the highest-priced compact.

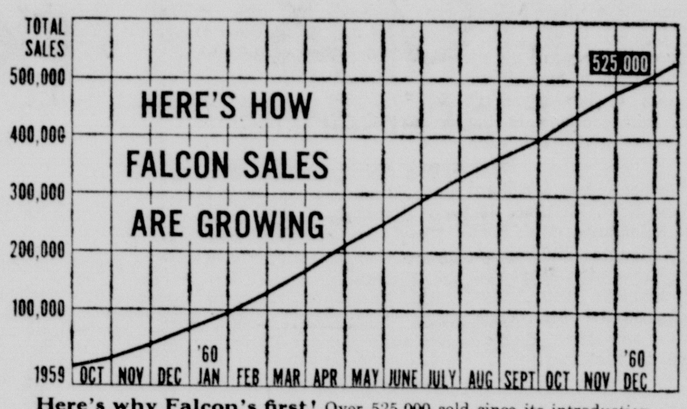

To be sure, we could have built the Falcon differently. It would have been easy to make it larger, more elaborate, frillier and more expensive. We could have made it smaller and stripped it down to four wheels and an engine. We could have given it a V-8 or a 4-cylinder engine . . . transmission in the rear, aluminum everywhere, a rear engine. We could have done many different, unusual things . . . but we didn't. And apparently the public agreed with us!

The Falcon's design makes beautiful sense. It gives you a combination of three built-in bonuses . . . found in no other compact. The first of these is price. There just isn't a lower-priced 6-passenger car made in America today. Falcon is the rock-bottom lowest!

The second Falcon savings bonus might be entitled, "The Easiest Car In The World To Own." You cash in on it every day you own a Falcon. It includes the hundred-and-one ways Falcon costs less to run . . . the savings on gas, oil, waxing, mufflers, servicing, licensing, insurance.

The third Falcon savings bonus comes at trade-in time. You'll find yourself in a very enviable bargaining position with one of the hottest resale cars ever. A December issue of Automotive Market Reports shows that Falcon depreciates from $138 to $175 less than the other compacts in its class. Falcon is as popular used—as it is new!

Easier to buy, easier to own, easier to sell—the ideal combination of everything you want most in a compact. Only Falcon has it. That's why only Falcon could be America's best-selling compact!

Here's why Falcon's first! Over 525,000 sold since its introduction makes Falcon the most successful new car in automotive history. And Falcon not only leads all other compacts—it breaks its own sales records, too. November Falcon sales jumped a whopping 46% over November a year ago!

Secrets Of Charm

Resort Clothes Preview Fashion

Lucky you, if you're leaving soon for a winter vacation in warmer climes. While you count this blessing among all your others, add another—getting a head start on setting the pace in style for next spring and summer. You'll not only be outfitted in advance, but you will have the cream of couture to draw upon in resort fashions on display right now.

Take your shopping plunge with a new swimsuit. Swimwear is celebrating a change in cycle, heralding a return to the "Lady Look." No longer is the only two-piece suit a bumptious bikini. Instead, it's smooth fitting boy-leg trunks topped with a figure-flattering elasticized over blouse. Sometimes belted or collared for a sportswear look.

The two heavy favorites in one-piece suits are the bareback knit maillot, haltered high in front, and the neat pleated skirt with an easy bodice, chic descendant of old-fashioned dressmaker designs.

Moderate exposure and modest deportment are the fascinating keys in this new pitch for feminity in swimwear. But, make no mistake about it, the FIT is there. So, although the showgirl look is gone, girlishness still shows, to its prettiest advantage.

Other early-bird trends to take along on your winter trip include stripes, bolder than ever, pale prints, blurred for a water color effect; fresh light plaids in dainty pastel tones like peach, shrimp pink, lavender or apple green.

Today's resort-wear fabrics, principally silk and cotton, take on almost any texture to imitate every conceivable material. Novelty weaves, knits, cords, shantungs and sheers shot with embroidered or lacey designs make monotony impossible in the new wardrobe you'll enjoy wearing all through 1961.

The New York Couture Group, Inc., annually asks some 2,500 style experts and society leaders to make the selections. Mrs. John F. Kennedy, first-lady elect of the United States, was chosen to top the list. Left to right are Queen Sirikit of Thailand; Mrs. Loel Guiness, of Paris and Palm Beach; Mrs. Norman K. Jr. Civic Club Selects Project

A long-term project was selected by the Junior Woman's Civic Club at its first meeting of the year at the Civic Club house, Washington Street, Wednesday evening. Mrs. K. O. Nelson presided.

Mrs. Wesley McGraw reported on her committee's recommendations for the project. Four were made and the club accepted the choice of the committee to sponsor Friends Aware.

Mrs. Nelson read an invitation from Sacred Heart Auxiliary to join the hospital junior auxiliary now being organized. The first meeting will be January 17 at the nurses home, Decatur Street.

A letter of appreciation was read from John Moberly, superintendent of Memorial Hospital, for the club's gift of the only modern isolette in the area.

Mrs. Ralph Sell Jr., chairman of the distinguished service award nominating committee, announced her committee's selection of Joseph Pellerzi, principal of Oldtown High School, for this award sponsored by the Cumberland Junior Association of Commerce.

Two new members were introduced by Mrs. Bertram Friedland, membership chairman. They are Mrs. John Durr and Mrs. Edward Weber.

William Barger was guest speaker. He discussed "Civil Defense in Allegany County." Miss Helene Knippenberg assisted Mr. Barger in coordinating women's place in civil defense.

The next meeting of the club will be held January 25 because of the conflicting date of its regularly scheduled meeting with the Tri-State Community Council.

Refreshments were served by Mrs. Mark Lazarus Jr., chairman of the hospitality committee. She was assisted by Mrs. Miles Thompson Jr., Mrs. Bruce Douglas and Mrs. Joseph Pellerzi.

Personals

Mrs. Shirley Norris, 209 Reynolds Street, is a patient in Memorial Hospital.

Floyd Pfeiffer, Short Gap, is seriously ill in University Hospital, Morgantown.

Mrs. Norman F. Geatz Sr., 11 South Smallwood Street, who underwent surgery December 29 in Sacred Heart Hospital, remains a patient there.

Mrs. Kennedy Heads Best Dressed List

By PAT HERMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, whose ultra-chic wardrobe became an issue in her husband's presidential campaign, Thursday won top place on the list of best dressed women for 1960.

The wife of the president-elect was one of 12 women cited by the New York Couture Group based on its yearly poll of fashion writers and columnists.

Some critics during the campaign accused Mrs. Kennedy of spending too much on clothes and of favoring European designers.

The "best dressed list" gave no estimate of her expenditures but it noted that the designers she liked were Americans Norman Norell, Ben Zuckerman, Oleg Cassini and the custom dressmakers of the New York department store, Bergdorf Goodman.

Tall, dark-haired Mrs. Kennedy told the press on the day after her husband's election that being a pacesetter in fashion was "at the bottom of the list" of things that she considered important.

Fashion critics ignored this and placed her above such well known fashion plates as Audrey Hepburn, Princess Alexandra of Kent, Mrs. Stavros Niarchos and the Queen of Thailand.

Other women on the top drawer fashion list came mostly from the world of society. They were Vicomtesse Jacqueline de Ribes of Paris; Mrs. Norman K. Winston of New York and Paris; Donna Marella Agnelli, of Turin, Italy; Mrs. Loel Guiness of Paris and Palm Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Patrick Guiness (a daughter by a previous marriage, now wed to her stepson); Mrs. John Barry Ryan IIII of New York City, and Mrs. David K. Bruce of Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Kennedy has a mannequin sized figure and clothes tastes that are distinctly American. It is expected that as first lady she will emphasize American designs. She likes high styled unfitted silhouettes in dresses, loose but neatly buttoned coats and bright colors. She has never favored hats.

Mrs. Kennedy designed her own gown for the inaugural ball. The president-elect approved the sketches. Bergdorf Goodman is executing the gown.

Hadassah Meeting Postponed

Solons Given Gavels Of Wood From Local Home

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gavels made of wood from an old house near Cumberland were presented Thursday to the Senate president and House speaker.

Sen. Charles Sec. R - Allegany presented them in behalf of the Allegany County Historical Society.

Brief background provided by Miss Ruth Clauson, president of the society, was read to the two bodies of legislators.

The wood came from a house built in the late 18th century on a site near Cumberland now known as Wolfe's Mill. Originally, it was called Folch's Mill.

The State Roads Commission bought the property on U.S. 40 in 1956 from the estate of Mrs. Emma Clauson Wolfe and razed the house.

The site was the scene of a Civil War battle. Miss Clauson stated logs from the house from which the gavels were made contained Confederate bullets.

Wet Dog Taste

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reports on the preservation of food by irradiation bring different opinions from opposite sides of the Atlantic, the American Chemical Society reports.

American researchers report that while radiation does indeed produce detectable changes in the flavor of meat, the public may still become accustomed to it. But British scientists report that radiation imparts to meat a "wet dog taste."

COLD CLIMATE DISEASE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Young adults are the chief victims of multiple sclerosis, a disease which strikes as many as one in 720 Americans.

Essentially a cold-climate disease, the prevalence of multiple sclerosis is 5 to 10 times higher in the northern states of the nation than in the southern states, according to a report in Patterns of Disease, a publication for doctors.

For The Birds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Here's snowy-day fun for youngsters, combined with a good deed. Set them to work at preparing a feast for the birds.

In her book, "Fun With Kids," Sheri Lewis gives several suggestions: chains of popcorn, cranberries, apple pieces or peanuts. As a special treat, your small fry might enjoy making a peanut-butter cup. For this, they will need a paper cup—with sides cut down to make it shallow, a loop of thread to hold the tiny tucket and a mixture of peanut butter and bread crumbs. As soon as the snow stops, this quick-lunch stand can be hung on a bush or low branch.

Italian Mayor Commutes 7,500 Miles To His Job

SCHIGNANO, Italy (UPI)—The mayor of this Alpine village left home, told his wife not to wait for him at lunch time and headed for the city hall—just 7,500 miles away.

Commuters who complain of the distance between their homes and offices probably wouldn't envy Aurelio Gelpi, mayor of this village of 1,200 in the Intelvi Valley, only a few miles from deep blue Lake Como.

Gelpi makes a 12-hour trip aboard a jet airliner from Sao Paulo, Brazil, where he became a wealthy building contractor after emigrating ther several decades ago, every time he comes to his office here.

The mayor, a strongly built man with a winning smile, admitted he cannot be expected to sit in his office here every weekday.

"But I hope I can come here at least twice every month," ne promised his voters.

In a four-year term, air tickets from Sao Paulo to Milan and back are expected to cost him about 40 million lire ($64,000), which he pays out of his own pocket.

The first citizen of this lonely village was elected to his job without any campaigning.

Votes carrying his name poured into the ballot box in November. Other candidates, who had campaigned vigorously, suffered a humiliating defeat.

The mayor was the only person who did not know he was elected. Italian Post and Telegraph Minister E. Spallino, who married one of his nieces, broke the announcement to Gelpi in a cable to Sao Paulo.

"Who? Me? Stop kidding," the new mayor of Schignano said.

But it was not a hoax. Gelpi boarded a plane and arrived to tell his voters he was flattered but could not accept the job.

"But Schignano would plunge into an unprecedented political crisis if you refuse," the village solons told him.

Gelpi was unable to withdraw and stayed in office.

"I cannot betray the village where I was born," he said.

New Traffic Laws In Japan Are Confusing

By LEROY HANSEN

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan recently put into effect new nationwide traffic laws. The result: Mass confusion.

Drivers were confused, pedestrians were confused and traffic cops, the majority of whom do not know how to drive, also were confused.

The new laws did not get off to an auspicious start. No wonder, the laws were made up, in some instances, of a brand of double talk which hardly anyone could interpret or understand.

Take this gem:

"A one-eyed person can qualify to drive a motorbike with a cylinder displacement of less than 50 c.c. and light motor vehicles with a speed of less than 15 kilometers (9.3 miles) if he has an eyesight of more than .5 and a visual field of more than 150 degrees."

And be careful if you want to hold a parade, partimx 1ob;6if a giraffe is included. Says the law:

"A parade of more than 100 members of the self-defense forces and processions of more than 100 persons bearing flags, placards and banners or a group of persons accompanied by such large sized animals as giraffes and elephants must keep to the right side of the right half of the road except when directed otherwise by traffic officers."

Japan has a serious traffic problem. Plagued with an insufficient highway system, it has seen the number of automobiles increase from 188,000 in 1947 to the current more than 3 million. They are increasing at the rate of 40,000 monthly. Some 318,093 accidents from January through September last year killed 8,347 persons and injured 206,965.

But critics have complained the government has not done all it should to ease the situation.

Language of the new laws already has come under fire, particularly road signs which are scheduled to be put up shortly. (In Japan, road signs carry both Japanese ideographs and English translations.) Some read:

"May parking."

"May stopping."

"May parking and stopping."

"Section for sound of horn."

This one caused many a driver to scratch his head: "Right turn toward immediate outside."

The Mainichi Daily News said editorially such signs would make Japan appear ridiculous in the eyes of visitors.

It said it asked the police agency about the "strange signs" and was told that the wording already had been decided "by law" and that they could not make any immediate changes.

"Frequently," Mainichi said, "this problem becomes a matter of face. The one responsible will vehemently insist on having the error continue rather than be called on the carpet by his superior . . ."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: The wet noodle comes out of retirement—or better still, I'll take ten swats with Webster's dictionary, unabridged.

Did you know that when sisters marry, the husbands of said sisters are not even remotely related? I'll bet you thought the boys were brothers-in-law. Well, so did I—but I know better now. About 400 readers have told me.

I will explain it as dozens of readers explained it to me:

Princess Margaret is a sister-in-law to Prince Phillip, because she is his wife's sister. But Margaret's husband, Mr. Jones, is no relation whatever to Prince Phillip. They are just a couple of nice boys who married sisters.

My apologies to the reader who asked the original question. And my thanks to all you nice people who wrote to set me straight.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been dating Joe for over a year. We work in the same plant and I knew he was married but he said it wasn't working out. Joe never spoke of his wife, except to say she was sloppy and stupid.

In August I went to the company picnic with some girls from the plant. Joe hung around me as usual. One of his buddies came over and warned me to "be careful" because Joe's wife and kids had just arrived on the bus. When I saw them I almost died. His wife looked about 50 years old and she had six little kids hanging on to her skirts. Three were still in diapers.

I felt so ashamed of myself I was sick to my stomach. Joe ignored them as if they were strangers. Finally I told him to leave me alone and go to his family. I've been feeling so guilty that I'm sure the only way I can square things with myself is to go to his wife and beg her forgiveness. Should I?—LOWER THAN LOW

DEAR LOWER THAN: No. YOU may feel better, but it won't help her much.

The best way to square yourself is to stay as far away from Joe as possible. Best of all, why don't you find another job?

Women like you, who date married men, flatter the vanity of these Tomcats and encourage prowling. They should be blocked at the very first pass, told to grow up and go home to their families—where they belong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are three teens with a problem which has nothing to do with boys for a change.

My father has a younger brother who lives in a big city far away from here. I will call him Uncle Pete.

He was the "black sheep" of the family and ran away from home when he was 15. He got into trouble and disgraced the family. No one heard anything from him for about 15 years. Last May he came to town to surprise his mother on her 70th birthday. He had a big car, swell clothes and said he was doing fine in the construction business. He was awfully nice to everybody but my Dad gave him the cold shoulder. (Mom said he was jealous of Pete's success.)

Last week my sisters and I each got a $20 check from Uncle Pete—Christmas money. Dad says to return it because it may be "tainted." Mom says he is respectable now and we should forget the past. We need your advice.—SISTERS

DEAR SISTERS: When in doubt assume the best, not the worst. I say keep the money and thank Uncle Pete.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Local Home Broken Into

City Police are investigating the breaking and entering of a North Cumberland home Wednesday night in which the intruder ransacked the residence and made off with an estimated $40 in cash.

According to Detective Kenneth Morrissey, the entry was made at the home of Mrs. Rose E. Felton, 539 Columbia Avenue, while she was away from the premises between 8 and 10:30 p. m.

Entry was made by forcing the kitchen door, Detective Morrissey said. The first and second floors of the residence were left a shambles, he said, when the intruder threw clothing and the contents of dresser and bureau drawers on the floor.

Definitely missing were about $30 in a billfold that was taken from a bedroom, and about $10 that was in a purse in the kitchen of the home, Detective Morrissey said.

Farm Tax Records Will Be Available

County Agent Joseph M. Steger said last night that he is ordering a supply of farm income tax record books from the University of Maryland for distribution to farmers interested in keeping accurate financial records.

Mr. Steger said that about 25 farmers each year get these record books from him.

"Whatever system you use in keeping your records, they should show all your receipts and all your expenditures for the year for what purpose," the county agent added. "Only by keeping good records can you be sure that you will pay the correct tax required by law and no more."

Bedford Road Man Enlists In Navy

Airman Dick will complete nine weeks of intensive recruit training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Ill., prior to being assigned to the Naval Aviation field for training in or about naval aircraft.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—David Janssen, that good-looking workhorse of 1960 starts out 1961 at the same hot clip. On Jan. 24 David starts "Twenty Plus Two," Frank Gruber's story about the search for missing heirs, at Allied Artists. Almost as exciting as the story are David's two leading ladies, Jeanne Crain and Dina Merrill.

During 1960 all David was—starred in four movies, nine "Richard Diamond" TV chapters, played two weeks of stock in the East and completed a pilot for a new series.

P.S.—And personal to David: How are you going to find time for those friendly little poker games with the Walter Langs and the Pete Rugulos?

Hollywood producers continue to grab potential Broadway hits before the opening night curtain goes up, the latest being Jack Warner who just closed the deal to make a movie of Jean Kerr's "Mary, Mary." Mrs. Kerr, wife of drama critic Walter Kerr, is rapidly becoming one of those lucky sure-bet authors. I hear she didn't like the movie version of her "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" with Doris Day, but the paying public certainly did. Also Jean's new book, "The Snake Has All the Lines," is already high on the best seller list.

Michael Rennie is in "Mary, Mary" on Broadway—but Warner will later announce an all-star cast for the film.

Just before George Marshall took off for Madrid he telephoned he was head to Spain to await the arrival of Rita Hayworth and Rex Harrison, who will co-star in "The Oldest Confession."

"We will be in Spain for some time and I am looking forward to directing this particular picture. It is my 412th, and I will enjoy working with Rita and Rex. I am glad and grateful to be so busy," George said. "Some of the locations will be rough," he told me, "but I won't mind that."

It always surprises me when our stars who made their fame and name in Hollywood, are so glad to get away. Joan Fontaine telephoned to say she was looking forward to living in New York where she has an apartment.

"I've rented my house here, when I come back I'll take a small apartment, because I expect to make New York my home," Joan told me.

She said she's going to do a TV series of family classics, and one of the plays she'll make is "The Heiress," which is a motion picture that brought her sister Olivia De Havilland so much fame.

Joan spent Christmas in Kennebuckport, Maine, where her daughter Martita goes to school. She also had her daughter Debbie Dozier with her. She said when she divorced Collier Young on Tuesday he didn't even have a lawyer to represent him. "I got a very good settlement from his 'Alcoa' TV show," she said.

The new wrist watch with diamond studded face which Elvis Presley is wearing was not given to him by a girl. It's a gift from RCA-Victor to whom he has been under contract for about five years, and is in appreciation for Elvis having sold millions of dollars worth of records. The back of the watch is engraved with this information, which makes the record official.

Frank Sinatra didn't get a watch from Capitol Records. There were hurt feelings when he left this recording company and formed his own organization.

Funds Allotted For FSTC Projects

Gov. Tawes yesterday approved the appropriation of $222,300 for capital improvements at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The list of capital improvements at Maryland's colleges and universities in the next fiscal year was announced today by the governor.

His recommendations covering over $1,000,000 in projects at the state teachers colleges are to be submitted to the General Assembly in the administration's bond bill scheduled to be submitted along with his budget during the 90-day session which convened yesterday.

At Frostburg, the major outlay would be for $92,800 for the remodeling of the old dining hall in Frost Hall into an infirmary and additional living space.

The next most important would be $69,000 for acquisition of land for a new library and another $6,000 for the preparation of preliminary plans for the new library.

Another $25,000 would go toward replacing heat and water lines between Frost and Allegany halls. This includes drains on the second and third floors of Frost Hall.

The governor also recommended the expenditure of $20,000 for equipping the new women's residence hall now under construction and $9,500 for construction of an incinerator.

Today Tawes announced $4,274,100 in approved capital expenditures for the University of Maryland approximately $3 million less than requested, and $1,103,000 for Morgan State College.

The university's main expenditures include $2,830,700 for the College Park campus, of which $1,044,200 will go for construction of a men's dormitory, $800,000 for an addition and site improvements to the physics building, and $455,000 for construction of a new 40-bed infirmary.

Most of the other expenditures will go for equipment for dormitories, equipping renovated Taliaferro Hall, and acquisition of six properties totaling 14 acres adjacent to the campus.

An additional $1,156,500 would be spent on the professional schools' Baltimore campus, chiefly for completing the renovation of the former Hecht Co. building and $286,900 is earmarked for Maryland State College at Princess Anne, including $282,800 for construction of a new 72-bed women's dormitory and $4,100 for utilities.

The allocations among teachers colleges include $350,000 for Towson, $185,000 for Salisbury, $145,000 for Coppin and $99,700 for Bowie.

The most expensive items are $125,000 for new boilers at Salisbury, $200,000 for land acquisition and $143,000 for a new infirmary at Towson, and $81,000 to convert a dining hall into an infirmary at Bowie.

Youth Held For Jury In Area Theft

ROMNEY — An 18-year-old Hampshire County boy is being held in the county jail here for action of the next grand jury on two charges of grand larceny.

Being held is Philip Nelson Gower, Green Spring, who was given a preliminary hearing on the charges Wednesday before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell.

Gower was ordered held in jail in default of $2,000 bond, court attaches said.

The case was prosecuted by Sgt. C. S. Burke of the local State Police detachment, who said the larcenies reportedly were committed at the New Century Hotel where Gower had been employed as a porter.

The complaint was made by Mrs. Virginia Williams, co-owner of the hotel with her husband, John Williams. According to testimony at yesterday's hearing, Gower reportedly took hotel funds in the amount of several hundred dollars over a period of several months, late last year.

Jean Reinhard Joins Local Library Staff

Miss Reinhard formerly served as executive secretary of the Allegany - Garrett Tuberculosis Association.

Police Probing Theft Of School Safe

MOOREFIELD — West Virginia and Virginia authorities are investigating the theft of a 400-pound safe from Mathias 12-Year School during the Christmas holidays.

The thieves made off with an estimated $262, authorities said, but overlooked an envelope containing two $100 bills.

According to Trooper Jack Baker of the local State Police detachment, the entry was made on the night of December 28, with the intruders entering the school through a window which was broken out. They then forced two locked doors into the school office where the safe was located.

The safe was found the following morning near Bergton, just over the Virginia line. The site where the safe was located is about 15 miles from the school, Trooper Baker said, adding that the discovery was made by Steven Crider, of Criders, who was on his way to work at cutting timber.

The safe had been chopped and dented with an ax, Trooper Baker stated, and the hinges were sawed off with a hack saw.

Vital school records with the grades and personnel history of Mathias students were strewn about the snow where the safe was forced open. The papers, and the envelope containing the two $100 bills were recovered.

The estimated $262 that is missing represented funds left in the school safe over the holiday period by classes and school organizations, according to Wendell Mathias, principal of the school.

Trooper Baker is being assisted in the investigation by Warren Spitzer, deputy sheriff of Rockingham County, Va., and other law enforcement officers from each state.

Local Woman Hurt In Crash

A local woman was injured in a three-car collision early yesterday at the intersection of Furnace and Leno streets.

Treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for lacerations of the head was Mrs. Phyllis Bosley, 304 North Centre Street, a passenger in a car operated by Paul E. Paugh, Westernport.

According to Officer Clarence Valentine, Paugh's car struck a parked vehicle and forced it into another parked car owned by James Morrison, 404 Furnace Street. Total damage was estimated at $350.

Paugh was charged with reckless driving, Officer Valentine reported.

Bradley Urges Separate Missile Branch

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UPI)—Creation of a separate missile branch of the armed forces may be a more pressing need than unification of the Army, Navy and Air Force, says Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

Bradley, top American ground commander in Europe in World War II, first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and now chairman of the board of Bulova Watch Co., is wary of current demands for unifying the armed services from the top down.

"It may well be that the best setup is one single force," the spare, 67-year-old Bradley said in an interview.

"But the unification of the armed services should start at the missions to be accomplished and the means we have of accomplishing them. Our armed forces are still divided according to missions they were faced with 50 years ago."

Bradley pointed to the Navy Polaris-carrying submarines and carriers with jets which launch missiles as logical components of a missile striking force—not a detached Navy operation.

The arbitrary limitation on the range of missiles which the Army now is developing is another nonsensical division of what should be one integrated striking force, the general said.

There is certainly a need for unification in one specific field and that is in having one person responsible for the development of weapons, Bradley said. He suggested the possibility of an assistant secretary of defense for research.

The situation now is so mixed up that there is considerable waste in the development state, Bradley said.

LAUDS VOLUNTEERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The major credit for increasing cancer cure rates goes to "our next door neighbors — women with aching backs and tired feet and overworked men who have a high sense of being their brother's keeper."

Dr. Eugene P. Pendergrass of the University of Pennsylvania said so in a report to the American Cancer Society. He said the "next door neighbors" are the persons who distribute life-saving literature on cancer's danger signs, and tell their friends where to go and what to do about worrisome symptoms.

'SILENT' HEART ATTACKS

CHICAGO (UPI) — Some 10 to 15 per cent of heart attacks among urban, middle-aged men occur without causing noticeable pain, a group of Chicago physicians reported after a four-year study of 756 utility corporation employes.

The research team, headed by Dr. H. A. Lindberg, said the findings emphasize the advisability of electrocardiograms to detect such "silent" heart attacks.

Ulbricht, Other East German Red Bosses, Live In Regal Splendor

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT

BONN (UPI)—Communist East German boss Walter Ulbricht and his top associates are living in a gilded "paradise" not to be compared with the "workers' paradise" of ordinary East Germans, according to a story just related here.

A description of the splendor in which the Communist bigwigs live in the Soviet Zone of Germany was given to the West German Social Democratic Party magazine Klarer Kurs (Clear Course) by a man it described as chief architect on the regal housing project.

The architect, not identified, was said to have fled to the West.

According to this account Ulbricht, East German Premier Otto Grotewohl and 16 other Communist bigwigs of the "socialist" state where everyone is "equal," moved recently to a new, closely-guarded, 250-acre living area in East Berlin's Kiefernwald (Pine Forest).

A 150-man security police guard unit ensures privacy for Ulbright, Grotewohl and their cohorts, according to the architect's account.

The 18 families living in the area, he said, enjoy such luxurious touches as marble bathrubs, silk-lined walls, 12-room homes with basements and attics, a self-contained power system, central heating, and self-contained water purification systems.

Another, grimmer touch, is that each home has a "study-strong-room," with a safe. In all but Ulbricht's home, the architect claimed, there were two keys to each safe, one for the owner, one for the secret service. Ulbricht's safe has just one key—his—the architect reported.

In addition to these luxury homes, Klarer Kurs said, the 18 officials enjoy the use of lavish apartments in downtown East Berlin, mainly reserved for receiving important guests. The Pine Forest establishments are for private comfort, it was stated.

All the official Communist geographies say Ulbricht and his cronies live "Spartanic" lives. Ulbricht is known to have one Spartan habit. He goes for an 8 a.m. run in the woods every morning.

No Fuel Shortage For The Moment

Man's exhaustive consumption of natural resources frequently causes him to wonder where future supplies will come from. Mountainous demand for wood, water, coal, petroleum products and all the earth's minerals is accelerated with each population increase and compounded by technological advancements.

A new survey of fuel supplies in the United States by Resources for the Future, a nonprofit research organization, has concluded that conventional fuels — coal, oil and gas — are sufficiently abundant to provide energy for the U. S. through 1975, even at a projected energy consumption increase of 3.2 per cent annually.

The survey adds substantiation to a widely accepted belief that crash programs for domestic and industrial nuclear power plants are not needed.

Only a few years ago, predictions of waning fuel resources and warnings of conventional fuel shortages in the not too distant future were used to support claims that the U. S. could ill afford to dally in its nuclear energy program.

Fifteen-year reserves hardly constitute a limitless supply, but these are constantly being added to and it is expected nuclear power generating stations will be developed through the cooperation of the Atomic Energy Commission with private utilities within possibly five years. Fifteen years hence, there should be many such plants in operation—many more than the number needed to take up any slack left by diminishing fuel supplies.

Coal, gas and oil are not likely to disappear from fuel lists in this century. Nor are they likely to take a back seat to the newer and still experimental nuclear generating plant. Within the next 15 years they will add a partner whose future shines brightly.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Congress Meets

Again the Congress of the United States meets in session to attend to the people's business. This is the realistic center of government.

Congress is a continuous body, two thirds of the Senate remaining in office no matter how many elections are held. The House of Representatives lasts only two years and then has to be re-elected. Both House and Senate committees are continuous and meet at call whenever it is suitable.

The 87th Congress, which went into session on January 3, faces a new President, a new Cabinet, but most of its committee chairmen will be the same by the rule of seniority which is the most convenient rule thus far discovered for such a purpose. Occasionally, a dumb cluck emerges to the chairmanship of an important committee, but not too often. A man who has remained in the Congress long enough to become a committee chairman has learned a great deal by experience and has discovered the essence of representative government which is that in a republic the will of no one man can be made to prevail. Republican government is government by compromise.

President Kennedy will be inaugurated 17 days after the Congress goes into session. He will be inaugurated by the usual ceremony and excitement. But almost immediately he will send to Congress his long list of appointees, including the members of his Cabinet. These persons will have to be confirmed by the Senate. Usually, there is little fuss about Cabinet officers, the assumption being that a President is entitled to have his own.

The American Cabinet is unlike any similar body anywhere. Its members are not political officials. They are literally secretaries to the President, having no political rights of their own. The President may dismiss a Cabinet officer at will. Cabinet officers do not constitute a government, as they do in Great Britain; they are, to repeat, Presidential assistants. He alone is responsible for the government. After he is elected, his responsibility is to Congress, which can, under certain conditions, impeach him. But Congress may not re-elect a President; that only the people can do once by choosing electors in each state.

The constitutional system is designed to prevent tyranny, to maintain a representative republic based upon a division of authority and responsibility.

A President can, by his personality, character and popularity make himself so powerful that Congress becomes politically dependent upon him. This happened during some years of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Presidency. Other times, there are men in Congress, particularly in the Senate, who are so superior to the President in the minds of the people, that the President shrinks before them. This was true of such Senators as Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun and in recent years, Robert A. Taft. There do not seem to be men of this type about these days.

President Kennedy will have to accept the Eisenhower budget at first because the fiscal year for the American government ends on June 30. Nevertheless as his program for new legislation is introduced, budgetary changes will come about automatically. It will be possible to judge whether this will be a conservative, a liberal or a radical Administration by the very first measures that are sent to Congress. It will also be visible at once whether the President has sufficient strength to carry through his program or whether his Congressional liaison officers will have to compromise for votes.

Parties these days mean less than they should. Republicans vote with Democrats and vice versa. There is a conservative group in both Houses and a liberal and radical group in each House. There are North-South coalitions and East-West coalitions. There is a labor group in each House. There are mavericks who go their own way, ignoring party affiliations altogether.

Congressional committees are the most useful agencies for investigation in our country. They alone are able to uncover corruption and subversion; they possess the power of subpoena which makes available data which otherwise could never become available, particularly as legalisms so often impede the truth. Sometimes there is criticism of these committees, of the methods they employ, but they serve the public as censors of the morality of public officials and therefore are to be respected. Methods may be corrected, but destroyed or forgotten data may become rot at the core of a country.

Three 'Civil Rights' Cases Nobody Noticed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — True liberals are always worried when the so-called "liberals" pass up an opportunity to advance the cause of democracy and representative government.

Many days have passed with not a word from the professed defenders of liberal causes condemning three cases in which the civil rights of American citizens have just been disregarded. Here they are:

Case No. 1—In Wyoming, the people at the election last November chose a Republican to be United States Senator for a term of six years, but he died before he could be sworn in this month. Instead of providing the people of Wyoming with an opportunity in a special election within 60 days to choose a successor, the governor, a Democrat, who had two years more to serve in his present office, decided to resign in favor of the Wyoming secretary of state, so that he—the governor—could be appointed to serve as United States Seantor for the next two years. For, under the laws of the State of Wyoming, a Senator is not elected by the people to fill a vacancy until the next general election, which will be in November 1962. Thus, the majority of the people of Wyoming, who elected a Republican to the United States Senate in November, have been deprived of a Senator of their own party and even of the chance to elect one until two years have elapsed.

Case No. 2—In Massachusetts, when Senator John F. Kennedy, Democrat, with four years more of his term to serve, was elected President of the United States, a Republican governor was elected the same day. Instead of letting the latter appoint the new Senator to fill the vacancy, the outgoing governor, a Democrat, had a conference with Mr. Kennedy, in which the latter dictated the appointment of his crony, Benjamin Smith, who never has been elected to Congress or to any statewide office. By resigning before January 1, Senator Kennedy prevented the new Republican governor from making the appointment. This kind of political maneuvering is not novel, but it doesn't erase the fact that a successor to Senator Kennedy cannot be voted on by the people of Massachusetts now for two years. When the election is held in 1962, the successful candidate will then serve for just two years. Only in 1964 will there be an election for the full six-year term. Why aren't the people of Massachusetts given an opportunity now to elect a Senator for the four years remaining in Senator Kennedy's term?

Case No. 3—Senator Lyndon Johnson, Democrat, had his name in two places on the ballot in Texas in the election last November. He was a candidate for Vice President of the United States and at the same time a candidate for re-election to a six-year term as United States Senator. He won both elections. This type of thing has happened once before in another state, but, aside from the obvious irregularity in depriving the people of a chance to pick a different man in each party for two offices, the Texas laws do provide for a special election within 60 to 90 days when there is a vacancy in the United States Senate.

The time is ripe for a change in this anomalous situation. With all the talk about modifying the Electoral College system, it would appear that an even more urgent need today is to provide a uniform system of selecting members of the United States Congress. This could permit the governor to make an immediate appointment to fill a vacancy, but the appointee would serve only until a special election is held within 60 days. A Senator or Representative then elected would serve the entire remainder of the unexpired term.

In Article I of the Constitution, the following is provided:

"The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof, but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to places of choosing Senators."

So it would appear that the "civil rights" of the peoples of the various states, particularly of Wyoming and Massachusetts, could be restored by a simple act of Congress providing for a special election to be held within 60 days to fill vacancies in either the U. S. House of Representatives or the U. S. Senate.

Maybe "civil right" should be changed to read "constitutional rights," because Congress does have the power to take action to prevent a recurrence of the three cases enumerated above. It might take a Constitutional Amendment to insure that no man would be allowed to run for two or more offices in the same election, although the Constitution already forbids the same individual from holding office simultaneously in both the Executive and the Legislative branches of the federal government.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MOHINI REWA—Mohini Rewa, a most unusual lady, is the hottest show in Washington these days. An import from India, she was greeted at the White House by President Eisenhower, and has been a stellar attraction ever since.

The lady is no social leader, nor is she a night club entertainer. She is a tiger, or rather a tigress, and very unusual. She's white, rather than orange, with black stripings. And she has big blue eyes.

Mohini Rewa made her first appearance at the Washington zoo a few weeks ago. Veteran zookeepers say they've never seen anything like the crowds that come daily to see the tigress. No wonder — she is the only white tiger in the United States, and only one of four known to be in existence.

When she was taken to the White House, her keepers explained that she was somewhat dirty from her travels, but would look better once she was given a bath. President Eisenhower had a one word reply: "How?"

INAUGURATION—The committee handling arrangements for President-elect John F. Kennedy's inauguration is the most frantically busy place in town, but it has to take time out to read letters like the publicity-seeking dance studio that offered to teach any of the Kennedy clan to dance for the inaugural ball! . . . Those sculptured inaugural medals will be available at $35 in silver, $4.50 in bronze. The committee expects to sell some 30,000 of the bronze variety. . . Bird proofing the parade route, a necessity in starling-plagued Washington, will cost $10,000, nearly twice the original estimate. . . And a special guard will be placed at each manhole along the parade route to assure the safety of the President . . . Finally, if you haven't already completed arrangements to see the inauguration, don't come: no hotel space, no tickets, no parade vantage points are left.

Middle Ear Infections On The Increase

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Middle ear infections (otitis media) have increased since we stopped the wholesale removal of tonsils and adenoids. The exact relationship between the two situations is not known but there is no doubt about the association between infections of the ear and those in the nose or throat.

Spread to the middle ears occurs by way of the eustachian tubes. These passageways are designed to equalize air pressure on both sides of the drum. This is most noticeable when flying in an airplane and explains the popping sound heard in the ears as altitude increases.

At 6,000 feet, for example, the atmospheric pressure is less than at sea level. Air in the middle ear expands at this height and might break the drum were it not for the eustachian tubes that act as an escape hatch. The reverse is true on descending; air rushes into the tubes to increase the pressure within the ears.

The openings of the eustachian tubes are in the back of the throat near the adenoids. Infected adenoids could easily block the openings or the bacteria could spread to the ears. When this occurs in a child, he complains of earache. The infant resorts to crying or tries to tell what bothers him by rubbing the affected ear or refusing to lie on that side. His temperature soars and convulsions may develop.

Early treatment with the sulfonamides or antibiotics may abort the disease. But when pus forms and the drum bulges, it may break should the pressure become too great. The physician prefers to lance this membrane because a small incision does less harm than a shattered drum.

Modern drugs are helpful but they are not enough to complete the job, once pus develops. The secretion clogs the working mechanism of the inner ears, hence must be drained to preserve hearing and lessen the chance of a mastoid infection.

TOMORROW: Cold, clammy hands.

MILKING A STONE

W. R. writes: My doctor says he wants to "milk out" a salivary stone in my mouth. What is this procedure like?
REPLY
A salivary stone is manipulated with a finger to force it out.

GO NATURAL

B. T. writes: I have had my hair tinted for 10 years. Now I've grown allergic to the dye, which causes a rash. Is there anything I can do other than let my gray hair show?
REPLY
Try other dyes or switch to a wig. If you have been gray for 10 years, why not let your hair resume its natural color? You'll find that it matches your skin and the rest of your body.

DIABETES AND SURGERY

S. M. writes: Is it dangerous for a diabetic to have surgery?
REPLY
Not when the physician watches the diabetic condition carefully before and after the operation. Adjustments in diet and insulin may be needed.

ULCER RECURRENCE

J. K. writes: Does a duodenal ulcer always recur after it heals?
REPLY
Not always but the possibility always exists.

INFECTED PANCREAS

C. C. writes: How does the pancreas become infected?
REPLY
Bacteria usually enters through the tube that connects the pancreas with the intestine. In some instances, the germs spread through the blood.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Charles Cole, who rounded out a brilliant 15-year-hitch as President of Amherst College, recalls that when Poet Robert Frost was a freshman at Dartmouth, his fraternity brothers fretted because he took long walks alone in the woods. Finally a committee of upper classmen confronted him and demanded, "Frost, just what do you do walking by yourself all the time in the woods?" Freshman Frost eyed them calmly and replied, "Gnaw bark." They left him to his own devices after that.

Actually, says Prexy Cole, Frost was meditating alone in the woods—and his ability to do so is one of the reasons he's such a great poet today.

For several years running, rotund Comedian Jackie Gleason has essayed the role of Santa Claus for the Christmas party at the school near his suburban home. "I get a special kick out of putting on the costume," admitted Gleason. "It's the one time in the year I can wear a ready-made suit."

Sam Rayburn Made Tough Decision On Party's 'Purge' Of Dixiecrats

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Good-natured Sam Rayburn went through a lot of soul-searching before he finally decided to bounce Dixiecrat Biill Colmer of Mississippi from the House Rules Committee. He put off his decision as long as he could. Two things finally made up his mind. One was a late-evening chat with the man who has done the most to break the rules tie-up of liberal legislation, Rep. John Blatnik of Minnesota. The other was some reassuring advice from Sam's old protege in politics, Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Both urged a forthright move to replace Colmer with liberal Rep. Carl Elliott of Alabama in order to insure enactment of the Kennedy legislative program.

The Speaker, however, delayed a showdown. He had flown back to Washington, but didn't show up all day on Capitol Hill while thinking it over and conferring with various people by telephone. Among others, he had a long talk with Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia, chairman of the Rules Committee, which has blocked liberal legislation so often in the past.

Smith offered no real assurance that he and Colmer would abandon their Dixiecrat coalition with Republican leaders if Colmer was retained on the committee. The Virginian had managed to soft-talk Rayburn on various occasions in the past, but this time it was different.

Sam Thinks It Over

"I don't relish this, Howard," Rayburn told Smith, "but I have no other recourse. You, yourself, have made it no easier by those stories in the press indicating that you intend to continue the coalition with Charlie Halleck (House GOP leader)."

"How can I keep harmony in the party and support a man who deserted us in the campaign?" Rayburn asked, referring to Colmer's opposition to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, along with three other Mississippi Democrats.

"Please think it over, Sam," urged Smith.

The Speaker did. He thought it over all Saturday afternoon of last week, without making up his mind. It was at this point that he conferred long-distance with Lyndon Johnson, who was vigorously for the removal of Colmer.

Meantime, Blatnik and other House leaders—Reps. Chet Holifield of California, Frank Thompson of New Jersey, Richard Bolling of Missouri and Sidney Yates of Illinois—were trying to contact the Speaker. They thought he was still out of town.

They were all set to adjourn an informal meeting late Saturday when Blatnik managed to reach Rayburn by telephone.

"Sam, there has been a great deal of speculation in the press about your feeling on the Rules Committee," said Blatnik. "Can you tell us about it?"

"I'd rather not now, John," replied Rayburn. "I have a plan, but give me a little more time."

"All right, Sam," replied Blatnik, "but out of respect for you I think I should tell you that I am planning to take some action at the Monday morning caucus of House Democrats, if something isn't done about the Rules Committee by that time.

"My plan is to offer a resolution denying Bill Colmer and the three other Mississippi Democrats, as well as Otto Passman of Louisiana, who deserted us in the last campaign, from participating in the caucus as Democrats. I also intend to do my best to deny the seniority rights these men now enjoy on committees, as Democrats."

Mr. Sam Decides

"That won't be necessary, John," replied Rayburn. "If you meet with me Monday morning, before the Democratic caucus, I think I will be in a position to offer a solution."

When Blatnik and the other liberal spokesmen filed into his office on Monday morning, the Speaker remarked: "In all my years as a member of the House, I have never been under such intense pressure to keep me from saying this. But I have decided to help you to remove Bill Colmer from the Rules Committee.

"It would be unfair, of course, if we did not take some action about the seniority rights of other Democrats who didn't support the Democratic ticket."

The Speaker apparently referred to Mississippi Democrats John Bell Williams, Jamie Whitten and Arthur Winstead, as well as Louisiana's Passman, adding: "I'll arrange a speciau caucus, if necessary, to make sure that Democrats have a right to affirm this proposed change in the Rules Committee."

"We know what you have been through, Sam, and we are humble and appreciative," replied Blatnik. "Democrats couldn't ask for a better leadership than you have given us. Nor is this a purge. As far as I am concerned, these fellows have asked us to close the door on their seniority rights as Democrats, and we have accommodated them."

Merry-Go-Round

President-elect Kennedy's three-year-old daughter, Caroline, was fascinated with Speaker Sam Rayburn's bald bean during his visit with her father at Palm Beach, Fla. "You haven't got any hair!" She exclaimed with delight. . . . House Democratic Leader John McCormack, who never got along with Jack Kennedy when the latter was a junior Congressman from Massachusetts, is burning over Kennedy's post-election behavior. McCormack feels he has been ignored and slighted by Kennedy. The veteran House leader expected to get his nephew, Massachusetts Attorney General Ed McCormack, appointed to the Senate. But Kennedy arranged the appointment instead for his ex-roommate, Benjamin Smith. McCormack is also unhappy with Kennedy's appointments to the State Department, is privately critical of new Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

There is an orderly bedlam in the Frechette home. It is a ranch house in Lincroft, New Jersey and, when I was there last week, there was a hard pie crust of snow in the street. Santa, standing in cardboard beside the chimney, shivered in the cold wind. The Christmas lights had been on all night.

Inside, there was a tree close to the picture window. Jim, age one, was trying to eat a red Christmas ball. He is big and chubby and has yellow hair and a bashful grin. He couldn't bite the ornament, so he ate a hard cookie off a low branch and ate the red string too. Usually, he likes to eat pennies and, when he is shaken like a piggy bank, there is a muted rattle.

Kevin, four months of age, sat propped on a settee in flaming red pajamas. He kept regarding his hands and turning them over. He is a fat bullet-head who will not cry, even when he's hungry. He likes to focus his blue eyes on the mouths of adults when they are talking. His father, Charlie, was in the kitchen, mixing a bottle of glop for the infant. Before I began to feel ill, I noted that it consisted of milk, peas, something that looked like mashed sweet potatoes, and a few other revolting items.

The twins—Robin and Pamela—are two years and five months of age. They play together, fight together, and love their baby brothers together. They have champagne-colored hair, cut short, and they wore red velvet jumper suits with white blouses. There is also a mother, Virginia, who is my daughter, prettier than a painting—inside and out.

My police dog, Rockie, is there. So is Ginny's police dog, Tammy. Add to this the assortment of Christmas toys—busted and unbusted—all over the floor, some egg nog, Christmas cards pasted around the arches of the room, and a hi-fi speaker playing Harry Belafonte, and you have a notion of what the holidays are like at the Frechettes.

The dogs weigh 80 pounds apiece, and the twins try to ride them. The girls talk like Lumumba. Ginny looked at the roast in the oven and plopped into a chair. Robin glanced at her and said: "You pooped, Mommy?" No one knows where she got that expression.

Pamela kept telling her new doll "Don't cited," which means "Don't get excited." Robin did something she was told not to do, so her mother patted her on the panties. Without a word, she walked over to little Jim, who was swallowing the last of the red string, and hauled off and belted him on the head. Pam dropped her doll and slapped Jim too, just so that he would know whose side she was on.

Jim is husky. He just looked up, grinned, and looked pained when his father reached down his throat and pulled the string out, managing to leave the cookie below. Pam picked up Robins' doll and Robbie said: "No fooling around." This was the longest speech I heard.

On Saturdays and Sundays, Charlie gets up, awakens the four babies, takes their nighties off, bathes them, dresses them, makes their breakfast, and permits his wife to sleep. Sometimes, he pretends not to know one twin from the other and he looks at Pam and says: "Hello, Robin." Pam jerks a thumb over her shoulder and says: "Over dare." She picks up a doll. "This is me's," she says firmly.

Their mother says: "Whose birthday is this?" The girls grin. "Baby Jesus." They point to the mantlepiece because that's where He reposes in a manger. "Who is His mommy?" Together they say: "Little Mary." "Who are the wise men?" They do not answer. They look mutely at their daddy.

The girls know all the Mother Goose rhymes but they utter only the last word of each line. Jimmy picked up an ashtray and bit it, but it didn't taste right. He put it back, caught me looking at him, and turned on the bashful smile and swung his head away.

Ginny and Charlie have been trying to teach the twins to say their night prayers.

She sits with them before her, and she says: "Now say your prayers. Goodnight—" They look at each other and laugh. "Jibby funny." Mother becomes irritated. 'Never mind how funny Jimmy is. I want you to say your prayers."

"Goodnight—" Together, they chorus: "Sweet Jesus." She smiles approval and says: "Goodnight—" and they say "Mary." She says "Goodnight" a third time and, in a wild rush, they say: "Joseph. No go to bed Mommy."

At that moment, tiny Kevin discovered a pair of feet and, by wiggling them, found out they were his . . .

Sustain Taste Of Olive Oil

Preserve the delicate flavor of the olive oil you use in making salad dressings so that it will be good to the last spoonful.

Close the container securely after each use. Store the oil on a lower shelf in a cabinet away from the range.

The refrigerator is too cold a spot for olive oil's subtle flavor, while too much heat also can adversely affect its flavor.

The average American ate more than 400 eggs in 1959.

STAINLESS STEEL ELEGANCE

In summer time informal entertainment moves to the casual atmosphere of the backyard, patio or barbecue. But for the special time when hamburgers or hot dogs just won't do, you may want something that combines the elegance of smart New York dining with the glitter of stainless steel.

Nino, "maitre d' " at New York's fashionable Hotel Drake recommends his own superb recipe for Steak Diane as the dish that can satisfy the most demanding palate and yet can be served with sophisticated grace out under the skies.

In preparing his famous dish, Nino insists on using a stainless steel grill designed to his own specifications and available through Legion Utensils Company. Only stainless will hold the heat properly, he says and it's so easy to clean and stays bright. Ideal for preparing Nino's delicacy, it has a frame for containing canned heat and a tray used for cooking. You can use it for ham or bacon and eggs, pancakes and even crepes suzette.

NINO'S STEAK DIANE

2 10-12 oz. sirloin steaks
2 Teaspoons chopped parsley
2 Teaspoons Worcestershire
½ Lemon
Ground black pepper
2 Teaspoons chopped chives
7 Pats butter
Dry mustard

Olive oil

Pound steaks between paper until they are twice original breadth and ½" thick. Bring to table on platter garnished with chives and parsley. Light canned heat. Put 3 pats butter and chives on grill tray. Cover butter with dry mustard. Pepper, salt and olive oil one side of steak. Place on grill as soon as chives start to brown, then salt, pepper and oil unprepared side of steak right on grill. After 2½ minutes to a side (rare) douse fire. Allow to simmer a moment. Serve. Tip tray, scrape juices into one end. Squeeze lemon into gravy and rub tray bottom with rind. Add Worcestershire, parsley and remaining butter. Pour sauce over steak.

For Night Owls

NEW YORK (UPI) — Midnight punch makes a hit in cold winter weather.

To 2 quarts of apple juice add ½ cup of brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon each of nutmeg and salt, 1 teaspoon of allspice and 2 teaspoons of cinnamon. Bring to a boil, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Serve hot in 6 ounce mugs. Garnish with thin slices of orange. Serves 10 to 12.

Prune Fritters Are Excellent Side Dish

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prune fritters are equally good as a side dish with poultry or as a dessert with lemon sauce. Sift together 1 cup of sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons of baking powder, ¼ teaspoon of salt and 3 tablespoons of confectioners sugar. Gradually add 1-3 cup of milk and beat until smooth.

Add and mix well 1 beaten egg, 1 cup of chopped cooked prunes and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice. Drop by teaspoons into deep fat heated to 350 degrees. Cook 3½ minutes, or until delicately brown on both sides. Turn once. Drain on absorbent paper.

Plain buttered noodles taste good with veal chops or a veal roast. Cook 8 ounces of noodles as usual and drain, then stir in ¼ cup butter until melted.

Opening lead: Ace of ♣

Many a slam, bid in the splashing manner, has succeeded merely because the opening leader was up against an out and out guess and didn't come through, whereas a more fortunate selection might have resulted in the cashing of the first two tricks.

Whether one uses cue bidding or Blackwood he is up against the disadvantage of permitting the defense to suggest leads to partner by doubling the artificial bid on the way up. In today's hand West found it rather easy to make an opening lead from a combination that is normally avoided, by reason of inferences drawn from partner's failure to act during the bidding.

North's response of two hearts is sound. His hand is not quite good enough for a jump to three spades, and yet too good for a mere single raise. He must, therefore, arrange to make two bids. After South's raise to three hearts, it is our view that his hand is not strong enough to warrant a jump and it would have been sufficient for him to bid only three spades which would have plainly expressed a desire to go places, in view of the trouble he previously took to bid hearts. After the jump South chose to resort to Blackwood and when he learned that partner had only one ace he subsided, but the damage had been done.

Had West made a neutral lead, the contract would have been fulfilled. But since declarer's side obviously had the heart suit under control and might obtain discards, West elected to lead the ace of clubs (a diamond would have produced the same result). His reasoning was, "Surely partner must have enough diamonds to have doubled the Blackwood five diamond bid. Why did he not do so? Evidently he can stand the lead of the only other suit I might choose clubs."

Incidentally, if East had held nothing in clubs so that he could not stand the lead of the suit, it would have been proper strategy for him to double the five diamond bid in an effort to obtain that lead against the final contract.

Sen. Randolph Wants Medical Care Under SS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., Thursday said the only practical way to assist the aged in financing their medical care on a dignified and sound fiscal basis is to extend the social security system to include medical insurance.

"This approach will permit the older person, during the course of his working life, to pay a small premium and have a paid up medical care policy at retirement," Randolph told a meeting of the senior citizens of metropolitan Washington.

Randolph said the No. 1 problem of the nation's senior citizens is how to meet the cost of medical care at a time when their incomes are lowest and their disabilities highest.

Tax Receipts Below Estimate In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia tax receipts are down about $2.5 million below estimates for the first half of the current fiscal year. But the drop apparently is not really as bad as it seems on the surface.

The biggest difference between actual revenue deposits of $52,286,930 and estimates was in liquor receipts which are not deposited on any regular schedule and which, when fully deposited, probably would raise receipts to a figure close to the estimates. The liquor deposit was $2.2 million compared to estimates of $4.2 million.

On a bright note, State Finance Director Henry L. Ash said tax collections for December were some $400,000 higher than estimates, $4,751,675 compared to estimates of $4,300,800.

The gross sales tax, the state's largest revenue producer, yielded $25,331,294 during the six-month period, or $231,294 above estimates. However, the second largest revenue producer, the consumers sales tax, brought in $15,664,749, or $435,251 below estimates.

Gov. Barron To Make Two Appointments

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—One or two more appointments are expected to be announced by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron during a news conference at 4 p.m. Friday.

Among them may be an adjutant general to take the place of outgoing Maj. Gen. William E. Blake who submitted his resignation, effective midnight Jan. 15, Thursday to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

Another appointment may be that of a state liquor commissioner. Statehouse sources say that Clarence Elmore of Princeton has the inside track for that job. Elmore, a former Mercer County sheriff, would succeed Morris C. Shawkey.

Reports of four sub-committees of Barron's citizens advisory council also will be discussed by the state attorney general during the news conference. The reports were submitted to him Thursday but he wanted to have time to study them before disclosing their contents.

The sub-groups have been studying taxes, two proposed new state agencies and a public works to provide jobs for the unemployed. The two agencies are the Department of Commerce and the Industrial Development Authority.

Barron also was expected to name subcommittees on roads and schools Friday.

In his letter to Underwood, Blake also resigned as state selective service director, a dual position held by the adjutant general, and said he was resigning from active status in the National Guard after almost 30 years.

"For a country boy from Greenbrier County (he's from Ronceverte) to have achieved the rank of a major general in itself is a singular honor for which I shall ever be grateful," Blake wrote.

He said he would present a resume Jan. 9 of a resume of National Guard activities during his four-year tenure in the state and would submit his biennial report to Underwood Jan. 12.

AT ARMY SCHOOL — Pvt. Carl Raymond Jeffries, son of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Jeffries, Charlestown Street, Lonaconing, has completed basic training at Fort Knox, Ky. Water Probe Scheduled

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and Council has decided to investigate conditions dealing with a water tank in Green's Addition.

Officials explained that the tank will hold a capacity load of 64 feet of water. The normal is 22 feet. However, only two to three feet are in the tank at the present.

Water will be turned off in Franklin and Brophytown from Saturday at 11 p. m. to Sunday at 6 a. m. to check the problem. Later, water will be cut off in various sections of the downtown area.

Council ruled that persons living in the vicinity of Park Street will be charged the regular sewage fee of $15, plus cost of installation, to hook on to the main sewage line.

Christmas trees in the community will be collected Monday.

Harry C. Davis Dies At Charleston

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (AP)—Harry Caperton Davis, prominent Charleston business and civic leader, died Thursday after an extended illness. He was 58.

Davis was board chairman of the Kanawha Manufacturing Co., which produces equipment for use in the coal industry. He formerly served as president of the West Virginia Manufacturers' Association and the National Conveyor equipment Manufacturing Association.

Davis is survived by his widow, one sister and one brother, all of Charleston.

Funeral services will be held Saturday.

Lonaconing To Begin Plan For New Yule Decorations

LONACONING—To plan for Christmas 1961 community street decorations, an important meeting will be Tuesday, January 10, at 7:30 p. m. at Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Organizations will be asked to participate in a combined effort to raise funds for new Christmas decorations.

Robert Hadley, community service chairman of Lonaconing Rotary Club, has started the project by sending letters to organizations in the community asking that a representative be chosen to attend the first organizational meeting.

Formulative plans will be started by the group attending this first meeting by electing officers and beginning the organizing of money-raising plans.

The Lonaconing Rotary Club's community service chairman hopes for a good representation at the January 10 meeting so that committee work can be inaugurated. The newly formed organization will assume the projects during January and continue throughout the year with as many projects as can be achieved successfully.

Fire Sweeps Tenney Home In Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The residence of N. H. Tenney was gutted by flames last Wednesday night despite the efforts of the members of the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company who battled the flames for over two hours.

The blaze apparently started from an overheated stove or flue and the fire spread between the partitions of the walls before being discovered. The Tenney's became aware of the fire when the lights went out. Mrs. Tenney, an invalid, was carried out of the house before the alarm was given. Firemen had to use an unusual amount of water in quelling the stubborn blaze between the walls, resulting in considerable water damage in addition to the fire damage.

The house, still standing, was rated a total loss by the firemen. Only a small part of the loss was covered by insurance. The Tenney's have moved into C. V. Funkhouser's garage apartment.

Wild Ring-Necked Pheasant Is Seen In Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — There is a ring necked pheasant running loose in Moorefield and C. B. Hiett requests that citizens feed the bird instead of shooting it. The bird has been observed at various places in town and so far has been able to outwit the predatory cats and dogs.

The pheasant managed to get out of a pen where Omer Dasher has been raising them. It is quite tame and not at all afraid of people.

Attempts have been made at various times over the past quarter of a century to stock ring necks in the county but the project met with little success. Only since the rabies decimated the fox population have ring necks been able to thrive.

Settlement Nears In Indemnity Case

CHICAGO (AP) — Progress was made Thursday by the American Association toward a satisfactory indemnity settlement for Washington's American League franchise move to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"We have made definite progress in talks with officials of the Washington club for the first time since they entered the American Association territory last October," said Jim Burris, president of the triple A minor league. He declined to say how large an indemnity was demanded.

Burris said the 1961 schedule would open with a single game at Louisville April 14 with the whole league being in action the next day. The season will close on Labor Day.

Keyser Grapplers To Open 10-Match Card Next Week

Handicapped by the weather which has caused the postponement of two meets, Keyser High School hopes to gets its wrestling schedule under way next week when it grapples Southern High at Oakland, January 12, and Morgantown High at Morgantown, January 14.

Coach Joe Stanislawczyk, who is serving as wrestling coach at Keyser High for the fifth consecutive year, reports that the Golden Tornado has home-and-home matches on its schedule with West Virginia School for the Blind, Berkeley Springs, Southern, Morgantown and Elkins, which recently beat West Fairmont, 45-5.

The only meet in which Keyser has participated to date is the four-school Christmas Tournament at Romney in which the Mineral Countians finished first. Elkins was runner-up followed by Berkeley Springs and West Virginia School for the Blind.

Other meets during the holidays with Southern and Berkeley Springs were postponed on account of hazardous traveling conditions caused by icy highways.

West Virginia high schools are now wrestling in 12 weight classes instead of ten. The added classes are 95 and 177 pounds.

Keyser grapplers had an 8-2 record last season.

The Massillon, Ohio, high school football team, one of the nation's most formidable, has won or been acclaimed the state champion in Ohio in 16 out of the last 26 years.

CVAL Basketball Plans To Disband For Next Season

At a special meeting of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League, held yesterday at Hancock High School, it was decided to discontinue the five-chool basketball circuit next season.

Allegany and Fort Hill are no longer in the cage circuit, having dropped out at the end of the 1959-60 campaign. Teams in the league this season are North and South Hagerstown, Martinsburg, Frederick and Wistminster.

Next season the schools now in the league hope to form a basketball circuit composed of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland teams.

The CVAL football league in which Allegany and Fort Hill are represented is expected to remain intact in 1961. The CVAL track meet date was changed from May 13 to May 6 and will be staged this year at Frederick.

W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, is secretary of the C.V.A.L.

Van Brocklin Turns Down Offer Of Player-Coach Job

Decision Clears Way For Eagles To Name Skorich

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin severed relations with the Philadelphia Eagles Thursday after a rather cryptic conversation with Frank McNamee, president of the National Football League champions.

Van Brocklin said he told McNamee in reply to flat questions that (1) He would not play again, and (2) He wasn't interested in being a player-coach. McNamee did not say what kind of coaching job he had in mind. He made no offer, Van Brocklin said.

May Name Skorich

The meeting between the two apparently cleared the way for the Eagles to name Assistant Coach Nick Skorich as successor to Buck Shaw who retired as head coach after the Eagles beat the Green Bay Packers for the NFL title last month. Van Brocklin had been considered a candidate for the job.

The 34-year-old quarterback said the sum of his conversation with McNamee was that he (Van Brocklin) was through with the Eagles unless he remained an active player. McNamee gave Van Brocklin permission to negotiate with other clubs. The Minnesota Vikings and the New York Giants are in the market for a head coach.

Has Other Offer

Van Brocklin, whose passing led the Eagles to the Eastern Conference title and the NFL championship, said he was interested only in a head coaching job in the NFL. If he can't land such a job he plans to go home to Oregon. He said he has several good offers out of football.

McNamee, in an official statement, said, "We are losing a great quarterback. He did an outstanding job with the Eagles. He was of great importance to the team and all football."

Knicks' Ken Sears Injured In Fight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kenny Sears, New York's third best scorer, suffered a fractured jaw in a fight Thursday night as the Knicks edged Detroit 104-102 in the first game of a National Basketball Association double-header.

Philadelphia met Syracuse in the second game at Convention Hall.

The fight between Sears and George Lee of the Pistons broke out just before New York took the lead late in the third period and held it. Only a few punches were exchanged after some pushing and shoving during close play in the pivot spot, but Sears left the game with a bloody mouth. At a hospital, an X ray showed the jaw was fractured.

Wylie Wants WVU Athletic Council Fired

State Senator States Group Is Not Needed

Asserts Seven-Man Board Is Ruining Athletic Standing

MULLENS, W. Va. (UPI) —A veteran member of the West Virginia legislature said Thursday he would continue his fight to eliminate the advisory athletic council at West Virginia University.

Dr. Ward Wylie, Mullens physician who was elected to his seventh term in the State Senate last Nov. 8, opened his attack on the seven member athletic council last year after it recommended that WVU football coach Art Lewis be fired.

"If the university's Board of Governors is not willing to do its duty instead of delegating that responsibility to someone else," Wylie said, "then I will try to see that it is done by statute."

Board Supervises

By statute, the Board of Governors was set up to supervise the operation of both West Virginia University and Potomac State College at Keyser.

Wylie said he first planned to consult with the individual members of the nine - member board to determine if they are willing to throw out the athletic council.

"If they are willing to fulfill their duties, then no legislation will be necessary," Wylie said. "If not, then I will try to regulate it by legislation at this session of the legislature which opens next week."

Lose Two Coaches

"In my opinion, the athletic council at the university is ruining its athletic standing. We have lost two coaches in the past year and I am convinced that's why they are not there any more."

Wylie referred to the departure last April of Lewis and last fall of basketball coach Fred Schaus. University President Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said he was retaining Art "by the skin of his teeth" despite the recommendation of the council. Schaus left to coach the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

"The Board of Governors should be doing this job instead of delegating it to a group that doesn't know first base from second base.

"Suppose you were coaching at the university and had four professors, one student and two alumni making recommendations as to your ability. How would you feel.

Council Unwieldly

"The whole thing (athletic council) is unwieldly and not needed. I say this because I was once an athlete at the university and have followed the athletic situation there very closely."

Wylie asked last year for the ouster of the athletic council at West Virginia but was unable to present legislation for that purpose at the 1960 budget-making session of the legislature.

Only such items specified in the governor's call may be taken up at these 30-day sessions.

NEW YORK (UPI) — The New York State Department of Health recommends that victims of colds avoid close contact with other persons.

Stith Gains In College Point Race

Bonnie Ace Trails Gonzaga's Burgess

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure, runner-up last season to Oscar Robertson as the national collegiate basketball scoring champion, is pressing Frank Burgess of Gonzaga for the lead.

Statistics from the NCAA Service Bureau Thursday showed Stith was averaging 31 points a game, compared with 31.3 for Burgess. The figures are for games through Jan. 3.

Stith scored 34 points as St. Bonaventure was beaten for the first time this year, 84-82 by Ohio State in the final game of the Holiday Festival in New York. Burgess scored only 17 points Tuesday night against Whitworth, cutting his average sharply.

Tom Chilton of East Tennessee State also moved up, boosting his average from 28.4 to 30.3.

Two others, Bill McGill of Utah and All America Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, made big gains. McGill advanced from eighth to fourth with a 27.2 average and Lucas from 11th to seventh with 25.3.

Lcuas is the nation's No. 1 rebounder. He has grabbed 20.7 per cent of the rebounds in all Ohio State games.

Memphis State is the team offense leader with a 92.2 average in nine games. St. Bonaventure is second with 90.3 in 10 games.

SS. Peter And Paul, St. Michael's Score

St. Michael's of Frostburg and SS. Peter & Paul remained tied for first place in the Catholic Youth Basketball League after posting their fourth wins of the season in games played last night at SS. Peter & Paul gymnasium.

St. Michael's tripped St. Mary's Gaels, 47-36 while SS. Peter and Paul squeezed out a 27-24 decision over a scrappy quint from St. Patrick's of Mt. Savage.

Layman, Seibert, Greg Sittig and Finn dumped in 10 points each to account for 40 of the 47 points made by St. Michael's. Hudson sparked the Gaels with 11 field goals and 26 points.

Palmer 6-1 Favorite At Los Angeles

Classy Field Vies In $45,000 Tourney

By HAL WOOD
United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, Mr. Moneybags of the 1960 golf circuit, was installed Thursday as the 6-1 favorite to win the $45,000 Los Angeles Open tournament that gets under way Friday on the long, rolling Rancho Municipal course.

Palmer, who won the National Open, the Masters and a half dozen other tourneys, plus about $75,000 in official winnings and another $75,000 unofficially, says he's ready — but he's not sure about the odds.

"I'm playing okay," he says. "I had a good practice round. But I haven't had too much competitive golf lately."

Favorites Seldom Win

Favorites seldom win this tourney — and only twice in history has the champion repeated. MacDonald Smith of a bygone era did it; and a fellow named Ben Hogan repeated in more recent years.

The defending champion this year is Dow Finsterwald, the man who used to be noted for his second-place finishes. He has been a bit off his stick lately and isn't considered the main threat.

"In fact," said Lloyd Mangrum, the former National Oper champion, "there shouldn't be a favorite in this field. At least 50 men could win it. And maybe more."

Snead, Hogan Missing

Mangrum claims, and most agree, this is the finest field in the long history of the event. Every golfe, of note in United States is entered — with the exception of Sam Snead and Ben Hogan. And they seldom come West these years and are not missed too much by the gallery. Additionally, some of the greatest players from foreign countries are entered.

Boros And Brown Sign With Tigers

DETROIT (UPI)—Third baseman Steve Boros and catcher Dick Brown Thursday joined the list of Detroit Tigers signed for the 1961 season.

Boros, who hit .317 with the Denver Bears and was named most valuable player in the American Association in 1960, is slated to take over from Eddie Yost as the Tigers' regular third baseman. Yost was dratted recently by the new Los Angeles club in the American League.

Brown spent most of 1960 with Miami of the International League where he hit .240. He came to Detroit along with Billy Bruton in last month's trade that sent Frank Bolling to Milwaukee.

Wagman Gets Five Years On Bribery Charge

Basketball Fixer Is Fined $10,000

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Aaron Wagman, former $300-a-month New York souvenir salesman, was sentenced to five years in prison Thursday and ordered to pay a $10,000 fine for trying to bribe a University of Florida football player.

Wagman, 27, accused by police as the front man in a nation-wide gambling operation, was convicted of bribery charges Nov. 17 for giving Florida fullback John MacBeth $1,500 to shave points in the Florida-Florida State game Sept. 24.

Circuit Court Judge John A. H. Murphree Thursday denied a motion for a new trial and set the sentence. The judge also ordered Wagman to serve an additional five years—making a total of 10—if he can't pay the fine.

MacBeth, a senior from Pensacola, pretended to go along with the scheme but instead helped police trap Wagman and Philip Silber, 19, also of New York.

Silber, a former Florida student and fraternity brother of MacBeth's pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to bribe, and is awaiting sentencing.

Ray Robinson, Gene Fullmer Resume Series

Clash Fourth Time At Las Vegas Feb. 25

By JACK Cuddy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the ring's greatest comeback performer, signed Thursday for an unprecedented eighth shot at the middleweight title in a fourth fight with Gene Fullmer on Feb. 25.

Their nationally televised Saturday-night 15 - rounder probably will be staged at the Las Vegas (Nev.) Convention Hall.

Fullmer, recognized as champion by the National Boxing Association, will sign Friday or Saturday at his home in West Jordan, Utah, or at Las Vegas. He already has accepted the match.

Robinson Thursday put the ballpoint to a contract guaranteeing him $50,000 of the $150,000 television money and 25 per cent of the net live gate. If the fight is held at Las Vegas, his total purse should range between $90,000 and $100,000.

Those terms reflected a double-barrelled victory for 39-year-old Ray, who battled for three weeks to have his gate percentage boosted from 20 to 25 and his TV money increased from $30,000 to $50,000.

For the champion's end, Fullmer gets 40 per cent of the TV fee—$60,000—and 40 per cent of the net gate. His purse should range between $125,000 and $135,000.

Broglio Signs

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Ernie Broglio, who had a 21-9 record last season, Thursday became the first player to sign his 1961 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals

Rebels Will Get Grantland Rice Trophy

Sugar Bowl Game Winner Selected By Grid Writers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mississippi's unbeaten, once-tied Sugar Bowl champions were selected as the nation's leading college football team of 1960 Thursday by a six-man committee of the Football Writers Association of America.

The Rebels will be presented with the seventh annual Grantland Rice Award by Look Magazine.

Mississippi, which had a 9-0-1 regular-season record and defeated Rice, 14-6, in the Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl game, received 13 points to top Iowa by three points. Washington, which beat Minnesota in the Rose Bowl, 17-7, was next with six points followed by Orange Bowl champion Missouri with four and Minnesota with three.

Mississippi received three firsts, one second and two third-place votes.

The six-man committee cast its votes after the results of the bowl games "because we think the bowl games are part of the season," according to look sports editor Tim Cohane.

Mississippi was tied by Louisiana State, 6-6, and beat Houston, 42-0, Kentucky, 21 - 6, Memphis State, 31-20, Vanderbilt, 26-0, Tulane, 26-13, Arkansas, 10-7, Chattanooga, 45-0, Tennessee, 24-3, and Mississippi State, 35-9 during the regular season.

The committee consisted of Kaye Kessler, Columbus Citizen-Journal; Bill Rives, Dallas Morning News; Bill Leiser, San Francisco Chronicle; Edwin Pope, Miami Herald; Al Abrams, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and Bob Busby, Kansas City Star. Previous winners of the award were UCLA in 1954, Oklahoma in 1955 and 1956, Ohio State in 1957, Iowa in 1958 and Syracuse in 1959.

Steelers Sign Fred Mautino

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers signed their third rookie in five days Thursday when All-America end Fred Mautino of Syracuse came to terms with the National Football League club.

Mautino, the Steeler's fifth draft choice, also had been drafted by the New York Titans of the American Football League. He was signed by Steeler Coach Harry Gilmer in Mobile, Ala., where Mautino will play in Saturday's Senior Bowl.

Mautino is 6-3 and weighs 225 pounds. He made virutally everyone's All-America team. Orange Coach Ben Schwartzwalder has termed Mautino the "best end he ever coached."

Browns Sign Pair

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — The Cleveland Browns Thursday signed two University of Mississippi players, including their No. 1 draft choice, halfback Bobby Crespino.

The other Rebel signed was end John Brewer, who was drafted last year when he still had another season of eligibility remaining.

Grand National Attracts Field Of 74 March 25

Safer Approaches Made At 12 Fences

LONDON (UPI) — A total of 74 thoroughbreds, including three from the Soviet Union and the last three years' winners, were entered Thursday for this year's Grand National steeplechase, England's famed horse race first run at the Aintree track near Liverpool 124 years ago.

The race, usually followed by outbursts of indignation because of numerous accidents to both horses and jockeys, will be modified somewhat this year with 12 of the fences which dot the four-mile, 856-yard course altered for safer approaches.

The event will be run on March 25 this year and will have its richest running ever. The total value of the purse will amount to 23,000 sterling ($64,400) and the entry list is the largest since 1952 when there were 47 actual starters from the original entry list of 84.

The Soviet government has nominated Relief, Grifel and Epigraff II, but there is very little chance that they will reach the starting gate because of the British Ministry of Agriculture's strict ban on countries affected by the deadly killer— African horse disease.

The National Hunt Committee, in announcing the runners Thursday, kept the Soviet horses on the list although Britain's Ministry of Agriculture has declared it will not let them into the country.

Merryman II, the 1960 winner, Oxo, the 1959 winner, and Mr. What, the 1958 winner, will be back for another try in the race, regarded as the classic event of steeplechasing.

Grid Rules Are OK, "Rip" Engle Says

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA.—(UPI)—Penn State Coach Rip Engle, outgoing president of the American Football Coaches Association, said Thursday that "any major rules changes this year would be a surprise."

"We have the best rules possible for college football right now," Engle said. "I think the rules committee feels we have a great game too."

The National League baseball schedule will be released January 26.

Charles Town Track Asks Hearing On Racing Dates

Gets Court Order Following Dispute With Commission

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP) —The Charles Town Race Course obtained a court order Thursday to block the State Racing Commission from setting meeting dates for Charles Town and Shenandoah Downs.

The order, issued in Jefferson County Circuit Court, bars the commission from setting 1961 spring and summer dates for the two tracks until after a Jan. 20 hearing.

Charles Town argued dates set last month by the commission were "discriminatory, capricious and arbitrary in their applications and operation," and that the commission "had not complied with the statutes of the State of West Virginia."

Rejects Proposal

At issue is a dispute between the racing commission and West Virginia's four major tracks over this year's meeting dates. When conflicting proposed dates were submitted by the tracks Dec. 9, the commission rejected all proposals.

The commission then set dates which were accepted initially by only one track, Waterford Park. The Waterford Park seasons will be July 3 through Sept. 4, Sept. 9 through Sept. 17, and Nov. 9 through Dec. 9, the track said.

Wheeling Downs requested a rehearing, but was turned down by the commission.

Shenandoah agreed to its dates, but requested that its meeting start April 14 instead of April 8 and a closing Sept. 23 instead of Sept. 16. The commission agreed.

Want First Choice

Charles Town argued that Shenandoah was favored by the arrangement, and said state law provided that tracks returning the most revenue to the state should get first choice of racing dates.

The current controversy does note involve Charles Town's meeting that began Jan. 1 and will end Jan. 21. Charles Town's meeting next December also is outside the dispute.

South Is Choice In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South was established as a slight favorite in Saturday's 12th annual Senior Bowl as the two squads wound up heavy work in spirited drills Thursday.

The oddsmakers came up with a five-point edge for the Rebels, who are directed by Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts.

Condition Of Howe Is Reported Good

TORONTO (AP)—Gordie Howe, veteran front line ace of the Detroit Red Wings, was reported in good condition at a hospital here Thursday after suffering a head injury in Wednesday night's National Hockey League game against the Toronto Maple Leafs.

A hospital spokesman said Howe suffered a concussion, with no complications, and will be released in two days.

Set Racing Dates

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Racing Commission Thursday approved 1961 racing dates for Waterford Park, near Chester. They are:

July 3 - Sept. 4, 55 days; Sept. 9-16, 7 days and Nov. 9-Dec. 9, 27 days.

Dates for Charles Town and Shenandoah Downs have been held up by court action and no application has been received yet from Wheeling Downs, a spokesman said.

Market Left With Small Gain After Profit-Taking

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rang up a small gain Thursday—all that was left after late hour profit-taking snuffed out a strong follow - through to Wednesday's booming market.

Cyclical issues received another big play before being cut down in the final hour but rails finished strongly and all the steels were up. Non-ferrous metals also finished higher.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 1.18 to 622.67 largely due to Union Carbide, up 2¾, and Alcoa, up 1⅛. Rails continued their strong upswing by racking up 1.43 to 135.14 with only Norfolk & Western, off 2¼, finishing on the downside among the 20. Utilities notched 0.17 to 100.58.

Volume climbed sharply to 4,130,000 shares from 3,840,000 Wednesday. A large accumulation of overnight buy orders caused a late tape during the first hour with the ticker again sputtering behind at the close.

The market breakdown looked a little better than the averages, however, with 744 advances and 330 losers included among the 1,259 issues crossing the tape. New highs outnumbered new lows 40 to 5.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all of our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, Richard "Buck" Cross. We especially wish to thank Rev. Louis Emerick, Rev. Paul O'Brien, the Bowman's Addition Auxiliary, the pallbearers and fellow workers of Local 489, and all those who sent flowers, cards or helped in any way.

Air Service Plea Is Made By Chamber

Support Of Beall's Subsidy Plan Urged

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, in a letter mailed to members yesterday, warned that the owners of Algonquin Airlines are meeting Monday to consider dropping service to the Cumberland area.

It urged members to write U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, supporting his demand that the Civil Aeronautics Board hear his case for transferring the subsidy from Allegheny Airlines, which dropped service here, to the new line.

The Chamber also suggested that members write to T. J. Whelan, president, asking the company to hold on a little longer while the subsidy case is fought through.

Algonquin Airlines, the Chamber said, has given Cumberland the best air service it has known, but the use made of it has been light, mainly due to cost.

The Chamber said that during the years Allegheny was supposed to be giving service here, and even after it dropped flights here, it received huge government subsidies which enabled it to hold down the cost of fares.

The Cumberland area, it said, needs the service and needs it at reasonable rates.

The old National Pike was the first road to be built by the United States government.

School Band Organization Set Saturday

A Cumberland area elementary band will be organized tomorrow at West Side School on Paca Street, according to LaVern J. Hahn, supervisor of music education in public schools of Allegany County.

He said Harry Malcolm, traveling instrumental instructor in the elementary schools, will direct the group which will meet tomorrow at 9:30 a. m.

The band will meet from 9:30 to 11:30 a. m. tomorrow, January 14, 21 and 28, February 4, 11, 18 and 25 and March 4, 11, 18 and 25.

April rehearsals will be announced at a later date, according to Mr. Hahn, who said the rehearsals will culminate with a concert on May 22.

On Thursday, January 11, a string orchestra for elementary youngsters, will be organized with Miss Christie MacDonald, instrumental instructor, in charge.

The orchestra will meet at the West Side School from 4 p. m. to 5 p. m. every Thursday except those which fall on a school holiday. Rehearsals will culminate with a concert on May 22.

All instrumental students who have had at least one year of instruction, whether privately or in school, are eligible—provided they are presently making satisfactory progress and have a cooperative attitude.

The reference was to Weirton's 40-0 win over Nitro for the Triple-A state title.

A group of Allegany County farmers is planning to attend the 11th annual meeting of the Four-State Farmers Association January 20 at Hagerstown.

Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, said the meeting will be held in the Franklin Court auditorium on West Franklin Street.

Two new trailer permits were issued yesterday by the Allegany County assessment department upon the payment of the $10 trailer arrival tax. The permits were issued to Robert Lacko, RFD 1, for a trailer in Election District 29, LaVale, and to Edward C. Swanger, Corriganville.

Chamber Calls For Action On Improvements

A number of suggestions for improvement in the downtown area were included in the New Year's letter of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce along with a warning that "Action not talk is what produces results."

Downtown projects that could be accomplished now, the Chamber said, include the extension of George Street, additional off-street parking and the elimination of much of the on-street parking.

Modernization of some business houses and more attention to developing good service personnel were also suggested, along with improved selection of merchandise, improved traffic control, enforcement of rules on the books concerning care and maintenance of sidewalks and buildings, collection of trash, elimination of bird nuisance and an improved street cleaning program.

The major project of the year, it said, should be the establishment of a city-manager-type government or perhaps a county-manager type to eliminate duplication in the city-county governments.

It said the federal government will no doubt institute a broad program of area development but that there are many problems "we will only solve by ourselves."

'Summer-Like' Weather To Continue Here

Another "summer-like" day is forecast for today.

Yesterday afternoon the temperature rose to 46 degrees, according to Robert R. Golden, weather observer here, who said it was the highest since Christmas Day when the mercury reached the 47-degree mark.

The official low temperature yesterday was 25 degrees and at 7 p. m. it was 35 degrees.

Today the skies are to be partly cloudy and temperatures should range from 40 to 45 degrees in Western Maryland. Cloudy skies with a chance of rain are forecast for tomorrow.

U. S. Route 40 east and west of Cumberland was reported in good shape last night, State Police said.

Severance Tax On W. Va. Coal Again Proposed

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—Del. Roy Lee Harmon, D-Raleigh, said Thursday he plans to again introduce a severance tax bill on coal in the upcoming West Virginia Legislature in spite of apparent new opposition from the United Mine Workers union.

At the same time, Harmon accused the UMW of collusion with coal operators in opposing the measure. He described the mine owners as "absentee landloards who have skinned and gutted West Virginia for years and left the state a shambles."

Harmon charged that orders to oppose the severance tax were passed down by UMW President Thomas Kennedy, "another out-of-state man."

Harmon's statement followed disclosure by UMW District 29 legislative chairman James Leeber, Beckley, that the union, which formerly advocated a severance tax, was now against it.

Leeber said the result would be to place the West Virginia coal industry in an even worse competitive position with other coal-producing states.

Westvaco Sales Set Record; Income Drops

NEW YORK (AP) — West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. Thursday reported record sales but a six per cent decline in earnings for 1960.

The company earned $11 million, equal to $2.07 per share, on sales of $250 million. In 1959, its earnings totaled $11.8 million, or $2.21 per share, on sales of $233 million.

President David L. Luke attributed the decline in profits to a softening of general business and heavy start-up expenses of a new paper machine.

Delegation Begins Study Of Requests

Minority Leaders To Retain Posts

Allegany County legislators met in Annapolis yesterday to review suggestions made during a series of meetings held here in November and December.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly, said the meeting was held in the delegation room and attended by State Senator Charles M. See and all six Allegany County delegates.

He said no action was taken at the exploratory session which lasted several hours, but that all suggestions are being considered.

Dozens of legislative items were discussed during the hearings here, but many of them are statewide bills for which Allegany County support was sought.

Del. Driscoll said another joint meeting will be arranged next week.

During a Republican caucus in Baltimore Tuesday night, Senator Harry Phoebus of Somerset County and Delegate Lester B. Reed of Allegany County were renamed minority leaders of the General Assembly. Del. Driscoll yesterday was asked to continue as chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

Students To Pay Cost Of Windows

A group of students from North End who attend Allegany High School will make restitution for breaking windows of a Wills Creek Avenue home with snowballs this week, police said.

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van said he received a complaint from Mrs. Mary E. Carney, 222 Wills Creek Avenue, who said some youths tossed the snowballs and broke some windows.

Captain Van went to the school and upon investigation learned the names of at least four who were in on the vandalism.

Arrangements have been made to have one of the youths collect the money from the others and turn it over to the school principal, Van said.

Plan To Aid

County 2 each. One more seat each would go to Harford, Howard, St. Marys and Charles counties.

This would increase House membership from 123 to 143.

Follows Walsh Plan

The principal features of the bill are similar to those proposed by a governor's commission under William C. Walsh, Cumberland attorney. Differences include the immediate addition of seats to the two city districts and Harford, Howard, St. Marys and Charles.

Tawes indicated after his conference with the senators that he had an open mind on the plan. He had endorsed the Walsh proposal in the 1959 legislature, when it failed, and had expressed hope that it or something similar might be enacted in the current session.

Del. Margaret C. Schweinhaut, D-Montgomery, chairman of the State Coordinating Commission on Problems of the Aging, proposed the tax relief for the elderly.

Her bill would enable county or city governments to set up provisions for exempting property of the aged from taxation.

Another of her bills would remove the $25,000 a year ceiling on the budget of her commission.

Help For Aging

She also introduced three resolutions relating to the aging. One would request all counties and Baltimore City to set up local commissions on the aging.

Another would ask Congress to permit social security recipients to earn up to $30 a month without forfeiting any of their benefits.

A third would request the Legislative Council to study whether changes should be made in the present legal requirement that children must support their parents.

The State commission on aging was established in 1959, the first year of Tawes' term. In his opening message to the legislature Wednesday, he pointed out that Maryland can expect to have more than 250,000 persons 65 years or older by 1970.

Two bills aimed at ending segregation in hotels and restaurants were introduced. One would make the penalty $100-$500; the other would make it $25-$500.

Are Sponsors

One bill was sponsored by a dozen Baltimore City delegates. The other had 11 city sponsors and nine from the counties.

The county delegates were Estel C. Kelley and Lester B. Reed, Thomas F. Conlon Jr. of Allegany County, Joseph D. Tydings of Harford, Mrs. Schweinhaut, J. Grahame Walker, Blair Lee III and Edna P. Cook of Montgomery.

Del. Robert P. Cannon, D-Wicomico, proposed that inmates of penal institutions be made ineligible for workmen's compensation.

The State Industrial Accident Commission has expressed concern over the number of claims recently made by prisoners. They are drawing benefits at a rate exceeding the amount of premiums paid by the State to insure such cases.

Cannon said Tawes had looked with favor upon his proposal but wanted to amend it so that seriously disabled prisoners might collect compensation after being released from the institution.

Plan To Aid Counties Is Dusted Off

Reapportionment Bill Is Introduced

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland lawmakers popped up Thursday with individual plans to ease the money woes of local governments and reapportion strength in the General Assembly.

Sen. H. Winship Wheatley Jr., D-Prince Georges, dusting off an old weapon for a new fight, introduced a bill which would mean more tax money for 21 counties at the expense of the other two and Baltimore City.

The measure, defeated in several previous sessions, calls for the taxing of public utility shares by each subdivision according to the amount of property and equipment it has in that subdivision.

Two other senators sponsored a bill to give the State's more populous areas a total of 20 new seats in the House of Delegates.

Ask Exemptions

In the House, delegates introduced legislation to prohibit racial discrimination by operators of restaurants and hotels, authorize local governments to grant property tax exemptions to elderly persons, and deny workmen's compensation benefits to injured inmates of penal institutions.

Sens. Edward S. Northrop, D-Montgomery, and James A. Pine, D-Balto County, teamed up on the reapportionment measure. They discussed it with Gov. Tawes and Senate President George W. Della, D-Balto, 6th, after the Senate held a brief afternoon session.

Northrop and Pine later said they plan to introduce the bill when the senators return Monday night from a four-day layoff.

Loss For Baltimore

In his "State of the State" speech after the 90-day session opened Wednesday, Tawes cited the financial plight of local governments and reapportionment as two of the biggest problems facing the Legislature.

City officials estimated Wheatley's utility tax plan would mean a loss of $1½ million a year to Baltimore. Wheatley acknowledged that Wicomico County and Frederick County also would probably suffer under his proposal.

This is because utility shares are now taxed by the subdivision where the utility company's headquarters is located. The headquarters of most of the State's major utilities are in Baltimore, Salisbury and Frederick.

Cites Urgency

"With all these counties now asking for more tax revenues," Wheatley said, "something must be done."

He said Prince Georges would net $70,000 to $100,000 under his proposal and he had asked the State Department of Assessments to give him figures on its effect on other subdivisions.

The Northrop-Pine reapportionment bill would mean these additional House seats for subdivisions now assigned the maximum of six each: Baltimore County 4; Prince Georges and Montgomery 3 each; Baltimore's 3rd and 5th Legislative Districts and Anne Arundel

Firemen At Work

Firemen are shown using the 85-foot aerial ladder to scale the Times-News building, where a minor fire broke out in the housing of an exhaust fan between the second-story ceiling and the roof just before 5 p. m. yesterday. The fire was discovered soon after it started, and firemen quickly extinguished it. Damage was negligible, but the big ladder truck attracted several dozen rush-hour passersby because it had to block South Mechanic Street to get at the fire.

Many Sick Are Aided Here By Medical Care

$187,241 Is Spent For Plan In County

Free medical services were provided to 5.5 per cent of the citizens of Allegany County last year under the Medical Care Program of the Allegany County Health Department.

The services were provided under Maryland's Medical Care Program at a cost of $187,241, according to a report issued yesterday by Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

The program which provides medical attention, drugs and dental services to the indigent (those on relief rolls) and the medically indigent (those who cannot meet medical costs on their limited incomes) was provided at a per capita cost of $2.25 in this county.

Far less use of the service was made by other sections of Maryland. For all counties, only 1.8 per cent of the population was enrolled, and the per capita cost was 56 cents.

4,544 Are Aided

During last year, 4,544 persons in the county received medical care services at an average cost per person of $41.21. The state average was $31.58.

The annual cost for Medical Care to those on public welfare averages $37.25 in this county. The state average was $25.53.

The $37.25 included an average of $13.34 for the services of physicians, $21.45 for pharmacy bills and $2.46 for dental services.

Services to the medically indigent cost an average of $118.47 and included $36.30 for the services of doctors, $73.57 for prescriptions and $8.58 for dental services.

The higher costs for the medically indigent results from the fact that persons on public welfare rolls automatically receive Medical Care cards while the medically indigent are placed on the rolls only when they are in need of medical services they cannot provide with their limited incomes.

Fees Are Set

A total of 51 physicians in Allegany County were certified to participate in the Medical Care plan, and received $62,881 for 26,009 calls.

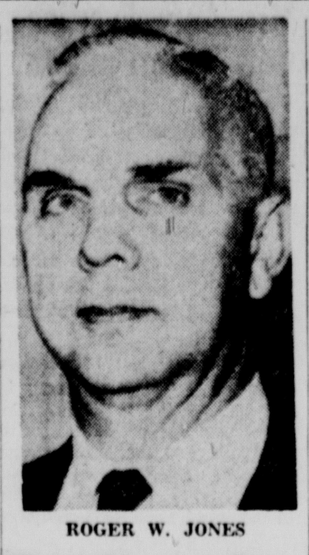

Nineteen county pharmacies participated in the plan and filled 45,248 prescriptions at an average cost per prescription of $2.46—slightly less than the state average of $2.55 per prescription.

Doctors here wrote 174 prescriptions for each 100 calls, while the state average was 129.

There were 19 dentists enrolled in the program in this county. During the year they received $12,872 for their services which included 56 dentures.

All physicians, pharmacists and dentists who participate in the state-financed Medical Care Program do so at reduced fees set by the Medical Care plan.

Dr. van Strien said the entire program here is handled by Miss Mary Rooney and Miss Regina Pryor under the supervision of Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant of the department.

ROGER W. JONES

New Kennedy Appointee Has Kin Here

Daughter Lives At Potomac Park

Roger W. Jones, who yesterday was appointed by President-elect John F. Kennedy as the deputy undersecretary of state for administration, is the father of Mrs. Cynthia Hodges, a Cumberland area resident for the past nine years, who now resides in Potomac Park.

A career man whose federal service began in 1933, Mr. Jones is now serving as chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission. Although he has lived in Montgomery County since 1937, Mr. Jones has maintained a legal residence in Connecticut and is a registered Republican.

Mr. Jones is a frequent visitor to Cumberland. His daughter said last night that his most recent visit was over the Veterans Day holiday.

Some three or four years ago, Mr. Jones came to Cumberland to address the Men of Emmanuel at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, to which his son-in-law and daughter belong.

John Hodges V, Mr. Jones' son-in-law, has been employed at Allegany Ballistics Laboratory for nearly 10 years. He is now in the advanced design department.

Mr. Jones was one of the 12 distinguished Americans who served as judges for the Silver Anniversary All-America selected last month for Sports Illustrated magazine. Coincidentally, one of the 25 college athletes of 1935 whom they selected was Dr. Hugh A. MacMillan, Denver, Colorado, a former Cumberlander who gained football prominence at Princeton University after playing earlier for Allegany High School.

Another one of the judges was Dean Rusk, who will become Secretary of State for President Kennedy.

C & O Canal Proclamation Hits A Snag

Commissioners Fail To Act On Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move to have a 165-mile stretch of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal declared a national monument by presidential proclamation has hit a snag.

Approval of the proposed executive order has been recommended by Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton but the District of Columbia commissioners have not yet expressed a view.

The Interior Department contends that no concurrence by interested jurisdictions is necessary. Nevertheless, the Budget Bureau, which studies such proposals to determine whether any appropriation will be needed, sent a copy of the proposal to the District commissioners. They have taken no action on the proposal. The commissioners said they are awaiting a recommendation from staff members who are looking into it.

Means Fresh Start

Interior Department officials had hoped by this time the order would be at the White House awaiting President Eisenhower's signature and that the proclamation could become effective before the Eisenhower administration goes out of office Jan. 20. Any such action under the new president, John F. Kennedy, would have to start all over again in the Interior Department.

Seaton took the presidential proclamation route after several bills to establish a Chesapeake & Ohio Canal National Park failed to be passed by Congress.

Show Concern

The park would extend roughly from Washington to Cumberland, Md., following the old canal route.

Some District officials are concerned that approval of the proclamation might hamstring attempts to build a dam on the Potomac River upstream from Washington. Such a dam is one of several alternatives for providing additional water for the Washington area. If such a dam were built, its reservoir would flood a portion of the canal.

Meanwhile, Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., introduced a new bill to authorize establishment of a Chesapeake & Ohio Canal National Historical Park.

Beall said he thinks the new Congress will approve the measure. Noting that in previous Congresses only the Senate had approved the proposal, Beall said his new bill includes some changes which he feels will make it acceptable to those in the House who previously opposed it.

Many Lands Will Observe 'Little Christmas' Today

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Today is observed as "Little Christmas" in many parts of the Christian world.

In families in lands which cling to the old customs, there are gifts for the children and a treat for all members of the families as Christmas dainties, stored away for the Epiphany feast, are brought forth.

Today is observed as the feast of the Epiphany and is also called the Feast of the Three Kings — marking the visit of the Magi to Jerusalem, or Twelfth Night — since it is the 12th day after the birth of the Christ Child.

The word Epiphany comes from the Greek "epiphania" which means a showing or manifestation.

In the Roman Catholic Church, the feast ranks with the great feasts of Easter and Pentecost. It is observed in honor of Christ's manifestation to the Gentiles, represented by the Three Kings who followed the Star of Bethlehem to the place where the Christ Child lay.

Other manifestations marked by the feast include Christ's baptism in the River Jordan and his power as shown at the marriage feast of Cana.

The Bible tells all that is really known of the Magi—of how wise men from the East came to worship the Christ Child and how, after they had been led by a star, they "fell down and worshipped him" and presented their precious gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh.

Figures of the traditional wise men, Balthasar, Casper and Melchior, are featured in Cumberland's Christmas display on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. They are copied after figures of the Wise Men which are displayed in the Cloisters in New York City.

Scholars say the "wise men" could not have appeared by Twelfth Night and that as much as a month of even a year elapsed before they presented their treasures to the Christ Child.

There has been a revival in the Tri-State area of the Burning of the Greens ceremony as the torch is applied to Christmas trees and decorations.

The Twelfth Night bonfire carries out the tradition that good fortune follows the destruction of Yule decorations on the Feast of the Three Kings.

Judges Give David Rose His Freedom

A 23-year-old former Cresaptown resident, who has served more than three years in confinement since a 1957 burglary conviction, yesterday was given his freedom by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris and Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey after a hearing in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The hearing was designed to determine whether David Royce Rose is still a defective delinquent.

Rose was found guilty November 29, 1957, by Judge Harris on a charge of breaking into the dwelling of Ray Eugene Bookheimer, Winchester Road, on October 3, 1957, and stealing articles valued at $102, including a pair of trousers, a shirt, pair of shoes, wedding ring, three silver dollars and some canned goods.

At the time, Judge Harris imposed a sentence not to exceed one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Males with a recommendation that Rose be transferred to the Patuxent Institution for defective delinquents.

On November 12, 1958, Judge Harris held a hearing and determined then that Rose still was a defective delinquent.

Yesterday's hearing was the result of a state law which provides that an inmate at the Patuxent Institution is entitled to periodic re-hearings to determine whether he still is a defective delinquent and still subject to indeterminate confinement.

Two primary witnesses were heard yesterday. Dr. Richard W. Trevaskis Jr., local psychiatrist, and Dr. Harold Boslow, director of the Patuxent Institution, were the key witnesses. Dr. Trevaskis said that Rose never has been a danger to society and needs a chance to "grow" into maturity. His intelligence quotient or "IQ" was listed as 97.

Judge Harris announced the decision freeing Rose and in which Judge Cobey had concurred.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason represented the state and Thomas N. Berry served as defense attorney at the hearing.

Sanitary Unit Will Organize Here Tonight

New Commission Begins Duties

Allegany County's new Sanitary Commission, created by act of the Board of County Commissioners December 13, will have its organizational meeting at the Court House at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Two of the commission members, Playford S. Aldridge, RFD 3, Bedford Road, and Robert A. Reinhard, 310 National Highway, LaVale, are expected to attend tonight's opening session with Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners. The third commissioner, Alvin H. Rankin, 175 Maple Street, Frostburg, is visiting a daughter in Florida and is not expected home before next week.

Since last summer there has been considerable discussion on the part of county officials concerning a plan to solve the miscellaneous sewage disposal problems that are developing in the unincorporated areas of the county as well as in and around Frostburg. Cumberland, Westernport and Luke are the only communities with sewage treatment facilities.

Commissioners John T. Mason and William A. Wilson agreed on November 29 that there is a need for a sanitary commission in the county. On that occasion Commissioner John J. Rowan voted against the proposal. However, on December 13, Commissioner Rowan joined the other two when the formal resolution was adopted creating the Allegany County Sanitary District and designating the three-member commission to handle the operations.

The commissioners' resolution said the commission is being created to "acquire, construct, reconstruct, extend, repair and improve, maintain and operate water systems, sewage systems and other related projects within Allegany County."

WM To Cut Salaries Of Officials

Railway Also To Reduce Force

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Western Maryland Railway announced Thursday that because of reduced freight revenues it is furloughing a number of employes and reducing the salaries of executives and supervisory personnel.

The reduction on the higher level would be 10 per cent of the salary beyond $10,000 a year.

The Western Maryland, a freight carrying line whose major revenue comes from coal loadings, operates in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. A statement from President W. Arthur Grotz said:

"Because of the reduced level of its freight traffic, the Western Maryland Railway is effecting substantial economies, including the furloughing of employes and the reduction by 10 per cent in the amount by which the salary of executive or supervisory employes exceeds $10,000 per annum."

"The railway is confident of an early upsurge in business which will permit the prompt restoration of former salary levels."

A spokesman for Western Maryland said no estimate could be made at this time of the number of persons to be furloughed or the number of executives whose income would be reduced.

The Western Maryland, which formerly was also a passenger road, left that field about three years ago.

He said the meeting is being held in connection with reports on fire and sanitary conditions in properties at 510-516 Hill Street.

Meeting with the board will be Carl E. Wilson, Turtle Creek, Pa., owner of the properties.

Mayor Keech said the Fire, Health and Engineering departments have been investigating.

Fire Damages Small House At Flintstone

A small five-room house in the Flintstone area was badly damaged yesterday morning when an overheated stove caused a flue fire.

The fire broke out about 11 a.m. at the home of Fitch Imes who resides along Flintstone Creek about a mile and a half north of Flintstone.

Firemen from Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company responded to the call and fought the blaze for nearly two hours.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in the flue when the stove in the home became overheated. A room downstairs and a room upstairs at one end of the small, two-story house were damaged extensively, firemen reported.

No estimate of the damage was made, but firemen said about 50 per cent of the residence was damaged by fire.

Mr. Imes lives alone in the small house, which is made of logs.

Hearing Today In Robbery

Jerome Wesley Whitaker, 42, of Cresaptown, has been charged with armed robbery in the holdup of a Bedford Road market Tuesday night and will be given a preliminary hearing this morning in Trial Magistrate Court.

Whitaker waived extradition yesterday morning in Bedford County Circuit Court before Judge Richard C. Snyder and was returned here by Tfc. Jack F. Browning of the State Police and Edwin R. Lilya, county investigator.

Whitaker, who has been charged with the armed robbery of Warnick's Market near the city limits of Cumberland, was arrested late Tuesday night near Koon Dam by Pennsylvania State Police.

He was held in the Bedford County Jail and was questioned Wednesday by Mr. Lilya. Authorities said Whitaker admitted the armed holdup in which an estimated $215 was taken.

U.N. Shuns Cuban Charge

Castro Speeds 'Anti-Invasion' Buildup

Guns Set Up On Beaches, In Key Cities

Fidel Blames Break On Ike, Keeps Door Open To Kennedy

HAVANA (AP) — Prime Minister Fidel Castro brought out all available weapons Thursday and placed them around his tense island nation to await what he insists is "an imminent invasion" from the United States.

His Cabinet kept the diplomatic door open however, to President-elect John F. Kennedy by declaring that "responsibility for the rupture between the United States and Cuba falls entirely on the administration of President Eisenhower."

Hundreds of militia reinforcements poured by train and bus into Santiago, capital of easternmost Oriente Province. Many moved down onto the beaches, but even greater numbers were sent northeast toward Guantanamo City and Songo, outside the U.S. Guantanamo Naval base.

Military-Holiday Air

Antiaircraft, antitank and other heavy weapons sprouted all over Havana. Christmas and New Year's festivities still continued, thus the city bore a strange military-holiday air.

Weapons were placed thickly around Seafront Drive. Some antiaircraft batteries were set up not far from the almost empty U.S. Embassy building, where a dozen diehard Cubans still stood around hopeful of getting visas for admission to the United States.

The sudden and open display of armament is apparently intended to underscore Castro's charge that a U.S. invasion is coming within two weeks, a charge ridiculed by Washington.

The appearance of the weapons heightened Cuba's invasion fever. All Cuban radio and television stations have been transmitting martial music, old Castro speeches and anti-American slogans around the clock for four days.

Death Decreed For Saboteurs

The Cabinet statement blaming the Eisenhower administration for the diplomatic break also backed Castro's charge that some U.S. Embassy personnel promoted counterrevolution and terrorism here.

The Cabinet authorized death sentences for any anti-Castro saboteurs and all who help them.

The U.S. charge d'affairs, Daniel M. Braddock, and his skeleton staff called in packers to help move equipment and files from the embassy.

As Braddock set about the moving job, 67 of his personnel arrived at West Palm Beach, Fla., after an overnight ferry trip. They said their departure from Havana was smooth and without incident. The embassy staff slept on cots placed in the ferry's eight staterooms.

Cuban Militiamen Await 'Enemy'

Agreement To End Belgian Strikes Near

BRUSSELS, Belgium (AP) — Agreement was reported near Thursday night on a face-saving compromise to end the 17-day-old violent Socialist-led strikes. They had threatened to topple Premier Gaston Eyskens' Catholic-conservative government.

An informant close to Socialist party leadership said: "The end is near."

"In meetings all over the country, Socialist trade unions are being told that negotiations are under way for halting the strike, he said. The Belgian state radio quoted reports that the strike was nearing its finish.

The Socialist informant said everyone was "fed up" with the strikes which have cost Belgium millions of francs in lost production and property damage.

Depressed Areas Aid Bill Introduced

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., Thursday reintroduced his $398.5 million depressed areas bill with 39 Democratic and four Republican senators as co-sponsors.

The measure was assigned the number, "S. 1," indicating the top priority the Democratic leadership gives to it.

Douglas noted that President-elect John F. Kennedy also has given the bill high priority in his legislative program.

A banking subcommittee headed by Douglas will handle consideration of the bill. Douglas said he plans to try to start hearings before Kennedy's inauguration Jan. 20 and to hold them to a minimum length since much testimony on depressed areas was heard in previous congresses.

President Eisenhower vetoed two previous Douglas bills on the subject.

The new measure proposes federal loans and grants to try to attract new industries and jobs to areas which have suffered from chronic unemployment.

Two Republican proposals in the same field also were offered to the Senate.

Sen. Everett M. Dirksen, R-Ill., sent up a $180 million measure and Sen. Hugh Scott, R-Pa., a $214 million bill.

Douglas' bill would fix ceilings on the loan funds designed to hold the cost to about $100 million for the first year. This is a new feature.

Douglas said "rising unemployment and inadequate economic growth have accentuated the problems of unemployment throughout the nation." He added:

"The number of distressed areas has risen. There are nearly a hundred such areas of substantial and persistent unemployment. In these areas, there are at least 15 million people and over 600,000 unemployed.

"Unemployment throughout the nation now exceeds 6 per cent, but unemployment in the distressed areas is nearly twice as high, and in about a score of communities it exceeds depression proportions of 15 per cent and more."

The four Republican co-sponsors are John S. Cooper, Ky., Jacob K. Javits, N. Y., Clifford P. Case, N. J., and J. Glenn Beall, Md.

Doctor Linked To Deaths Of 14 From Hepatitis

TRENTON, N.J. (AP) — Fourteen patients of an Erlton psychiatrist died of an acute liver disease after getting injections from him, the State Health Department said Thursday.

It said 30 other patients injected by Dr. Albert L. Weiner of Erlton also contracted the disease, without fatal results. The deaths occurred last fall, with the last one in November, it said.

Atty. Gen. David D. Furman said the State Board of Medical Examiners suspended Weiner's license Dec. 21 on a temporary basis. It has not been restored.

Furman asserted that an investigation is being held to see if the suspension should be made permanent and if criminal prosecution should be started.

The health department said the disease was presumably serum hepatitis.

A health department spokesman said Weiner used injections to administer drugs to calm his patients. The spokesman said it was possible the needle used by Weiner might have been spreading the contagious disease.

The health department said it issued an order Oct. 25, barring Weiner from using parenteral therapy, which means injection with a needle.

Furman said the State Board of Medical Examiners has hired a liver specialist to try to trace the exact cause of hepatitis among Weiner's patients.

A health department spokesman said Weiner is an osteopathic physician specializing in psychiatry.

64 Embassy Personnel Arrive In U.S. From Cuba

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Cold, tired and sick of the tension in Fidel Castro's Cuba, 64 United States Embassy personnel arrived here Thursday in response to the dictator's screams to get out of Havana in 48 hours.

"The order Castro gave on television came right off the top of his head and even caught his own Foreign Office by surprise," said Vice Consul Gerald Sutton.

"They had no note prepared for us and it took them some time to prepare it. They apologized to us for the delay."

Sutton said the Cuban militia and army intelligence men are growing more and more ruthless, and he disclosed that a militiaman took a punch at him when he entered his apartment after President Eisenhower broke off diplomatic relations with Cuba.

"I got to the elevator and one of those militiamen asked me where I was going," Sutton said. "I told him it was none of his business and he socked me."

Eugene A. Gilmore, counselor for economic affairs and No. 2 man in the Havana Embassy, said it was "a scramble to get out in time" to meet Castro's deadline.

Daniel P. Braddock, charge d'affairs, and nine other American personnel remained in Havana but Gilmore said they would be out in two or three days, as soon as arrangements are made with Switzerland to handle U.S. affairs.

"Any American in Cuba not sponsored by some Communist outfit may be in trouble," Sutton declared. "Even the newsmen are scared stiff. They have their embassies all picked out for refuge."

Senate Liberals Rule Out Debate Curb Filibuster

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senators pressing for a change in Senate rules to make it easier to shut off filibusters maintained Thursday there was no danger the issue itself would set off a filibuster.

The bipartisan group of liberals called a news conference aimed at dispelling any idea that the fight could bog the Senate in a controversy lasting beyond the Jan. 20 inauguration of President-elect John F. Kennedy.

They said they can use a parliamentary device to bring the dispute to a vote if Southern senators opposing their move should attempt a filibuster.

Sen. Richard B. Russell, D-Ga., told reporters the Southerners were "not stalling" but he said that as a practical matter he did not see how any vote could be taken before next week.

He said he understood some senators on both sides wanted a chance to speak first.

A short time later, the Senate agreed by voice vote to take up the proposed rules changes.

One of the proposed changes would permit filibusters to be halted by a majority of the senators, or 51 of the 100 members, and another by three-fifths of the senators voting. At present it takes the votes of two-thirds of the senators voting to limit debate.

At the news conference called by the liberal group, Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-NY., said "We feel we have a majority for a rules change."

An outpouring of bills hit the Senate when it took time out from the filibuster fight to open shop for regular business.

The top designation of "S. 1," meaning Senate bill No. 1, was assigned to a $389.5 million depressed areas bill. Sen. Paul H. Douglas, D-Ill., its chief sponsor, said the bill was a top item on President-elect John F. Kennedy's program.

By unanimous consent, the Senate agreed Wednesday to permit the introduction of bills and other routine business starting Thursday.

A Senate aide said senators introduced more than 200 bills Thursday.

In the House, where Democratic leaders are engaged in a backstage tussle over committee organization, bills have been flowing in since opening day. The House was in recess Thursday.

Indonesian Claims Backed By Russia

MOSCOW (AP)—The Soviet Union said Thursday it supports Indonesian claims to West New Guinea and will help in the Jakarta government's struggle for the Dutch-held territory.

"The Soviet Union always supports the rightful demands of Indonesia for West Irian (New Guinea)," declared First Soviet Deputy Premier Anastas I. Mikoyan at a reception for visiting Indonesian officials. "I can assure you that the Soviet government will render friendly aid in your great struggle against the colonizers."

Farm Groups' Aid Enlisted By Kennedy

Will Help Formulate Policies; Conference Scheduled Jan. 26

NEW YORK (AP) — President-elect John F. Kennedy turned to the farmers' own organizations Thursday for help in formulating future farm policies. He also took a look at the nation's receding economic position.

The incoming chief executive arranged at a conference with a small group of farm leaders for a big all-day meeting of farm leaders in Washington Jan. 26.

The Washington meeting will be held with incoming Secretary of Agriculture Orville L. Freeman presiding.

Freeman told a news conference following Thursday's session that the farm spokesman who met with Kennedy expressed willingness to help the new administration develop policies designed to bring greater stability to agriculture and to make a broad use of American farm surpluses for economic development abroad.

Lost In Farm States

In the election, Kennedy lost heavily in farm states.

Freeman said the two-hour conference at Kennedy's preinaugural headquarters did not go into specific programs or methods of accomplishing these goals. He said this would be something for the Washington conference to take up.

Following the farm conference, Kennedy met with economic advisers on the state of the nation's economy. He received a preliminary report on the economic situation from Prof. Paul Samuelson of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology.

During the presidential campaign, Kennedy said the nation's economy was not as healthy as it should be. When he was appointed chairman of Kennedy's economic advisors last week, Walter Heller of the University of Minnesota said the nation had been in a recession for six months and that it would be a challenge to overcome it.

Not Abandoning Own Program

Freeman said the Washington farm conference will be attended by leaders of all major farm organizations and farm commodity groups as well as farm leaders in Congress.

In answer to a query, the secretary-designate said the fact that Kennedy was turning to the farm leaders does not mean that he was abandoning a farm program outlined during the presidential campaign.

That program envisioned a broad use of powers of the government — including rigid controls, production payments, price supports and other devices — to bring farm income to what Kennedy called a parity level.

June Allyson Seeks Divorce

HOLLYWOOD (AP) — Actress June Allyson wants to end her 15-year marriage to actor-director director Dick Powell, attorney Jerry Giesler said Thursday.

The famed filmland attorney said he will file a divorce suit for the 37-year-old actress in Los Angeles within a few weeks.

"It's just one of those things, I guess," Giesler said.

The actress will charge mental cruelty. No specific charges will be made, Giesler said.

The marriage of the petite one-time Broadway ingenue and the handsome crooner-director was considered one of Hollywood's happiest. However, in recent years there were rumors of discord as Powell's expanding job as director and producer took him away from Hollywood.

Powell, 56, i now in Europe.

The marriage, on Aug. 19, 1945, at the Hollywood home of composer Johnny Green, was the first for Miss Allyson, a squeaky-voiced newcomer to films. It was the second for Powell, who had divorced actress Joan Blondell after eight years.

Miss Allyson was 21 at the time and Powell 41.

Tax Cut Urged By Task Force If Lag Worsens

Kennedy Study Group Reports On 'Recession'

CHANCELLOR — Dr. George W. Beadle (above), Nobel prize winner from the California Institute of Technology, yesterday was chosen chancellor of the University of Chicago. Beadle, 57, won a Nobel prize in medicine in 1958. (AP Photofax)

NEW YORK (AP)—President-elect John F. Kennedy Thursday night received study committee recommendations for swift emergency measures to combat the business slump. The group also urged temporary tax cuts if the situation turns a great deal worse in the spring.

A task force appointed by Kennedy to evaluate the state of the economy cautioned, however, against pushing any panic button at this time and calling for a program of massive spending and public works.

Instead, the committee recommended use of a full kit of fiscal and monetary steps in an effort to end the business lag without resort to more drastic procedures.

"Powerful Weapon"

But the group said bluntly that if conditions should grow seriously worse "a temporary reduction in tax rates on individual incomes can be a powerful weapon against recession." The report added:

"Congress could legislate, for example, a cut of three or four percentage points in the tax rate applicable to every income class, to take effect immediately under our withholding system, in March or April and to continue until the end of the year."

The study committee said further that it would be highly desirable for Congress to grant to the new president the right to continue such a reduction for one or two six-month or three-month periods beyond that time, "with the clear understanding that the reduction will definitely expire by the end of 1962."

Kennedy Has No Comment

Kennedy had no immediate comment on the report. He met with the committee at his Carlyle Hotel headquarters shortly before it was made public.

The task force is headed by Dr. Paul A. Samuelson, economics professor at the Massachusetts institute of Technology.

The president-elect recently voiced concern about what he called a lack of vigor in the American economy. He noted that the Samuelson committe was at work on a study for him, and said at the time that he would make a judgment on what to do about the business lag after he takes office Jan. 20.

The committee report hit indirectly at Eisenhower administration policies and implied that if they had been different, the 1957 recession and the current slump could have ben avoided.

The report calls the current situation a recession, but said it can not be termed a depression at this point.

U.S. Diplomats Doubt If Many Reds In Laos

BANGKOK, Thailand (AP) — Many U.S. diplomats in Asia doubt the charges of their own government that substantial numbers of outside Communist forces have intervened in Laos, informed sources said Thursday.

Other members of the Southeast Asia Treaty Organization, here for a council meeting, have been reluctant to accept the charges. SEATO statements so far have denounced Soviet arms aid to Laotian rebels but have made no mention of outside troop intervention.

Informed sources said U.S. diplomats in Laos and at this SEATO headquarters doubt that outside Communist forces in any large numbers are taking part in the fighting in the neighboring kingdom.

They said other U.S. officials in this area, apparently including representatives of the Central Intelligence Agency, are equally convinced that substantial numbers of Red troops have entered Laos.

One Western diplomat said it appears U.S. diplomats and CIA agents are dispatching conflicting reports to Washington, and the CIA reports have gained credence in the U.S. capital.

Washington Tuesday charged that "substantial numbers of North Vietnamese Communist personnel" were parachuted into Laos.

In this connection, a Laotian government spokesman in Vientiane asserted Thursday that Soviet planes have begun flying Red North Viet Nam troops out of Laos to prevent their being captured and identified.

Rioters Burn U.S. Flag In Uruguay

MONTEVIDEO, Uruguay (UPI) —Anti-American rioters burned a U. S. flag, threw stones and battled police in downtown Montevideo Thursday at the climax of a leftist rally in support of Fidel Castro.

Police repeatedly charged the rioters and fired tear gas grenades to break up the Independence Square demonstration in clouds of eye-stinging smoke.

Senate Republican Post Retained By Goldwater

WASHINGTON (AP)—Sen. Barry Goldwater—Arizona's outspoken conservative—was reappointed chairman of the Republican Senate Campaign Committee Thursday with a solid vote of confidence.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who had questioned whether Goldwater should be continued in the job, said he was satisfied with the ground rules Goldwater laid down for the 1962 senatorial campaign in a closed meeting of Republican senators. Javits is up for re-election in 1962.

The conference chairman, Sen. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts, said Goldwater made it clear he "simply would not express his personal views in a state where the party candidate had different views."

Javits said he made no objection when the conference, by voice vote, approved Saltonstall's reappointment of Goldwater. He said it was obvious Goldwater had overwhelming support.

Javits took issue with a statement criticizing the poor showing Goldwater said New York Republicans made in losing that state to President-elect John F. Kennedy.

The New Yorker, who had supported New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller for the GOP presidential nomination until the latter withdrew, told reporters he did not agree with Goldwater that New York Republicans had done badly in their campaign on behalf of Vice President Richard M. Nixon.

"We did very well in view of the fact that the tide was very strong against our candidate in New York," Javits said.

Debate Ends Without Vote On Complaint

Council In Effect Rejects Castro 'Invasion' Claim

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council in effect rejected Thursday night Cuba's charge that she faced imminent military invasion by the United States.

The 11-nation council did so by concluding a two-day debate without taking any formal action on a Cuban complaint filed Saturday saying such intervention was expected in a matter of hours.

This amounted to another defeat for the regime of Prime Minister Fidel Castro in its Soviet-supported campaign to have the United Nations denounce the United States as an instigator of moves to topple Castro from power by military force.

Omar Loutfi of the United Arab Republic, council president, ended the meeting with a terse expression of hope for reduction of tensions between the United States and Cuba.

Fist-Fights In Lobby

The council wound up its debate at 7:30 p.m. in an atmosphere of relative calm compared with outbursts by pro-Castro and anti-Castro demonstrators that disrupted proceedings Wednesday.

But some fist-fights erupted in the lobby of the General Assembly late Thursday afternoon and again outside U.N. headquarters. U.N. guards ousted the participants from the lobby and New York police broke up the fighting outside the building.

In a final intervention Cuban Foreign Minister Raul Roa persisted in charging that his country was in danger of military aggression by what he called the reactionary and imperialistic regime of President Eisenhower.

"This threat still hangs over Cuba despite the fact that the United States may deny it," he declared. He said invaders "will not meet a Cuba who is alone. They will not meet another Guatemala but they will really get their come-uppance."

Russia Sees U. S. Threat

Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin said the break in diplomatic relations was proof of a threat by the United States against Cuba. He expressed hope that the incoming Kennedy administration would "take the course of peaceful settlement of the conflict which has been created."

Chile and Ecuador decided not to press to a vote their resolution merely calling on the United States and Cuba to resolve their differences by peaceful means.

They took that course after the United States and other Western powers made clear that they opposed any action in the council that would give the slightest legal recognition to the validity of the Cuban complaint.

Nigeria Ousts French Envoy

LAGOS, Nigeria (AP)—Protesting France's recent third atomic blast in the Sahara, Nigeria Thursday night ordered the French ambassador and his staff to leave within two days. It also barred French ships and planes.

Information Minister T. O. S. Benson told a news conference Ambassador Raymond Offroy must be gone by Saturday night. Transit of French ships and planes was barred immediately, he said.

Benson said sterner measures will be taken against France if Sahara testing goes on. This could mean a break of all November. It has since been a leader in the moderate progressive group of new African nations—somewhat apart from such countries as Guinea and Ghana, which lean left in the cold war, and the less assertive former French colonies.

Benson said sterner measures will be taken against France if Sahara testing goes on. This could mean a break of all diplomatic relations with France.

In Paris French government sources had no immediate comment. France has ignored protests against the Sahara testing of atomic devices, insisting they are necessary for development of a nuclear deterrent and that all explosions are carefully controlled.

Steamer To Rescue

LIMERICK, Ireland (AP) — A century-old steam locomotive came out of the junkyard Thursday to substitute for a modern diesel. The powerful diesel-electric couldn't make the 24-mile run between Limerick and Ennis because of flooding on the line and the risk of short circuits.

No Army Secretary Post For Vandiver

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP) — Gov. Ernest Vandiver withdrew himself Thursday from consideration as secretary of the Army because "my first duty is to the people of Georgia."

President-elect John F. Kennedy, in a wire from his New York headquarters, promptly acknowledged Vandiver's telegram of withdrawal and said: "I hope it will be possible for you, when you have completed your work there to join the administration in a position of responsibility."

He gave no hint of what other high post he might have in mind later for Vandiver, who has two years left in his term.

The 42-year-old governor's announcement ended days of speculation among Georgia politicos. Among these was Lt. Gov. Garland T. Byrd who, if Vandiver had gone to Washington, would have taken over the governor's chair and the hot potato of proposed new segregation legislation due to come up when the legislature meets two weeks hence.

In a note of bitterness, Vandiver's telegram said, "Irresponsible journalism by a New York Times writer, falsely alleging 'congressional pressure,' has been embarrassing to me." He referred to a Times report that Georgia's Sen. Richard E. Russell and Rep. Carl Vinson, chairmen respectively of the Senate and House Armed Services committees had brought pressure to bear on Vandiver's behalf. Vandiver is Russell's nephew by marriage.

Kennedy also took occasion in his reply "to reiterate at this time that on no occasion did you, the members of the Georgia congressional delegation, or any other citizen attempt to influence or pressure me in regard to this nomination."

Maryland Farm Agency Study In Final Stage

ANNAPOLIS (AP)—A commission studying whether Maryland should create a Department of Agriculture neared the end of its report Thursday but said some final details remain to be worked out before recommendations are presented to Gov. Tawes and the legislature.

The six-man commission, headed by J. Homer Remsberg of Middleburg, a Frederick County dairy farmer, has held 11 meetings since it was appointed by Tawes last May at the request of the legislature. It also has visited and studied agriculture departments in Virginia and New Jersey.

The group is attempting to determine whether Maryland's agricultural affairs should remain in the hands of the University of Maryland Board of Regents, which also doubles as the State Board of Agriculture, or placed under a separate agency.

After a session which lasted all afternoon Thursday, Remsberg said the report probably would be completed within the next couple of weeks. He would give no indication of the group's thinking on its studies to date but said it had been making an "exhaustive survey."

It is expected to eventually come up with some recommendation which will create a new agency with an influential voice in agricultural affairs if it doesn't feel a separate department is necessary.

Algeria Tense On Eve Of Vote

ALGIERS (AP) — Armed and battle-tested French security forces took up positions throughout Algeria Thursday on the eve of the fateful referendum on this rebellious territory's future.

Sixteen warships of the French fleet steamed in from France and reinforced ships already on guard along the coast.

In three days of balloting beginning Friday, Algerians will vote yes, no, or abstain on President Charles de Gaulle's offer of self-determination for Algeria. Metropolitan France votes Sunday.

De Gaulle has staked his prestige on the outcome. If the vote is yes, then the actual vote on self-determination will come later. He has threatened to resign if he does not get a substantial majority.

Despite the cross-currents of discontent in this unhappy land, torn by six years of the Algerian nationalist revolt, it is generally believed that De Gaulle will get his majority. This is virtually assured by the large vote in France where his popularity remains immense.

Tension and agitation gripped both Algerians and European settlers in the big cities.

Some reports said the Europeans would stage demonstrations. Others said nationalist rebel terrorism was planned. There were rumors rebel forces across the border in Tunisia would attack frontier posts.

Quake Reported In Aleutian Islands

BERKELEY, Calif. (AP) — A strong earthquake occurred Thursday in the Aleutian Islands, the University of California reported.

Dr. Don Tocher, seismologist, said the quake was 2,300 miles northwest of Berkeley.

It began at 6:14:00 a.m. Pacific time and continued for some time, the university's recording instruments indicated.

Driver License Files Trimmed By 621,600

BALTIMORE (AP) — A three-year reregistration of Maryland drivers turned up 621,600 obsolete licenses, the Department of Motor Vehicles reported Thursday.

Commissioner John R. Jewell said 1,130,998 drivers applied for new licenses before the Dec. 31 deadline. The department had mailed 1,752,598 applications to motorists listed in its files.

Jewell said most of the 621,600 obsolete licenses represent persons who are dead or who have moved without reporting their new addresses.

The commissioner said drivers who failed to reregister are using invalid licenses.

Six Charged With Selling 'Girly' Mags

BALTIMORE (AP)—Six Baltimore news dealers were charged Thursday with violating obscene literature laws by selling "girly" magazines.

Meanwhile, two other men pleaded innocent to charges brought Wednesday after a police raid on a West Baltimore Street book store. Police said more than 1,800 pornographic items were seized in that raid, many taken from behind "secret panels."

Albert King, 41, one of the six dealers indicted Thursday in Criminal Court on "girly" book charges, also was charged with possession and sale of strip tease photographs.

Skin Diver Seeks Boy Skater's Body

BALTIMORE (AP) — Robert Zouck, 7, fell through the ice Thursday and apparently drowned while skating on Lake Roland.

The boy was in a skating party which included an older brother, his mother and two of her women friends.

A skin diver searched the lake for the boy.

Two Young Sisters Die In Fire; Two Brothers Feared Drowned

By The Associated Press

Two young sisters died in a fire which destroyed their farm home near Frederick Thursday and two Maryland brothers were feared drowned in an apparent boating accident near Baltimore.

The brothers — fathers of nine children — have been missing since they left Sunday for a fishing trip in a home-made rowboat.

A Coast Guard search boat located the craft Thursday, partly submerged in shallow water of the Patapsco River west of Brooklyn, about two miles southwest of where the fishing trip began.

A search for the two — John Tolodziecki, 37, the father of four, and his brother Francis, 34, father of five — began the next day after they failed to return home from the fishing trip.

John is from Glen Burnie, and Francis is from Baltimore.

Dead in the early morning fire at the tenant farm home near Frederick were Nancy Moals, 9, and her sister, Helen, 6.

Their father, George B. Moals Jr., a Negro, made three trips into the flaming two-story house to save his family.

Moals was milking in a nearby barn when one of his sons, George 2nd, ran to him saying the house was afire. Moals rushed inside and helped his wife, Minnie, 31, and the couple's three-week-old daughter from a second floor window to the ground below.

Moals returned to the second floor and carried two boys, Jeffery, 4, and Marcus Lee, 7, to safety. But on his third trip into the burning house, Moals was blocked by flames and smoke from reaching his daughters.

Moals suffered face and chest burns and his wife was burned about the arms.

At Annapolis, a two-story hotel in a crowded Negro section was gutted by flames early Thursday and three firemen were treated for smoke inhalation.

Eight persons lived in the frame and stucco building in a densely populated area. Those who were there at the time escaped safely.

The fire, cause of which was not immediately determined, was confined to the single structure by fire companies from Annapolis, Eastport, West Annapolis and the Naval Academy.

At Forest Glen, an estimated $4,000 damage was caused by a fire in the annex here of Walter Reed Army Medical Center.

The fire was confined chiefly to a space beneath the hobby shop floor.

Boy's Shooting "One In Million" Accident

HAGERSTOWN (AP) — State's Atty. James F. Strine Thursday described the fatal shooting of a 13-year-old boy last week as "a one in a million" type of accident.

He said no charges would be filed against another youth who fired the bullet that struck Philip Shank, son of Robert Shank, executive director of the Hagerstown Housing Authority.

According to Strine, at least four youths were in a large field outside of Hagerstown last Friday in separate groups, apparently unaware others were in the area.

Young Shank was felled by a shot fired by 18-year-old George N. Rowe, Strine said. Rowe was 1,750 feet away from Shank, who was hidden by a rise in the field.

Maryland Briefs

HAVRE DE GRACE, Md. (AP) — Sentences of two years each have been imposed on four men who were stopped at a police roadblock on U.S. 40 near Aberdeen.

Police said the car in which they were riding also was carrying five pay telephones, including one stolen a short time earlier at a service station.

The sentences were imposed Wednesday by Magistrate Robert Lawder on Barksdale Carter of Arlington, Va.; George Hebb of Oxon Hill, Md., and Burgess Johnson and William Johnson, both of Washington.

HALETHORPE, Md. (AP)—Police report that two windows of a Baltimore and Ohio commuter train out of Washington were smashed by shots fired at the Lansdowne Crossing.

The shooting took place Wednesday night, police said. No one was injured. An investigation indicated the bullets were from a .22 caliber rifle or pistol, but there was no clue as to who fired them.

Damage was estimated at $150.

BALTIMORE (AP) — Injuries suffered in a fall on the ice in front of his home Sunday were fatal Thursday to Donald Villalla, 48, of Baltimore. Physicians said a blood clot formed when Villalla struck his head in the fall.

BALTIMORE (AP) — A Baltimore man whose wife was killed in the crash of an Electra turboprop plane near Tell City, Ind., last March has brought a $1.5 million suit against Northwest Airlines, Inc.

Mario M. Gentile filed the suit in federal court for himself and as administrator of the estate of his wife, Elizabeth Jane. Mrs. Gentile was one of 63 passengers killed in the crash.

Gentile contends that the airline operated the plane in a negligent manner.

BALTIMORE (AP) — You could hardly say things went smoothly for Maurice D. Laupeimer as he started to drive away from the front of his home Wednesday night.

His car lurched and came to a tipsy stop. Investigating, Laupeimer found the left front wheel had been stolen. The thief left the car resting on a stack of lumber.

TOWSON, Md. (AP) — Republicans apparently believe in getting an early start on campaigning chores in Baltimore County.

GOP leaders have announced a rally Monday night to kick-off the 1962 campaign. "The job is just beginning," said Mrs. Christine H. Nathan, a member of the Republican State Central Committee.

Police Drag River For Missing Pilot

CAMBRIDGE (AP) — State Police began dragging operations in the icy waters of the Choptank River Thursday as a search continued for a missing Marine Corps student pilot.

Two Marine helicopters from Quantico, Va., provided assistance as aerial search efforts were maintained throughout the day in the hunt for Capt. Ernest C. Brace.

The 29-year-old officer was lost Tuesday when his T28 trainer crashed and burned near the edge of a cornfield across the Choptank, just north of this Eastern Shore city.

A helmet, parachute and flight jacket were found near the flaming wreckage. A full-scale ground and air search ended Wednesday, with authorities convinced Brace must have come down in the cold water just east of the Chesapeake Bay.

W. Virginia Coal Lands Leased To New Corporation

BETHLEHEM, Pa. (AP) — The Lehigh Coal and Navigation Co. announced Thursday it has leased to Utilities Coal Corp., the bituminous coal and surface lands of Boone County Coal Corp. Boone is a wholly owned subsidiary of Lehigh C. & N.

The lease for the Boone properties, located in West Virginia, is for 40 years with an option to renew for an additional 40-years. Mining operations at Boone were discontinued Nov. 4, 1960.

Utilities Coal, a newly formed corporation with operating offices in Sharples, W. Va., and headquarters at Huntington, W. Va., proposes to operate Boone under the name of Boone County Coal Corp.

Boone also entered into a two-year option agreement with certain individuals associated with Utilities Coal to purchase the leased property for $1,500,000. The firm's buildings, mining structures, equipment, materials and supplies have been sold to Utilities Mining Corp. for $865,000, payable over a term of eight years or less.

Woman To Woman

NEW YORK (UPI) — "Hospitals need more patience with patients."

A doctor — not a patient — makes that point in a report in "Modern Hospital," a journal for the nation's hospital administrators.

Dr. Fred Singeisen, medical director of the psychiatric hospital in St. Gallen, Switzerland, doesn't want patients to get the notion that they're being short-changed in medical matters, however.

"While patients in hospitals are generally extremely well cared for physically, not nearly enough is done to promote their mental well-being," he said.

The champion for more tender loving care in hospitals isn't in favor of all about the sick person acting sentimental. He doesn't want patients coddled, for example.

"In our view," he reported, "psychology in hospitals means extending our helping attitudes to patients and carrying out the human duty we all took upon ourselves when we chose the hospital as the setting for our work, whether as doctor, administrator or nurse."

One trouble cited by the expert occurs in some hospitals when a patient dares not to ask questions even when inwardly alarmed.

Another problem concerns the patient's anxiety about surgery.

"There is the uncanny feeling of putting oneself at another's mercy," Dr. Singeisen said. "Anesthesia gives rise to a feeling of being overpowered and brought close to death.

"In our research on this problem, we had some children write school essays of their hospital experiences, and many of them wrote of being afraid that the doctor would make a mistake and they would never wake up again."

Then the research team asked itself what to do about such problems. Among answers, Dr. Singeisen cited the following:

— A recommendation that patients be made to feel emotionally that they are in good hands. The expert said this is accomplished when all about the patient, from ward maids to the hospital director, are hospitable and good-spirited.

— A recommendation that no surly porters or ill-mannered clerks be tolorated.

Girl Finds New Home In Wake Of Tragedy

NEW YORK (UPI) —Little Patricia McKiernan will have a new home when she leaves the hospital early next week.

Patricia is the three-and-one-half year old girl who spent five days locked in a bedroom after her widowed mother, Jennie, died of a heart attack, apparently while taking a nap.

A sister of Mrs. McKiernan, Mrs. Matthew Mahoney of Amityville, N.Y., said she plans to adopt Patricia and rear her with her own four children. There had been several offers from around the country to adopt the girl.

A spokesman for Misericordia Hospital in the Bronx said Patricia ate solid food for the first time Wednesday. Although she is still on the critical list because of a high temperature, the spokesman said the girl is "alert, responsive and acting like a typical three-year-old in a hospital."

Focus On Health

By The Associated Press

Does a chill set you up for getting a cold? And can fiddler crabs provide a test for pregnancy?

COLDS

Getting chilled does not make you more likely to catch a cold.

This is one finding from studies in which volunters were injected with one virus responsible for common colds. Persons subjected to chills or to fatigue beforehand didn't get significantly more colds.

Most resistant, researchers found, were people who didn't think they would get a cold, who didn't think emotions influenced physical well-being, and who didn't have any particular worry or concern in their lives at the time.

PREGNANCY

Fiddler crabs, the little animals that skitter along beaches, may provide a cheap and simple test for pregnancy.

The color of their shell is controlled by a gland in the stalks which support the crab's protruding eyes. If the stalks are removed, the hormone is removed and the shell color changes.

The crab's color hormone is similar to a hormone produced early in human pregnancy, and present in urine samples. Experiments so far indicate the human hormone can change the color in stalk-less crabs, and thus provide a pregnancy test, researchers at the medical college of South Carolina report.

BLOATING

A chemical made from silicone —abundant in common sand — looks promising in overcoming excessive intestinal gas and bloating, judging from 200 patients tested thus far.

The product, methyl polysiloxane, brought excellent results in 73, good in 78, some improvement in 38, and had no effect in 13, report Drs. J. Alfred Rider and Hugo C. Moeller of San Francisco.

CANCER RESEARCH

Dr. Relda Cailleau, University of California cancer researcher, now has succeeded in growing human lung cancer tissue in test tubes.

This means the physical and chemical behavior of lung cancer can at last be studied under controlled conditions. The tissue came from part of the lung of a barber, 59, whose cancer was removed a year ago. He is still alive and in good health.

Animals feel pain less than humans do because their nervous systems are not as highly organized.

NEW YORK (AP)—Don't become overly bullish about the stock market at this point, a leading investment advisory service warns.

Standard & Poor's Corp. points out that about 11 per cent already has been added to average share values in a little more than two months.

It suggests that investment of reserve funds should be on a sparing basis, limited to singularly promising selections.

Standard & Poor's reminds that selectivity was the keynote to successful investing in 1960, and expresses belief it may have to be stressed even more this year.

If the recession proves to be mild and runs its course in the first half, 1961 could prove to be a more rewarding year to investors than 1960 but there are reasons to believe the economic recovery will be quite gradual, it says.

The anticipated bull market is likely to turn out to be "a bull of a different color," comments Shields & Co.

It notes that during 1960 a great deal of money withdrew from market and now a great deal is poised to return.

"This is how we will build our bull market this year," it continues.

"But during the next couple of years there are not going to be too many companies racing to fill the market void. The laurels will go to organizations which are inventive, competitive and cost-conscious. You will not be able to select the stocks you need by tossing darts at the market pages.

"The coming bull market looks to us like a market which may proceed with fits and starts, getting ahead of itself every so often. It is going to require a new and more astute kind of investment thinking."

Dairymen Face Contempt Move

BALTIMORE (AP)—Officials of three Eastern Shore dairies have been given until Jan. 13 to show cause why they should not be held in contempt of federal court.

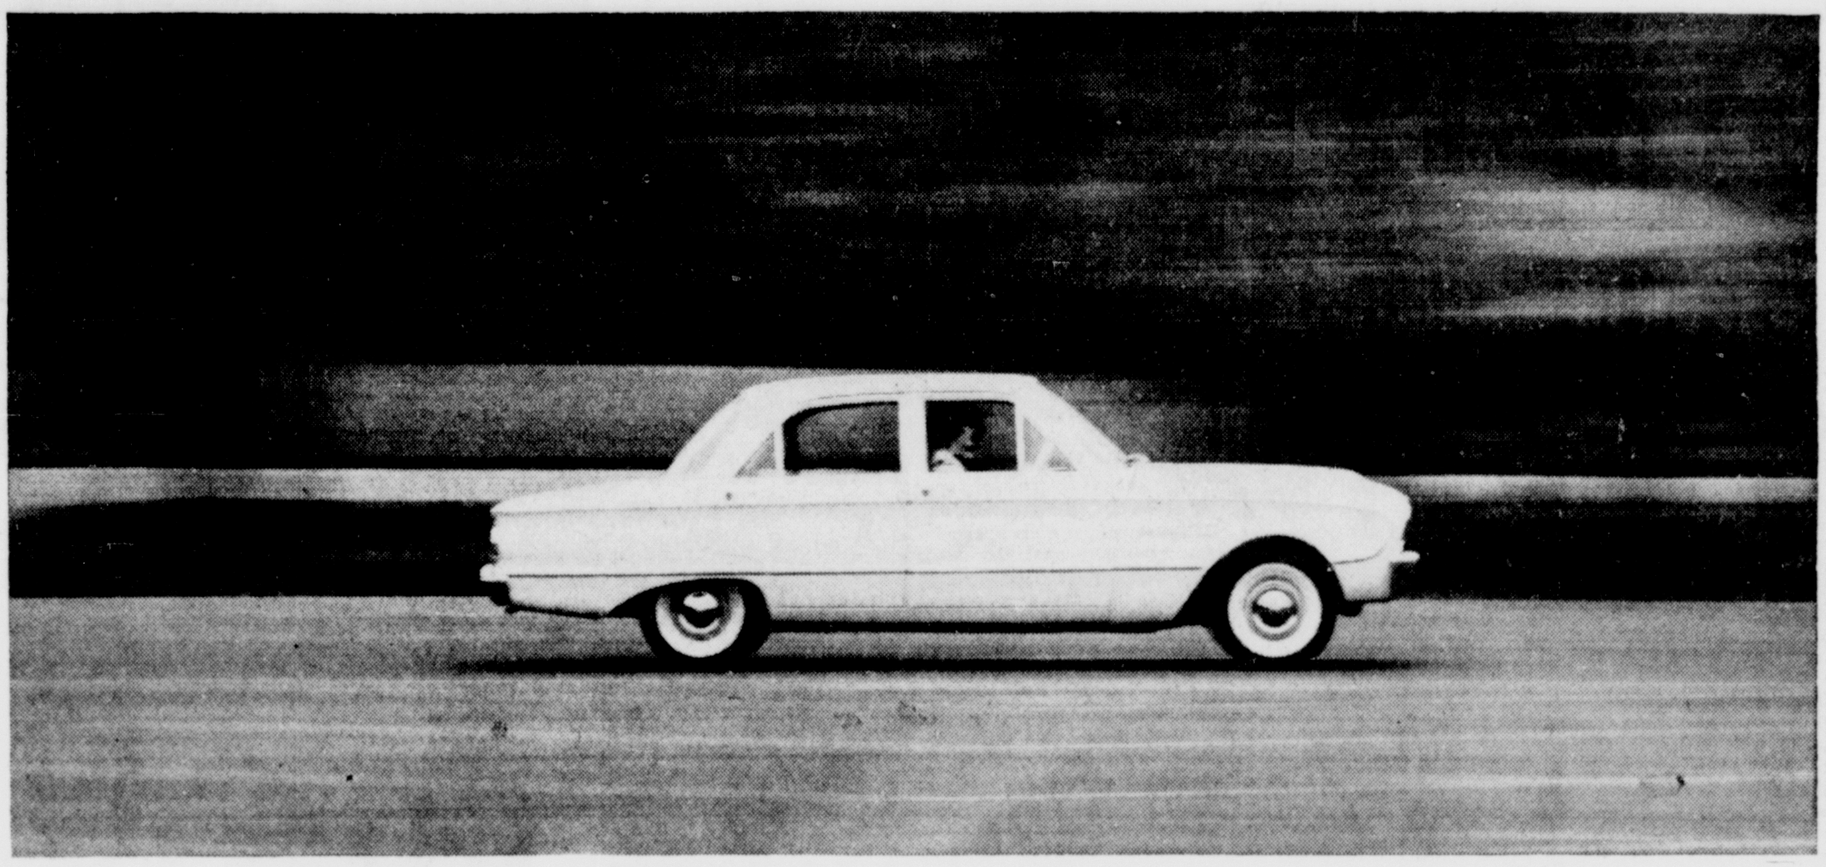

The order was issued in Baltimore Thursday by Federal Judge Roszel C. Thomsen after U.S. Atty. Leon H.A. Pierson charged that the dairymen had filed deficient records relating to a milk marketing order.

The dairies involved are Mills Dairy Products, Co. and Twilley's City Dairy, both of Cambridge, and Shiloh Dairy Farms of Hurlock. All three oppose a marketing order that includes their operations along with dairies in the Baltimore area.

The dairymen had agreed to comply with the order last October after the federal court had threatened them with contempt proceedings.

The flute goes back into antiquity. It was a great favorite with the ancient Greeks and Romans.

Why Falcon has won the battle of the compacts

The truth of the matter is this: there can be only one best seller in any field.
In compact cars, this honor goes to the Ford Falcon . . . overwhelmingly!
Unwrapped just 14 months ago, Falcon has already sold over 525,000 cars.
These sales represent the greatest automotive success since cars began.

1960 will be remembered as Falcon's year.

This was the year Falcon won the attle of the Compacts.

It was a fascinating battle. America was asked to choose from 11 different compact cars. Each one offered something different, something new. Each one had its own ideas on what America wanted in compact cars. There were rear engines, aluminum engines, 4-cylinder, 6-cylinder, 8-cylinder engines, rear transmissions, mighty horsepower, meek horsepower, expensive luxury models, cheap bare-bone models.

It was confusing in the beginning. But as sales figures began to come in . . . as state after state reported its registrations . . . a trend began to take shape.

America was going Falcon!

By March it was fairly certain.

By July it was in the bag.

By December it was a landslide!

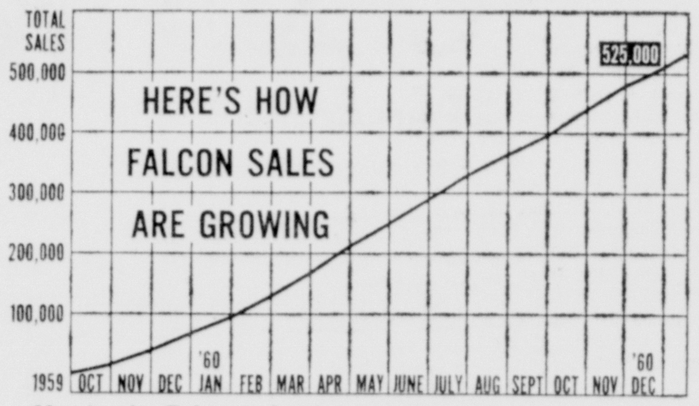

Today over 525,000 people own Falcons . . . the greatest popular vote any new car has ever received from its introduction through its first full year. In fact, so great is the popular demand for Falcon, that every 30 seconds of every working day somebody else buys one. Just what has Falcon got the others have not? It's not just one thing . . . it's many things . . . a combination of features you can't find in any other compact except Falcon.

Economy is one of these features. All compacts save you money in some ways . . . but only Falcon saves you all ways. Falcon goes up to 30 miles on one gallon of regular gas. A proven fact! Falcon goes 4,000 miles between oil changes. With Falcon's Diamond Lustre Finish, you can forget waxing . . . forever! And because Falcon is a true compact, it costs less to service, less to license and, depending upon where you live, less to insure. Many of today's compacts are so big, so powerful, they cost about as much to buy and run as a big car. No other compact saves you as much as Falcon. It took no time for America to see this.

Another reason why Falcon has won the Battle of the Compacts: family comfort. Falcon is a full 6-passenger car . . . in every sense of the word. You can't say that about every other compact. For example, Falcon's rear seat is almost one full foot wider than another compact's.

There's also enough luggage space in Falcon's trunk so you can take off for weeks at a time. Not so with every other compact. One in particular has only about half as much trunk space.

Perhaps the greatest Falcon surprise of all is its cheery interior. All the luxury hasn't been stripped out of this compact! Falcon offers a car that is pleasant, comfortable . . . yes, even elegant . . . to sit in. Falcon has all the pleasantries: coat hooks, front arm rests, sun visors, foam-padded front seat, rich upholstery—all the little luxuries you never miss until somebody takes them away. And Falcon doesn't charge extra for these luxuries. They're all included in that low Falcon price—at not one penny's extra cost.

Here's why Falcon's first! Over 525,000 sold since its introduction makes Falcon the most successful new car in automotive history. And Falcon not only leads all other compacts—it breaks its own sales records, too. November Falcon sales jumped a whopping 46% over November a year ago!

Finally there is the question of price. And here is where Falcon read America's mind perfectly. Compacts are smaller cars. Their prices should be smaller . . . much smaller! A good many of today's compacts are actually priced more than many big cars. To give you an idea of the difference between compact prices, let's compare Falcon with the field.

The Ford Falcon is America's very lowest-priced 6-passenger car.* And not by mere pennies. It is priced as much as $505† less than other compacts. There is a $505 price difference between Falcon and the highest-priced compact.

To be sure, we could have built the Falcon differently. It would have been easy to make it larger, more elaborate, frillier and more expensive. We could have made it smaller and stripped it down to four wheels and an engine. We could have given it a V-8 or a 4-cylinder engine . . . transmission in the rear, aluminum everywhere, a rear engine. We could have done many different, unusual things . . . but we didn't. And apparently the public agreed with us!

The Falcon's design makes beautiful sense. It gives you a combination of three built-in bonuses . . . found in no other compact. The first of these is price. There just isn't a lower-priced 6-passenger car made in America today. Falcon is the rock-bottom lowest!

The second Falcon savings bonus might be entitled, "The Easiest Car In The World To Own." You cash in on it every day you own a Falcon. It includes the hundred-and-one ways Falcon costs less to run . . . the savings on gas, oil, waxing, mufflers, servicing, licensing, insurance.

The third Falcon savings bonus comes at trade-in time. You'll find yourself in a very enviable bargaining position with one of the hottest resale cars ever. A December issue of Automotive Market Reports shows that Falcon depreciates from $138 to $175 less than the other compacts in its class. Falcon is as popular used—as it is new!

Easier to buy, easier to own, easier to sell—the ideal combination of everything you want most in a compact. Only Falcon has it. That's why only Falcon could be America's best-selling compact!

Mrs. Kennedy Heads Best Dressed List

By PAT HERMAN

NEW YORK (UPI)—Jacqueline Bouvier Kennedy, whose ultra-chic wardrobe became an issue in her husband's presidential campaign, Thursday won top place on the list of best dressed women for 1960.

The wife of the president-elect was one of 12 women cited by the New York Couture Group based on its yearly poll of fashion writers and columnists.

Some critics during the campaign accused Mrs. Kennedy of spending too much on clothes and of favoring European designers.

The "best dressed list" gave no estimate of her expenditures but it noted that the designers she liked were Americans Norman Norell, Ben Zuckerman, Oleg Cassini and the custom dressmakers of the New York department store, Bergdorf Goodman.

Tall, dark-haired Mrs. Kennedy told the press on the day after her husband's election that being a pacesetter in fashion was "at the bottom of the list" of things that she considered important.

Fashion critics ignored this and placed her above such well known fashion plates as Audrey Hepburn, Princess Alexandra of Kent, Mrs. Stavros Niarchos and the Queen of Thailand.

Other women on the top drawer fashion list came mostly from the world of society. They were Vicomtesse Jacqueline de Ribes of Paris; Mrs. Norman K. Winston of New York and Paris; Donna Marella Agnelli, of Turin, Italy; Mrs. Loel Guiness of Paris and Palm Beach, Fla.; Mrs. Patrick Guiness (a daughter by a previous marriage, now wed to her stepson); Mrs. John Barry Ryan IIII of New York City, and Mrs. David K. Bruce of Washington, D.C.

Mrs. Kennedy has a mannequin sized figure and clothes tastes that are distinctly American. It is expected that as first lady she will emphasize American designs. She likes high styled unfitted silhouettes in dresses, loose but neatly buttoned coats and bright colors. She has never favored hats.

Mrs. Kennedy designed her own gown for the inaugural ball. The president-elect approved the sketches. Bergdorf Goodman is executing the gown.

Hadassah Meeting Postponed

The meeting of the Cumberland Chapter of Hadassah, scheduled for January 11, has been postponed until January 18 at 8:15 p.m. in the B'er Chayim Temple Vestry room.

Solons Given Gavels Of Wood From Local Home

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Gavels made of wood from an old house near Cumberland were presented Thursday to the Senate president and House speaker.

Sen. Charles See, R - Allegany presented them in behalf of the Allegany County Historical Society.

Brief background provided by Miss Ruth Clauson, president of the society, was read to the two bodies of legislators.

The wood came from a house built in the late 18th century on a site near Cumberland now known as Wolfe's Mill. Originally, it was called Folch's Mill.

The State Roads Commission bought the property on U.S. 40 in 1956 from the estate of Mrs. Emma Clauson Wolfe and razed the house.

The site was the scene of a Civil War battle. Miss Clauson stated logs from the house from which the gavels were made contained Confederate bullets.

Secrets Of Charm

by John Robert Powers

Resort Clothes Preview Fashion

Lucky you, if you're leaving soon for a winter vacation in warmer climes. While you count this blessing among all your others, add another—getting a head start on setting the pace in style for next spring and summer. You'll not only be outfitted in advance, but you will have the cream of couture to draw upon in resort fashions on display right now.

Take your shopping plunge with a new swimsuit. Swimwear is celebrating a change in cycle, heralding a return to the "Lady Look." No longer is the only two-piece suit a bumptious bikini. Instead, it's smooth fitting boy-leg trunks topped with a figure-flattering elasticized over blouse. Sometimes belted or collared for a sportswear look.

The two heavy favorites in one-piece suits are the bareback knit maillot, haltered high in front, and the neat pleated skirt with an easy bodice, chic descendant of old-fashioned dressmaker designs.

Moderate exposure and modest deportment are the fascinating keys in this new pitch for femininity in swimwear. But, make no mistake about it, the FIT is there. So, although the showgirl look is gone, girlishness still shows, to its prettiest advantage.

Other early-bird trends to take along on your winter trip include stripes, bolder than ever, pale prints, blurred for a water color effect; fresh light plaids in dainty pastel tones like peach, shrimp pink, lavender or apple green.

Today's resort-wear fabrics, principally silk and cotton, take on almost any texture to imitate every conceivable material. Novelty weaves, knits, cords, shantungs and sheers shot with embroidered or lacey designs make monotony impossible in the new wardrobe you'll enjoy wearing all through 1961.

Tomorrow: Mother's aid.

Wet Dog Taste

NEW YORK (UPI)—Reports on the preservation of food by irradiation bring different opinions from opposite sides of the Atlantic, the American Chemical Society reports.

American researchers report that while radiation does indeed produce detectable changes in the flavor of meat, the public may still become accustomed to it. But British scientists report that radiation imparts to meat a "wet dog taste."

COLD CLIMATE DISEASE

NEW YORK (UPI) — Young adults are the chief victims of multiple sclerosis, a disease which strikes as many as one in 720 Americans.

Essentially a cold-climate disease, the prevalence of multiple sclerosis is 5 to 10 times higher in the northern states of the nation than in the southern states, according to a report in Patterns of Disease, a publication for doctors.

For The Birds

NEW YORK (UPI) — Here's snowy-day fun for youngsters, combined with a good deed. Set them to work at preparing a feast for the birds.

In her book, "Fun With Kids," Sheri Lewis gives several suggestions: chains of popcorn, cranberries, apple pieces or peanuts. As a special treat, your small fry might enjoy making a peanut-butter cup. For this, they will need a paper cup—with sides cut down to make it shallow, a loop of thread to hold the tiny tucket and a mixture of peanut butter and bread crumbs. As soon as the snow stops, this quick-lunch stand can be hung on a bush or low branch.

Italian Mayor Commutes 7,500 Miles To His Job

SCHIGNANO, Italy (UPI)—The mayor of this Alpine village left home, told his wife not to wait for him at lunch time and headed for the city hall—just 7,500 miles away.

Commuters who complain of the distance between their homes and offices probably wouldn't envy Aurelio Gelpi, mayor of this village of 1,200 in the Intelvi Valley, only a few miles from deep blue Lake Como.

Gelpi makes a 12-hour trip aboard a jet airliner from Sao Paulo, Brazil, where he became a wealthy building contractor after emigrating ther several decades ago, every time he comes to his office here.

The mayor, a strongly built man with a winning smile, admitted he cannot be expected to sit in his office here every weekday.

"But I hope I can come here at least twice every month," ne promised his voters.

In a four-year term, air tickets from Sao Paulo to Milan and back are expected to cost him about 40 million lire ($64,000), which he pays out of his own pocket.

The first citizen of this lonely village was elected to his job without any campaigning.

Votes carrying his name poured into the ballot box in November. Other candidates, who had campaigned vigorously, suffered a humiliating defeat.

The mayor was the only person who did not know he was elected. Italian Post and Telegraph Minister E. Spallino, who married one of his nieces, broke the announcement to Gelpi in a cable to Sao Paulo.

"Who? Me? Stop kidding," the new mayor of Schignano said.

But it was not a hoax. Gelpi boarded a plane and arrived to tell his voters he was flattered but could not accept the job.

"But Schignano would plunge into an unprecedented political crisis if you refuse," the village solons told him.

Gelpi was unable to withdraw and stayed in office.

"I cannot betray the village where I was born," he said.

New Traffic Laws In Japan Are Confusing

By LEROY HANSEN

TOKYO (UPI)—Japan recently put into effect new nationwide traffic laws. The result: Mass confusion.

Drivers were confused, pedestrians were confused and traffic cops, the majority of whom do not know how to drive, also were confused.

The new laws did not get off to an auspicious start. No wonder, the laws were made up, in some instances, of a brand of double talk which hardly anyone could interpret or understand.

Take this gem:

"A one-eyed person can qualify to drive a motorbike with a cylinder displacement of less than 50 c.c. and light motor vehicles with a speed of less than 15 kilometers (9.3 miles) if he has an eyesight of more than .5 and a visual field of more than 150 degrees."

And be careful if you want to hold a parade, partimx 1ob;6if a giraffe is included. Says the law:

"A parade of more than 100 members of the self-defense forces and processions of more than 100 persons bearing flags, placards and banners or a group of persons accompanied by such large sized animals as giraffes and elephants must keep to the right side of the right half of the road except when directed otherwise by traffic officers."

Japan has a serious traffic problem. Plagued with an insufficient highway system, it has seen the number of automobiles increase from 188,000 in 1947 to the current more than 3 million. They are increasing at the rate of 40,000 monthly. Some 318,093 accidents from January through September last year killed 8,347 persons and injured 206,965.

But critics have complained the government has not done all it should to ease the situation.

Language of the new laws already has come under fire, particularly road signs which are scheduled to be put up shortly. (In Japan, road signs carry both Japanese ideographs and English translations.) Some read:

"May parking."

"May stopping."

"May parking and stopping."

"Section for sound of horn."

This one caused many a driver to scratch his head: "Right turn toward immediate outside."

The Mainichi Daily News said editorially such signs would make Japan appear ridiculous in the eyes of visitors.

It said it asked the police agency about the "strange signs" and was told that the wording already had been decided "by law" and that they could not make any immediate changes.

"Frequently," Mainichi said, "this problem becomes a matter of face. The one responsible will vehemently insist on having the error continue rather than be called on the carpet by his superior . . ."

Answers Your Problems

DEAR READERS: The wet noodle comes out of retirement—or better still, I'll take ten swats with Webster's dictionary, unabridged.

Did you know that when sisters marry, the husbands of said sisters are not even remotely related? I'll bet you thought the boys were brothers-in-law. Well, so did I—but I know better now. About 400 readers have told me.

I will explain it as dozens of readers explained it to me:

Princess Margaret is a sister-in-law to Prince Phillip, because she is his wife's sister. But Margaret's husband, Mr. Jones, is no relation whatever to Prince Phillip. They are just a couple of nice boys who married sisters.

My apologies to the reader who asked the original question. And my thanks to all you nice people who wrote to set me straight.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I've been dating Joe for over a year. We work in the same plant and I knew he was married but he said it wasn't working out. Joe never spoke of his wife, except to say she was sloppy and stupid.

In August I went to the company picnic with some girls from the plant. Joe hung around me as usual. One of his buddies came over and warned me to "be careful" because Joe's wife and kids had just arrived on the bus. When I saw them I almost died. His wife looked about 50 years old and she had six little kids hanging on to her skirts. Three were still in diapers.

I felt so ashamed of myself I was sick to my stomach. Joe ignored them as if they were strangers. Finally I told him to leave me alone and go to his family. I've been feeling so guilty that I'm sure the only way I can square things with myself is to go to his wife and beg her forgiveness. Should I?—LOWER THAN LOW

DEAR LOWER THAN: No YOU may feel better, but it won't help her much.

The best way to square yourself is to stay as far away from Joe as possible. Best of all, why don't you find another job?

Women like you, who date married men, flatter the vanity of these Tomcats and encourage prowling. They should be blocked at the very first pass, told to grow up and go home to their families—where they belong.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: We are three teens with a problem which has nothing to do with boys for a change.

My father has a younger brother who lives in a big city far away from here. I will call him Uncle Pete.

He was the "black sheep" of the family and ran away from home when he was 15. He got into trouble and disgraced the family. No one heard anything from him for about 15 years. Last May he came to town to surprise his mother on her 70th birthday. He had a big car, swell clothes and said he was doing fine in the construction business. He was awfully nice to everybody but my Dad gave him the cold shoulder. (Mom said he was jealous of Pete's success.)

Last week my sisters and I each got a $20 check from Uncle Pete—Christmas money. Dad says to return it because it may be "tainted." Mom says he is respectable now and we should forget the past. We need your advice.—SISTERS

DEAR SISTERS: When in doubt assume the best, not the worst. I say keep the money and thank Uncle Pete.

If alcohol is robbing you or someone you love of health and dignity, send for ANN LANDERS' booklet, "Help For The Alcoholic," enclosing with your request 20 cents in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

(Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope.)

Although animals will either fight or flee from a natural enemy, a number become so terrified when seeing a particular foe that they freeze in their tracks and are killed.

Some 30 thousand years ago, North America was covered with a layer of ice hundreds of feet in thickness.

Local Home Broken Into

City Police are investigating the breaking and entering of a North Cumberland home Wednesday night in which the intruder ransacked the residence and made off with an estimated $40 in cash.

According to Detective Kenneth Morrissey, the entry was made at the home of Mrs. Rose E Felton, 539 Columbia Avenue, while she was away from the premises between 8 and 10:30 p. m.

Entry was made by forcing the kitchen door, Detective Morrissey said. The first and second floors of the residence were left a shambles, he said, when the intruder threw clothing and the contents of dresser and bureau drawers on the floor.

Definitely missing were about $30 in a billfold that was taken from a bedroom, and about $10 that was in a purse in the kitchen of the home, Detective Morrissey said.

Farm Tax Records Will Be Available

County Agent Joseph M. Steger said last night that he is ordering a supply of farm income tax record books from the University of Maryland for distribution to farmers interested in keeping accurate financial records.

Mr. Steger said that about 25 farmers each year get these record books from him.

"Whatever system you use in keeping your records, they should show all your receipts and all your expenditures for the year for what purpose," the county agent added. "Only by keeping good records can you be sure that you will pay the correct tax required by law and no more."

Bedford Road Man Enlists In Navy

Richard G. Dick, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry G. Dick, RD 3, Bedford Road, enlisted in the Navy for a minority enlistment at the local recruiting office.

Airman Dick will complete nine weeks of intensive recruit training at Great Lakes Naval Training Center, Ill., prior to being assigned to the Naval Aviation field for training in or about naval aircraft.

Keeping Up With Hollywood

by Louella Parsons

HOLLYWOOD—David Janssen, that good-looking workhorse of 1960 starts out 1961 at the same hot clip. On Jan. 24 David starts "Twenty Plus Two," Frank Gruber's story about the search for missing heirs, at Allied Artists. Almost as exciting as the story are David's two leading ladies, Jeanne Crain and Dina Merrill.

During 1960 all David was—starred in four movies, nine "Richard Diamond" TV chapters, played two weeks of stock in the East and completed a pilot for a new series.

P.S.—And personal to David: How are you going to find time for those friendly little poker games with the Walter Langs and the Pete Rugulos?

Hollywood producers continue to grab potential Broadway hits before the opening night curtain goes up, the latest being Jack Warner who just closed the deal to make a movie of Jean Kerr's "Mary, Mary." Mrs. Kerr, wife of drama critic Walter Kerr, is rapidly becoming one of those lucky sure-bet authors. I hear she didn't like the movie version of her "Please Don't Eat the Daisies" with Doris Day, but the paying public certainly did. Also Jean's new book, "The Snake Has All the Lines," is already high on the best seller list.

Michael Rennie is in "Mary, Mary" on Broadway—but Warner will later announce an all-star cast for the film.

Just before George Marshall took off for Madrid he telephoned he was head to Spain to await the arrival of Rita Hayworth and Rex Harrison, who will co-star in "The Oldest Confession."

"We will be in Spain for some time and I am looking forward to directing this particular picture. It is my 412th, and I will enjoy working with Rita and Rex. I am glad and grateful to be so busy," George said. "Some of the locations will be rough," he told me, "but I won't mind that."

It always surprises me when our stars who made their fame and name in Hollywood, are so glad to get away. Joan Fontaine telephoned to say she was looking forward to living in New York where she has an apartment.

"I've rented my house here, when I come back I'll take a small apartment, because I expect to make New York my home," Joan told me.

She said she's going to do a TV series of family classics, and one of the plays she'll make is "The Heiress," which is a motion picture that brought her sister Olivia De Havilland so much fame.

Joan spent Christmas in Kennebuckport, Maine, where her daughter Martita goes to school. She also had her daughter Debbie Dozier with her. She said when she divorced Collier Young on Tuesday he didn't even have a lawyer to represent him. "I got a very good settlement from his 'Alcoa' TV show," she said.

The new wrist watch with diamond studded face which Elvis Presley is wearing was not given to him by a girl. It's a gift from RCA-Victor to whom he has been under contract for about five years, and is in appreciation for Elvis having sold millions of dollars worth of records. The back of the watch is engraved with this information, which makes the record official.

Frank Sinatra didn't get a watch from Capitol Records. There were hurt feelings when he left this recording company and formed his own organization.

Funds Allotted For FSTC Projects

Gov. Tawes yesterday approved the appropriation of $222,300 for capital improvements at Frostburg State Teachers College.

The list of capital improvements at Maryland's colleges and universities in the next fiscal year was announced today by the governor.

His recommendations covering over $1,000,000 in projects at the state teachers colleges are to be submitted to the General Assembly in the administration's bond bill scheduled to be submitted along with his budget during the 90-day session which convened yesterday.

At Frostburg, the major outlay would be for $92,800 for the remodeling of the old dining hall in Frost Hall into an infirmary and additional living space.

The next most important would be $69,000 for acquisition of land for a new library and another $6,000 for the preparation of preliminary plans for the new library.

Another $25,000 would go toward replacing heat and water lines between Frost and Allegany halls. This includes drains on the second and third floors of Frost Hall.

The governor also recommended the expenditure of $20,000 for equipping the new women's residence hall now under construction and $9,500 for construction of an incinerator.

Today Tawes announced $4,274,100 in approved capital expenditures for the University of Maryland approximately $3 million less than requested, and $1,103,000 for Morgan State College.

The university's main expenditures include $2,830,700 for the College Park campus, of which $1,044,200 will go for construction of a men's dormitory, $800,000 for an addition and site improvements to the physics building, and $455,000 for construction of a new 40-bed infirmary.

Most of the other expenditures will go for equipment for dormitories, equipping renovated Taliaferro Hall, and acquisition of six properties totaling 14 acres adjacent to the campus.

An additional $1,156,500 would be spent on the professional schools' Baltimore campus, chiefly for completing the renovation of the former Hecht Co. building and $286,900 is earmarked for Maryland State College at Princess Anne, including $282,800 for construction of a new 72-bed women's dormitory and $4,100 for utilities.

The allocations among teachers colleges include $350,000 for Towson, $185,000 for Salisbury, $145,000 for Coppin and $99,700 for Bowie.

The most expensive items are $125,000 for new boilers at Salisbury, $200,000 for land acquisition and $143,000 for a new infirmary at Towson, and $81,000 to convert a dining hall into an infirmary at Bowie.

Youth Held For Jury In Area Theft

ROMNEY — An 18-year-old Hampshire County boy is being held in the county jail here for action of the next grand jury on two charges of grand larceny.

Being held is Philip Nelson Gower, Green Spring, who was given a preliminary hearing on the charges Wednesday before Justice of the Peace A. L. Russell.

Gower was ordered held in jail in default of $2,000 bond, court attaches said.

The case was prosecuted by Sgt. C. S. Burke of the local State Police detachment, who said the larcenies reportedly were committed at the New Century Hotel where Gower had been employed as a porter.

The complaint was made by Mrs. Virginia Williams, co-owner of the hotel with her husband, John Williams. According to testimony at yesterday's hearing, Gower reportedly took hotel funds in the amount of several hundred dollars over a period of several months, late last year.

Police Probing Theft Of School Safe

MOOREFIELD — West Virginia and Virginia authorities are investigating the theft of a 400-pound safe from Mathias 12-Year School during the Christmas holidays.

The thieves made off with an estimated $262, authorities said, but overlooked an envelope containing two $100 bills.

According to Trooper Jack Baker of the local State Police detachment, the entry was made on the night of December 28, with the intruders entering the school through a window which was broken out. They then forced two locked doors into the school office where the safe was located.

The safe was found the following morning near Bergton, just over the Virginia line. The site where the safe was located is about 15 miles from the school, Trooper Baker said, adding that the discovery was made by Steven Crider, of Criders, who was on his way to work at cutting timber.

The safe had been chopped and dented with an ax, Trooper Baker stated, and the hinges were sawed off with a hack saw.

Vital school records with the grades and personnel history of Mathias students were strewn about the snow where the safe was forced open. The papers, and the envelope containing the two $100 bills were recovered.

The estimated $262 that is missing represented funds left in the school safe over the holiday period by classes and school organizations, according to Wendell Mathias, principal of the school.

Trooper Baker is being assisted in the investigation by Warren Spitzer, deputy sheriff of Rockingham County, Va., and other law enforcement officers from each state.

Local Woman Hurt In Crash

A local woman was injured in a three-car collision early yesterday at the intersection of Furnace and Leno streets.

Treated at Sacred Heart Hospital for lacerations of the head was Mrs. Phyllis Bosley, 304 North Centre Street, a passenger in a car operated by Paul E. Paugh, Westernport.

According to Officer Clarence Valentine, Paugh's car struck a parked vehicle and forced it into another parked car owned by James Morrison, 404 Furnace Street. Total damage was estimated at $350.

Paugh was charged with reckless driving, Officer Valentine reported.

Bradley Urges Separate Missile Branch

By JACK V. FOX

NEW YORK (UPI)—Creation of a separate missile branch of the armed forces may be a more pressing need than unification of the Army, Navy and Air Force, says Gen. Omar N. Bradley.

Bradley, top American ground commander in Europe in World War II, first chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff and now chairman of the board of Bulova Watch Co., is wary of current demands for unifying the armed services from the top down.

"It may well be that the best setup is one single force," the spare, 67-year-old Bradley said in an interview.

"But the unification of the armed services should start at the missions to be accomplished and the means we have of accomplishing them. Our armed forces are still divided according to missions they were faced with 50 years ago."

Bradley pointed to the Navy Polaris-carrying submarines and carriers with jets which launch missiles as logical components of a missile striking force—not a detached Navy operation.

The arbitrary limitation on the range of missiles which the Army now is developing is another nonsensical division of what should be one integrated striking force, the general said.

There is certainly a need for unification in one specific field and that is in having one person responsible for the development of weapons, Bradley said. He suggested the possibility of an assistant secretary of defense for research.

The situation now is so mixed up that there is considerable waste in the development state, Bradley said.

LAUDS VOLUNTEERS

NEW YORK (UPI) — The major credit for increasing cancer cure rates goes to "our next door neighbors — women with aching backs and tired feet and overworked men who have a high sense of being their brother's keeper."

Dr. Eugene P. Pendergrass of the University of Pennsylvania said so in a report to the American Cancer Society. He said the "next door neighbors" are the persons who distribute life-saving literature on cancer's danger signs, and tell their friends where to go and what to do about worrisome symptoms.

'SILENT' HEART ATTACKS

CHICAGO (UPI) — Some 10 to 15 per cent of heart attacks among urban, middle-aged men occur without causing noticeable pain, a group of Chicago physicians reported after a four-year study of 756 utility corporation employes.

The research team, headed by Dr. H. A. Lindberg, said the findings emphasize the advisability of electrocardiograms to detect such "silent" heart attacks.

Ulbricht, Other East German Red Bosses, Live In Regal Splendor

By JOHN A. CALLCOTT

BONN (UPI)—Communist East German boss Walter Ulbricht and his top associates are living in a gilded "paradise" not to be compared with the "workers' paradise" of ordinary East Germans, according to a story just related here.

A description of the splendor in which the Communist bigwigs live in the Soviet Zone of Germany was given to the West German Social Democratic Party magazine Klarer Kurs (Clear Course) by a man it described as chief architect on the regal housing project.

The architect, not identified, was said to have fled to the West.

According to this account Ulbricht, East German Premier Otto Grotewohl and 16 other Communist bigwigs of the "socialist" state where everyone is "equal," moved recently to a new, closely-guarded, 250-acre living area in East Berlin's Kiefernwald (Pine Forest).

A 150-man security police guard unit ensures privacy for Ulbright, Grotewohl and their cohorts, according to the architect's account.

The 18 families living in the area, he said, enjoy such luxurious touches as marble bathrubs, silk-lined walls, 12-room homes with basements and attics, a self-contained power system, central heating, and self-contained water purification systems.

Another, grimmer touch, is that each home has a "study-strong-room," with a safe. In all but Ulbricht's home, the architect claimed, there were two keys to each safe, one for the owner, one for the secret service. Ulbricht's safe has just one key—his—the architect reported.

In addition to these luxury homes, Klarer Kurs said, the 18 officials enjoy the use of lavish apartments in downtown East Berlin, mainly reserved for receiving important guests. The Pine Forest establishments are for private comfort, it was stated.

All the official Communist geographies say Ulbricht and his cronies live "Spartanic" lives. Ulbricht is known to have one Spartan habit. He goes for an 8 a.m. run in the woods every morning.

HOW NOW, PURPLE COW?

NEW YORK (UPI) — "How now, purple cow" may become a popular expression if the proverbial "brown cow" wants to be in style.

The popularity of purple — also called mauve, violet, periwinkle and blue-red — is zooming.

No Fuel Shortage For The Moment

Man's exhaustive consumption of natural resources frequently causes him to wonder where future supplies will come from. Mountainous demand for wood, water, coal, petroleum products and all the earth's minerals is accelerated with each population increase and compounded by technological advancements.

A new survey of fuel supplies in the United States by Resources for the Future, a nonprofit research organization, has concluded that conventional fuels — coal, oil and gas — are sufficiently abundant to provide energy for the U. S. through 1975, even at a projected energy consumption increase of 3.2 per cent annually.

The survey adds substantiation to a widely accepted belief that crash programs for domestic and industrial nuclear power plants are not needed.

Only a few years ago, predictions of waning fuel resources and warnings of conventional fuel shortages in the not too distant future were used to support claims that the U. S. could ill afford to dally in its nuclear energy program.

Fifteen-year reserves hardly constitute a limitless supply, but these are constantly being added to and it is expected nuclear power generating stations will be developed through the cooperation of the Atomic Energy Commission with private utilities within possibly five years. Fifteen years hence, there should be many such plants in operation—many more than the number needed to take up any slack left by diminishing fuel supplies.

Coal, gas and oil are not likely to disappear from fuel lists in this century. Nor are they likely to take a back seat to the newer and still experimental nuclear generating plant. Within the next 15 years they will add a partner whose future shines brightly.

These Days

By George E. Sokolsky

Congress Meets

Again the Congress of the United States meets in session to attend to the people's business. This is the realistic center of government.

Congress is a continuous body, two thirds of the Senate remaining in office no matter how many elections are held. The House of Representatives lasts only two years and then has to be re-elected. Both House and Senate committees are continuous and meet at call whenever it is suitable.

The 87th Congress, which went into session on January 3, faces a new President, a new Cabinet, but most of its committee chairmen will be the same by the rule of seniority which is the most convenient rule thus far discovered for such a purpose. Occasionally, a dumb cluck emerges to the chairmanship of an important committee, but not too often. A man who has remained in the Congress long enough to become a committee chairman has learned a great deal by experience and has discovered the essence of representative government which is that in a republic the will of no one man can be made to prevail. Republican government is government by compromise.

President Kennedy will be inaugurated 17 days after the Congress goes into session. He will be inaugurated by the usual ceremony and excitement. But almost immediately he will send to Congress his long list of appointees, including the members of his Cabinet. These persons will have to be confirmed by the Senate. Usually, there is little fuss about Cabinet officers, the assumption being that a President is entitled to have his own.

The American Cabinet is unlike any similar body anywhere. Its members are not political officials. They are literally secretaries to the President, having no political rights of their own. The President may dismiss a Cabinet officer at will. Cabinet officers do not constitute a government, as they do in Great Britain; they are, to repeat, Presidential assistants. He alone is responsible for the government. After he is elected, his responsibility is to Congress, which can, under certain conditions, impeach him. But Congress may not re-elect a President; that only the people can do once by choosing electors in each state.

The constitutional system is designed to prevent tyranny, to maintain a representative republic based upon a division of authority and responsibility.

A President can, by his personality, character and popularity make himself so powerful that Congress becomes politically dependent upon him. This happened during some years of the Franklin D. Roosevelt Presidency. Other times, there are men in Congress, particularly in the Senate, who are so superior to the President in the minds of the people, that the President shrinks before them. This was true of such Senators as Daniel Webster, Henry Clay, John C. Calhoun and in recent years, Robert A. Taft. There do not seem to be men of this type about these days.

President Kennedy will have to accept the Eisenhower budget at first because the fiscal year for the American government ends on June 30. Nevertheless as his program for new legislation is introduced, budgetary changes will come about automatically. It will be possible to judge whether this will be a conservative, a liberal or a radical Administration by the very first measures that are sent to Congress. It will also be visible at once whether the President has sufficient strength to carry through his program or whether his Congressional liaison officers will have to compromise for votes.

Parties these days mean less than they should. Republicans vote with Democrats and vice versa. There is a conservative group in both Houses and a liberal and radical group in each House. There are North-South coalitions and East-West coalitions. There is a labor group in each House. There are mavericks who go their own way, ignoring party affiliations altogether.

Congressional committees are the most useful agencies for investigation in our country. They alone are able to uncover corruption and subversion; they possess the power of subpoena which makes available data which otherwise could never become available, particularly as legalisms so often impede the truth. Sometimes there is criticism of these committees, of the methods they employ, but they serve the public as censors of the morality of public officials and therefore are to be respected. Methods may be corrected, but destroyed or forgotten data may become rot at the core of a country.

Wonder How This Is Going To Work

Three 'Civil Rights' Cases Nobody Noticed

By David Lawrence

WASHINGTON — True liberals are always worried when the so-called "liberals" pass up an opportunity to advance the cause of democracy and representative government.

Many days have passed with not a word from the professed defenders of liberal causes condemning three cases in which the civil rights of American citizens have just been disregarded. Here they are:

Case No. 1—In Wyoming, the people at the election last November chose a Republican to be United States Senator for a term of six years, but he died before he could be sworn in this month. Instead of providing the people of Wyoming with an opportunity in a special election within 60 days to choose a successor, the governor, a Democrat, who had two years more to serve in his present office, decided to resign in favor of the Wyoming secretary of state, so that he—the governor—could be appointed to serve as United States Seantor for the next two years. For, under the laws of the State of Wyoming, a Senator is not elected by the people to fill a vacancy until the next general election, which will be in November 1962. Thus, the majority of the people of Wyoming, who elected a Republican to the United States Senate in November, have been deprived of a Senator of their own party and even of the chance to elect one until two years have elapsed.

Case No. 2—In Massachusetts, when Senator John F. Kennedy, Democrat, with four years more of his term to serve, was elected President of the United States, a Republican governor was elected the same day. Instead of letting the latter appoint the new Senator to fill the vacancy, the outgoing governor, a Democrat, had a conference with Mr. Kennedy, in which the latter dictated the appointment of his crony, Benjamin Smith, who never has been elected to Congress or to any statewide office. By resigning before January 1, Senator Kennedy prevented the new Republican governor from making the appointment. This kind of political maneuvering is not novel, but it doesn't erase the fact that a successor to Senator Kennedy cannot be voted on by the people of Massachusetts now for two years. When the election is held in 1962, the successful candidate will then serve for just two years. Only in 1964 will there be an election for the full six-year term. Why aren't the people of Massachusetts given an opportunity now to elect a Senator for the four years remaining in Senator Kennedy's term?

Case No. 3—Senator Lyndon Johnson, Democrat, had his name in two places on the ballot in Texas in the election last November. He was a candidate for Vice President of the United States and at the same time a candidate for re-election to a six-year term as United States Senator. He won both elections. This type of thing has happened once before in another state, but, aside from the obvious irregularity in depriving the people of a chance to pick a different man in each party for two offices, the Texas laws do provide for a special election within 60 to 90 days when there is a vacancy in the United States Senate.

The time is ripe for a change in this anomalous situation. With all the talk about modifying the Electoral College system, it would appear that an even more urgent need today is to provide a uniform system of selecting members of the United States Congress. This could permit the governor to make an immediate appointment to fill a vacancy, but the appointee would serve only until a special election is held within 60 days. A Senator or Representative then elected would serve the entire remainder of the unexpired term.

In Article I of the Constitution, the following is provided:

"The times, places and manner of holding elections for Senators and Representatives shall be prescribed in each state by the legislature thereof, but the Congress may at any time by law make or alter such regulations, except as to places of choosing Senators."

So it would appear that the "civil rights" of the peoples of the various states, particularly of Wyoming and Massachusetts, could be restored by a simple act of Congress providing for a special election to be held within 60 days to fill vacancies in either the U. S. House of Representatives or the U. S. Senate.

Maybe "civil rights" should be changed to read "constitutional rights," because Congress does have the power to take action to prevent a recurrence of the three cases enumerated above. It might take a Constitutional Amendment to insure that no man would be allowed to run for two or more offices in the same election, although the Constitution already forbids the same individual from holding office simultaneously in both the Executive and the Legislative branches of the federal government.

Inside Washington

By Henry Cathcart

MOHINI REWA—Mohini Rewa, a most unusual lady, is the hottest show in Washington these days. An import from India, she was greeted at the White House by President Eisenhower, and has been a stellar attraction ever since.

The lady is no social leader, nor is she a night club entertainer. She is a tiger, or rather a tigress, and very unusual. She's white, rather than orange, with black stripings. And she has big blue eyes.

Mohini Rewa made her first appearance at the Washington zoo a few weeks ago. Veteran zookeepers say they've never seen anything like the crowds that come daily to see the tigress. No wonder — she is the only white tiger in the United States, and only one of four known to be in existence.

When she was taken to the White House, her keepers explained that she was somewhat dirty from her travels, but would look better once she was given a bath. President Eisenhower had a one word reply: "How?"

INAUGURATION—The committee handling arrangements for President-elect John F. Kennedy's inauguration is the most frantically busy place in town, but it has to take time out to read letters like the publicity-seeking dance studio that offered to teach any of the Kennedy clan to dance for the inaugural ball! . . . Those sculptured inaugural medals will be available at $35 in silver, $4.50 in bronze. The committee expects to sell some 30,000 of the bronze variety. . . Bird proofing the parade route, a necessity in starling-plagued Washington, will cost $10,000, nearly twice the original estimate. . . And a special guard will be placed at each manhole along the parade route to assure the safety of the President . . Finally, if you haven't already completed arrangements to see the inauguration, don't come: no hotel space, no tickets, no parade vantage points are left.

Middle Ear Infections On The Increase

By Dr. Theodore R. Van Dellen

Middle ear infections (otitis media) have increased since we stopped the wholesale removal of tonsils and adenoids. The exact relationship between the two situations is not known but there is no doubt about the association between infections of the ear and those in the nose or throat.

Spread to the middle ears occurs by way of the eustachian tubes. These passageways are designed to equalize air pressure on both sides of the drum. This is most noticeable when flying in an airplane and explains the popping sound heard in the ears as altitude increases.

At 6,000 feet, for example, the atmospheric pressure is less than at sea level. Air in the middle ear expands at this height and might break the drum were it not for the eustachian tubes that act as an escape hatch. The reverse is true on descending: air rushes into the tubes to increase the pressure within the ears.

The openings of the eustachian tubes are in the back of the throat near the adenoids. Infected adenoids could easily block the openings or the bacteria could spread to the ears. When this occurs in a child, he complains of earache. The infant resorts to crying or tries to tell what bothers him by rubbing the affected ear or refusing to lie on that side. His temperature soars and convulsions may develop.

Early treatment with the sulfonamides or antibiotics may abort the disease. But when pus forms and the drum bulges, it may break should the pressure become too great. The physician prefers to lance this membrane because a small incision does less harm than a shattered drum.

Modern drugs are helpful but they are not enough to complete the job, once pus develops. The secretion clogs the working mechanism of the inner ears, hence must be drained to preserve hearing and lessen the chance of a mastoid infection.

TOMORROW: Cold, clammy hands.

MILKING A STONE

W. R. writes: My doctor says he wants to "milk out" a salivary stone in my mouth. What is this procedure like?

REPLY

A salivary stone is manipulated with a finger to force it out.

GO NATURAL

B. T. writes: I have had my hair tinted for 10 years. Now I've grown allergic to the dye, which causes a rash. Is there anything I can do other than let my gray hair show?

REPLY

Try other dyes or switch to a wig. If you have been gray for 10 years, why not let your hair resume its natural color? You'll find that it matches your body and the rest of your body.

DIABETES AND SURGERY

S. M. writes: Is it dangerous for a diabetic to have surgery?

REPLY

Not when the physician watches the diabetic condition carefully before and after the operation. Adjustments in diet and insulin may be needed.

ULCER RECURRENCE

J. K. writes: Does a duodenal ulcer always recur after it heals?

REPLY

Not always but the possibility always exists.

INFECTED PANCREAS

C. C. writes: How does the pancreas become infected?

REPLY

Bacteria usually enters through the tube that connects the pancreas with the intestine. In some instances, the germs spread through the blood.

To the limit of space questions pertinent to the prevention of disease will be answered. Personal replies will be made when return stamped envelope is enclosed. Telephone inquiries not accepted. Dr. Van Dellen will not make diagnoses or prescribe for individual diseases.

Try And Stop Me

By Bennett Cerf

Charles Cole, who rounded out a brilliant 15-year-hitch as President of Amherst College, recalls that when Poet Robert Frost was a freshman at Dartmouth, his fraternity brothers fretted because he took long walks alone in the woods. Finally a committee of upper classmen confronted him and demanded, "Frost, just what do you do walking by yourself all the time in the woods?" Freshman Frost eyed them calmly and replied, "Gnaw bark." They left him to his own devices after that.

Actually, says Prexy Cole, Frost was meditating alone in the woods—and his ability to do so is one of the reasons he's such a great poet today.

For several years running, rotund Comedian Jackie Gleason has essayed the role of Santa Claus for the Christmas party at the school near his suburban home. "I get a special kick out of putting on the costume," admitted Gleason. "It's the one time in the year I can wear a ready-made suit."

Sam Rayburn Made Tough Decision On Party's 'Purge' Of Dixiecrats

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — Good-natured Sam Rayburn went through a lot of soul-searching before he finally decided to bounce Dixiecrat Biill Colmer of Mississippi from the House Rules Committee. He put off his decision as long as he could. Two things finally made up his mind. One was a late-evening chat with the man who has done the most to break the rules tie-up of liberal legislation, Rep. John Blatnik of Minnesota. The other was some reassuring advice from Sam's old protege in politics, Vice President Lyndon Johnson.

Both urged a forthright move to replace Colmer with liberal Rep. Carl Elliott of Alabama in order to insure enactment of the Kennedy legislative program.

The Speaker, however, delayed a showdown. He had flown back to Washington, but didn't show up all day on Capitol Hill while thinking it over and conferring with various people by telephone. Among others, he had a long talk with Rep. Howard Smith of Virginia, chairman of the Rules Committee, which has blocked liberal legislation so often in the past.

Smith offered no real assurance that he and Colmer would abandon their Dixiecrat coalition with Republican leaders if Colmer was retained on the committee. The Virginian had managed to soft-talk Rayburn on various occasions in the past, but this time it was different.

Sam Thinks It Over

"I don't relish this, Howard," Rayburn told Smith, "but I have no other recourse. You, yourself, have made it no easier by those stories in the press indicating that you intend to continue the coalition with Charlie Halleck (House GOP leader)."

"How can I keep harmony in the party and support a man who deserted us in the campaign?" Rayburn asked, referring to Colmer's opposition to the Kennedy-Johnson ticket, along with three other Mississippi Democrats.

"Please think it over, Sam," urged Smith.

The Speaker did. He thought it over all Saturday afternoon of last week, without making up his mind. It was at this point that he conferred long-distance with Lyndon Johnson, who was vigorously for the removal of Colmer.

Meantime, Blatnik and other House leaders—Reps. Chet Holifield of California, Frank Thompson of New Jersey, Richard Bolling of Missouri and Sidney Yates of Illinois—were trying to contact the Speaker. They thought he was still out of town.

They were all set to adjourn an informal meeting late Saturday when Blatnik managed to reach Rayburn by telephone.

"Sam, there has been a great deal of speculation in the press about your feeling on the Rules Committee," said Blatnik. "Can you tell us about it?"

"I'd rather not now, John," replied Rayburn. "I have a plan, but give me a little more time."

"All right, Sam," replied Blatnik, "but out of respect for you I think I should tell you that I am planning to take some action at the Monday morning caucus of House Democrats, if something isn't done about the Rules Committee by that time.

"My plan is to offer a resolution denying Bill Colmer and the three other Mississippi Democrats, as well as Otto Passman of Louisiana, who deserted us in the last campaign, from participating in the caucus as Democrats. I also intend to do my best to deny the seniority rights these men now enjoy on committees, as Democrats."

"That won't be necessary, John," replied Rayburn. "If you meet with me Monday morning, before the Democratic caucus, I think I will be in a position to offer a solution."

When Blatnik and the other liberal spokesmen filed into his office on Monday morning, the Speaker remarked: "In all my years as a member of the House, I have never been under such intense pressure to keep me from saying this. But I have decided to help you to remove Bill Colmer from the Rules Committee.

"It would be unfair, of course, if we did not take some action about the seniority rights of other Democrats who didn't support the Democratic ticket."

The Speaker apparently referred to Mississippi Democrats John Bell Williams, Jamie Whitten and Arthur Winstead, as well as Louisiana's Passman, adding: "I'll arrange a speciau caucus, if necessary, to make sure that Democrats have a right to affirm this proposed change in the Rules Committee."

"We know what you have been through, Sam, and we are humble and appreciative," replied Blatnik. "Democrats couldn't ask for a better leadership than you have given us. Nor is this a purge. As far as I am concerned, these fellows have asked us to close the door on their seniority rights as Democrats, and we have accommodated them."

Merry-Go-Round

President-elect Kennedy's three-year-old daughter, Caroline, was fascinated with Speaker Sam Rayburn's bald bean during his visit with her father at Palm Beach, Fla. "You haven't got any hair!" She exclaimed with delight. . . . House Democratic Leader John McCormack, who never got along with Jack Kennedy when the latter was a junior Congressman from Massachusetts, is burning over Kennedy's post-election behavior. McCormack feels he has been ignored and slighted by Kennedy. The veteran House leader expected to get his nephew, Massachusetts Attorney General Ed McCormack, appointed to the Senate. But Kennedy arranged the appointment instead for his ex-roommate, Benjamin Smith. McCormack is also unhappy with Kennedy's appointments to the State Department, is privately critical of new Secretary of State Dean Rusk.

Jim Bishop: Reporter

By Jim Bishop

There is an orderly bedlam in the Frechette home. It is a ranch house in Lincroft, New Jersey and, when I was there last week, there was a hard pie crust of snow in the street. Santa, standing in cardboard beside the chimney, shivered in the cold wind. The Christmas lights had been on all night.

Inside, there was a tree close to the picture window. Jim, age one, was trying to eat a red Christmas ball. He is big and chubby and has yellow hair and a bashful grin. He couldn't bite the ornament, so he ate a hard cookie off a low branch and ate the red string too. Usually, he likes to eat pennies and, when he is shaken like a piggy bank, there is a muted rattle.

Kevin, four months of age, sat propped on a settee in flaming red pajamas. He kept regarding his hands and turning them over. He is a fat bullet-head who will not cry, even when he's hungry. He likes to focus his blue eyes on the mouths of adults when they are talking. His father, Charlie, was in the kitchen, mixing a bottle of glop for the infant. Before I began to feel ill, I noted that it consisted of milk, peas, something that looked like mashed sweet potatoes, and a few other revolting items.

The twins—Robin and Pamela—are two years and five months of age. They play together, fight together, and love their baby brothers together. They have champagne-colored hair, cut short, and they wore red velvet jumper suits with white blouses. There is also a mother, Virginia, who is my daughter, prettier than a painting—inside and out.

My police dog, Rockie, is there. So is Ginny's police dog, Tammy. Add to this the assortment of Christmas toys—busted and unbusted—all over the floor, some egg nog, Christmas cards pasted around the arches of the room, and a hi-fi speaker playing Harry Belafonte, and you have a notion of what the holidays are like at the Frechettes.

The dogs weigh 80 pounds apiece, and the twins try to ride them. The girls talk like Lumumba. Ginny looked at the roast in the oven and plopped into a chair. Robin glanced at her and said: "You pooped, Mommy?" No one knows where she got that expression.

Pamela kept telling her new doll "Don't cited," which means "Don't get excited." Robin did something she was told not to do, so her mother patted her on the panties. Without a word, she walked over to little Jim, who was swallowing the last of the red string, and hauled off and belted him on the head. Pam dropped her doll and slapped Jim too, just so that he would know whose side she was on.

Jim is husky. He just looked up, grinned, and looked pained when his father reached down his throat and pulled the string out, managing to leave the cookie below. Pam picked up Robins' doll and Robbie said: "No fooling around." This was the longest speech I heard.

On Saturdays and Sundays, Charlie gets up, awakens the four babies, takes their nighties off, bathes them, dresses them, makes their breakfast, and permits his wife to sleep. Sometimes, he pretends not to know one twin from the other and he looks at Pam and says: "Hello, Robin." Pam jerks a thumb over her shoulder and says: "Over dare." She picks up a doll. "This is me's," she says firmly.

Their mother says: "Whose birthday is this?" The girls grin. "Baby Jesus." They point to the mantlepiece because that's where He reposes in a manger. "Who is His mommy?" Together they say: "Little Mary." "Who are the wise men?" They do not answer. They look mutely at their daddy.

The girls know all the Mother Goose rhymes but they utter only the last word of each line. Jimmy picked up an ashtray and bit it, but it didn't taste right. He put it back, caught me looking at him, and turned on the bashful smile and swung his head away.

Ginny and Charlie have been trying to teach the twins to say their night prayers.

She sits with them before her, and she says: "Now say your prayers. Goodnight—" They look at each other and laugh. "Jibby funny." Mother becomes irritated. 'Never mind how funny Jimmy is. I want you to say your prayers."

"Goodnight—" Together, they chorus: "Sweet Jesus." She smiles approval and says: "Goodnight—" and they say "Mary." She says "Goodnight" a third time and, in a wild rush, they say: "Joseph. No go to bed Mommy."

At that moment, tiny Kevin discovered a pair of feet and, by wiggling them, found out they were his . . .

Sustain Taste Of Olive Oil

Preserve the delicate flavor of the olive oil you use in making salad dressings so that it will be good to the last spoonful.

Close the container securely after each use. Store the oil on a lower shelf in a cabinet away from the range.

The refrigerator is too cold a spot for olive oil's subtle flavor, while too much heat also can adversely affect its flavor.

The average American ate more than 400 eggs in 1959.

STAINLESS STEEL ELEGANCE

In summer time informal entertainment moves to the casual atmosphere of the backyard, patio or barbecue. But for the special time when hamburgers or hot dogs just won't do, you may want something that combines the elegance of smart New York dining with the glitter of stainless steel.

Nino, "maitre d' " at New York's fashionable Hotel Drake recommends his own superb recipe for Steak Diane as the dish that can satisfy the most demanding palate and yet can be served with sophisticated grace out under the skies.

In preparing his famous dish, Nino insists on using a stainless steel grill designed to his own specifications and available through Legion Utensils Company. Only stainless will hold the heat properly, he says and it's so easy to clean and stays bright. Ideal for preparing Nino's delicacy, it has a frame for containing canned heat and a tray used for cooking. You can use it for ham or bacon and eggs, pancakes and even crepes suzette.

NINO'S STEAK DIANE
2 Servings

2 10-12 oz. sirloin steaks
2 Teaspoons chopped parsley
2 Teaspoons Worcestershire
½ Lemon
Ground black pepper
2 Teaspoons chopped chives
7 Pats butter
Dry mustard
Salt
Olive oil

Pound steaks between paper until they are twice original breadth and ⅛" thick. Bring to table on platter garnished with chives and parsley. Light canned heat. Put 3 pats butter and chives on grill tray. Cover butter with dry mustard. Pepper, salt and olive oil one side of steak. Place on grill as soon as chives start to brown, then salt, pepper and oil unprepared side of steak right on grill. After 2½ minutes to a side (rare) douse fire. Allow to simmer a moment. Serve. Tip tray, scrape juices into one end. Squeeze lemon into gravy and rub tray bottom with rind. Add Worcestershire, parsley and remaining butter. Pour sauce over steak.

For Night Owls

NEW YORK (UPI) — Midnight punch makes a hit in cold winter weather.

To 2 quarts of apple juice add ½ cup of brown sugar, ¼ teaspoon each of nutmeg and salt, 1 teaspoon of allspice and 2 teaspoons of cinnamon. Bring to a boil, cover and simmer 15 minutes. Serve hot in 6 ounce mugs. Garnish with thin slices of orange. Serves 10 to 12.

Prune Fritters Are Excellent Side Dish

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prune fritters are equally good as a side dish with poultry or as a dessert with lemon sauce. Sift together 1 cup of sifted flour, 1½ teaspoons of baking powder, ¼ teaspoon of salt and 3 tablespoons of confectioners sugar. Gradually add 1-3 cup of milk and beat until smooth.

Add and mix well 1 beaten egg, 1 cup of chopped cooked prunes and 2 tablespoons of lemon juice. Drop by teaspoons into deep fat heated to 350 degrees. Cook 35 minutes, or until delicately brown on both sides. Turn once. Drain on absorbent paper.

Plain buttered noodles taste good with veal chops or a veal roast. Cook 8 ounces of noodles as usual and drain; then stir in ¼ cup butter until melted.

Opening lead: Ace of ♣

Many a slam, bid in the splashing manner, has succeeded merely because the opening leader was up against an out and out guess and didn't come through, whereas a more fortunate selection might have resulted in the cashing of the first two tricks.

Whether one uses cue bidding or Blackwood he is up against the disadvantage of permitting the defense to suggest leads to partner by doubling the artificial bid on the way up. In today's hand West found it rather easy to make an opening lead from a combination that is normally avoided, by reason of inferences drawn from partner's failure to act during the bidding.

North's response of two hearts is sound. His hand is not quite good enough for a jump to three spades, and yet too good for a mere single raise. He must, therefore, arrange to make two bids. After South's raise to three hearts, it is our view that his hand is not strong enough to warrant a jump and it would have been sufficient for him to bid only three spades which would have plainly expressed a desire to go places, in view of the trouble he previously took to bid hearts. After the jump South chose to resort to Blackwood and when he learned that partner had only one ace he subsided, but the damage had been done.

Had West made a neutral lead, the contract would have been fulfilled. But since declarer's side obviously had the heart suit under control and might obtain discards, West elected to lead the ace of clubs (a diamond would have produced the same result). His reasoning was, "Surely partner must have enough diamonds to have doubled the Blackwood five diamond bid. Why did he not do so? Evidently he can stand the lead of the only other suit I might choose clubs."

Incidentally, if East had held nothing in clubs so that he could not stand the lead of the suit, it would have been proper strategy for him to double the five diamond bid in an effort to obtain that lead against the final contract.

Sen. Randolph Wants Medical Care Under SS

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Sen. Jennings Randolph, D-W. Va., Thursday said the only practical way to assist the aged in financing their medical care on a dignified and sound fiscal basis is to extend the social security system to include medical insurance.

"This approach will permit the older person, during the course of his working life, to pay a small premium and have a paid up medical care policy at retirement," Randolph told a meeting of the senior citizens of metropolitan Washington.

Randolph said the No. 1 problem of the nation's senior citizens is how to meet the cost of medical care at a time when their incomes are lowest and their disabilities highest.

Tax Receipts Below Estimate In W. Virginia

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—West Virginia tax receipts are down about $2.5 million below estimates for the first half of the current fiscal year. But the drop apparently is not really as bad as it seems on the surface.

The biggest difference between actual revenue deposits of $52,286,930 and estimates was in liquor receipts which are not deposited on any regular schedule and which, when fully deposited, probably would raise receipts to a figure close to the estimates. The liquor deposit was $2.2 million compared to estimates of $4.2 million.

On a bright note, State Finance Director Henry L. Ash said tax collections for December were some $400,000 higher than estimates, $4,751,675 compared to estimates of $4,300,800.

The gross sales tax, the state's largest revenue producer, yielded $25,331,294 during the six-month period, or $231,294 above estimates. However, the second largest revenue producer, the consumers sales tax, brought in $15,664,749, or $435,251 below estimates.

Gov. Barron To Make Two Appointments

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—One or two more appointments are expected to be announced by Gov.-elect W. W. Barron during a news conference at 4 p.m. Friday.

Among them may be an adjutant general to take the place of outgoing Maj. Gen. William E. Blake who submitted his resignation, effective midnight Jan. 15, Thursday to Gov. Cecil H. Underwood.

Another appointment may be that of a state liquor commissioner. Statehouse sources say that Clarence Elmore of Princeton has the inside track for that job. Elmore, a former Mercer County sheriff, would succeed Morris C. Shawkey.

Reports of four sub-committees of Barron's citizens advisory council also will be discussed by the state attorney general during the news conference. The reports were submitted to him Thursday but he wanted to have time to study them before disclosing their contents.

The sub-groups have been studying taxes, two proposed new state agencies and a public works to provide jobs for the unemployed. The two agencies are the Department of Commerce and the Industrial Development Authority.

Barron also was expected to name subcommittees on roads and schools Friday.

In his letter to Underwood, Blake also resigned as state selective service director, a dual position held by the adjutant general, and said he was resigning from active status in the National Guard after almost 30 years.

"For a country boy from Greenbrier County (he's from Ronceverte) to have achieved the rank of a major general in itself is a singular honor for which I shall ever be grateful," Blake wrote.

He said he would present a resume Jan. 9 of a resume of National Guard activities during his four-year tenure in the state and would submit his biennial report to Underwood Jan. 12.

Water Probe Scheduled

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and Council has decided to investigate conditions dealing with a water tank in Green's Addition.

Officials explained that the tank will hold a capacity load of 64 feet of water. The normal is 22 feet. However, only two to three feet are in the tank at the present.

Water will be turned off in Franklin and Brophytown from Saturday at 11 p. m. to Sunday at 6 a. m. to check the problem. Later, water will be cut off in various sections of the downtown area.

Council ruled that persons living in the vicinity of Park Street will be charged the regular sewage fee of $15, plus cost of installation, to hook on to the main sewage line.

Christmas trees in the community will be collected Monday.

Harry C. Davis Dies At Charleston

LONACONING—To plan for Christmas 1961 community street decorations, an important meeting will be Tuesday, January 10, at 7:30 p. m. at Alvin C. Neat Post No. 5280, Veterans of Foreign Wars. Organizations will be asked to participate in a combined effort to raise funds for new Christmas decorations.

Robert Hadley, community service chairman of Lonaconing Rotary Club, has started the project by sending letters to organizations in the community asking that a representative be chosen to attend the first organizational meeting.

Formulative plans will be started by the group attending this first meeting by electing officers and beginning the organizing of money-raising plans.

The Lonaconing Rotary Club's community service chairman hopes for a good representation at the January 10 meeting so that committee work can be inaugurated. The newly formed organization will assume the projects during January and continue throughout the year with as many projects as can be achieved successfully.

Fire Sweeps Tenney Home In Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — The residence of N. H. Tenney was gutted by flames last Wednesday night despite the efforts of the members of the Moorefield Volunteer Fire Company who battled the flames for over two hours.

The blaze apparently started from an overheated stove or flue and the fire spread between the partitions of the walls before being discovered. The Tenney's became aware of the fire when the lights went out. Mrs. Tenney, an invalid, was carried out of the house before the alarm was given. Firemen had to use an unusual amount of water in quelling the stubborn blaze between the walls, resulting in considerable water damage in addition to the fire damage.

The house, still standing, was rated a total loss by the firemen. Only a small part of the loss was covered by insurance. The Tenney's have moved into C. V. Funkhouser's garage apartment.

Wild Ring-Necked Pheasant Is Seen In Moorefield

MOOREFIELD, W. Va. — There is a ring necked pheasant running loose in Moorefield and C. B. Hiett requests that citizens feed the bird instead of shooting it. The bird has been observed at various places in town and so far has been able to outwit the predatory cats and dogs.

The pheasant managed to get out of a pen where Omer Dasher has been raising them. It is quite tame and not at all afraid of people.

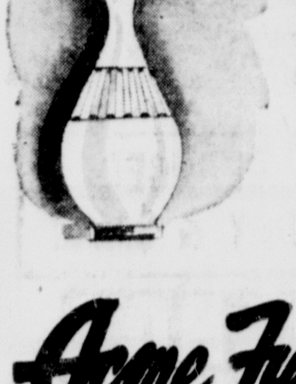

Attempts have been made at various times over the past quarter of a century to stock ring necks in the county but the project met with little success. Only since the rabies decimated the fox population have ring necks been able to thrive.

MOOREFIELD, W. Va.—A final report from Wendell Hester, chairman of the community Christmas basket activity, which was coordinated by the Moorefield Lions Club, revealed that 83 baskets were distributed to families in the Moorefield area. Volunteer committees from the Lions Club, the Go-Getters 4-H Club and other groups packed the baskets on December 20 and delivery was made December 21 and 22 using trucks donated by Pierce Pre-Cooked Foods.

Settlement Nears In Indemnity Case

CHICAGO (AP) — Progress was made Thursday by the American Association toward a satisfactory indemnity settlement for Washington's American League franchise move to Minneapolis-St. Paul.

"We have made definite progress in talks with officials of the Washington club for the first time since they entered the American Association territory last October," said Jim Burris, president of the triple A minor league. He declined to say how large an indemnity was demanded.

Burris said the 1961 schedule would open with a single game at Louisville April 14 with the whole league being in action the next day. The season will close on Labor Day.

Van Brocklin Turns Down Offer Of Player-Coach Job

Decision Clears Way For Eagles To Name Skorich

By RALPH BERNSTEIN

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Quarterback Norm Van Brocklin severed relations with the Philadelphia Eagles Thursday after a rather cryptic conversation with Frank McNamee, president of the National Football League champions.

Van Brocklin said he told McNamee in reply to flat questions that (1) He would not play again, and (2) He wasn't interested in being a player-coach. McNamee did not say what kind of coaching job he had in mind. He made no offer, Van Brocklin said.

May Name Skorich

The meeting between the two apparently cleared the way for the Eagles to name Assistant Coach Nick Skorich as successor to Buck Shaw who retired as head coach after the Eagles beat the Green Bay Packers for the NFL title last month. Van Brocklin had been considered a candidate for the job.

The 34-year-old quarterback said the sum of his conversation with McNamee was that he (Van Brocklin) was through with the Eagles unless he remained an active player. McNamee gave Van Brocklin permission to negotiate with other clubs. The Minnesota Vikings and the New York Giants are in the market for a head coach.

Has Other Offer

Van Brocklin, whose passing led the Eagles to the Eastern Conference title and the NFL championship, said he was interested only in a head coaching job in the NFL. If he can't land such a job he plans to go home to Oregon. He said he has several good offers out of football.

McNamee, in an official statement, said, "We are losing a great quarterback. He did an outstanding job with the Eagles. He was of great importance to the team and all football."

Knicks' Ken Sears Injured In Fight

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — Kenny Sears, New York's third best scorer, suffered a fractured jaw in a fight Thursday night as the Knicks edged Detroit 104-102 in the first game of a National Basketball Association double-header.

Philadelphia met Syracuse in the second game at Convention Hall.

The fight between Sears and George Lee of the Pistons broke out just before New York took the lead late in the third period and held it. Only a few punches were exchanged after some pushing and shoving during close play in the pivot spot, but Sears left the game with a bloody mouth. At a hospital, an X ray showed the jaw was fractured.

Keyser Grapplers To Open 10-Match Card Next Week

Handicapped by the weather which has caused the postponement of two meets, Keyser High School hopes to gets its wrestling schedule under way next week when it grapples Southern High at Oakland, January 12, and Morgantown High at Morgantown, January 14.

Coach Joe Stanislawczyk, who is serving as wrestling coach at Keyser High for the fifth consecutive year, reports that the Golden Tornado has home-and-home matches on its schedule with West Virginia School for the Blind, Berkeley Springs, Southern, Morgantown and Elkins, which recently beat West Fairmont, 45-5.

The only meet in which Keyser has participated to date is the four-school Christmas Tournament at Romney in which the Mineral Countians finished first. Elkins was runner-up followed by Berkeley Springs and West Virginia School for the Blind.

Other meets during the holidays with Southern and Berkeley Springs were postponed on account of hazardous traveling conditions caused by icy highways.

West Virginia high schools are now wrestling in 12 weight classes instead of ten. The added classes are 95 and 177 pounds.

Keyser grapplers had an 8-2 record last season.

The Massillon, Ohio, high school football team, one of the nation's most formidable, has won or been acclaimed the state champion in Ohio in 16 out of the last 26 years.

CVAL Basketball Plans To Disband For Next Season

At a special meeting of the Cumberland Valley Athletic League, held yesterday at Hancock High School, it was decided to discontinue the five-chool basketball circuit next season.

Allegany and Fort Hill are no longer in the cage circuit, having dropped out at the end of the 1959-60 campaign. Teams in the league this season are North and South Hagerstown, Martinsburg, Frederick and Wistminster.

Next season the schools now in the league hope to form a basketball circuit composed of Pennsylvania, West Virginia and Maryland teams.

The CVAL football league in which Allegany and Fort Hill are represented is expected to remain intact in 1961. The CVAL track meet date was changed from May 13 to May 6 and will be staged this year at Frederick.

W. Ardell Haines, principal of Allegany High School, is secretary of the C.V.A.L.

Wylie Wants WVU Athletic Council Fired

State Senator States Group Is Not Needed

Asserts Seven-Man Board Is Ruining Athletic Standing

MULLENS, W. Va. (UPI) —A veteran member of the West Virginia legislature said Thursday he would continue his fight to eliminate the advisory athletic council at West Virginia University.

Dr. Ward Wylie, Mullens physician who was elected to his seventh term in the State Senate last Nov. 8, opened his attack on the seven member athletic council last year after it recommended that WVU football coach Art Lewis be fired.

"If the university's Board of Governors is not willing to do its duty instead of delegating that responsibility to someone else," Wylie said, "then I will try to see that it is done by statute."

Board Supervises

By statute, the Board of Governors was set up to supervise the operation of both West Virginia University and Potomac State College at Keyser.

Wylie said he first planned to consult with the individual members of the nine - member board to determine if they are willing to throw out the athletic council.

"If they are willing to fulfill their duties, then no legislation will be necessary," Wylie said. "If not, then I will try to regulate it by legislation at this session of the legislature which opens next week."

Lose Two Coaches

"In my opinion, the athletic council at the university is ruining its athletic standing. We have lost two coaches in the past year and I am convinced that's why they are not there any more."

Wylie referred to the departure last April of Lewis and last fall of basketball coach Fred Schaus. University President Elvis J. Stahr Jr. said he was retaining Art "by the skin of his teeth" despite the recommendation of the council. Schaus left to coach the Los Angeles Lakers of the National Basketball Association.

"The Board of Governors should be doing this job instead of delegating it to a group that doesn't know first base from second base.

"Suppose you were coaching at the university and had four professors, one student and two alumni making recommendations as to your ability. How would you feel.

Council Unwieldly

"The whole thing (athletic council) is unwieldly and not needed. I say this because I was once an athlete at the university and have followed the athletic situation there very closely."

Wylie asked last year for the ouster of the athletic council at West Virginia but was unable to present legislation for that purpose at the 1960 budget-making session of the legislature.

Only such items specified in the governor's call may be taken up at these 30-day sessions.

Stith Gains In College Point Race

Bonnie Ace Trails Gonzaga's Burgess

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Tom Stith of St. Bonaventure, runner-up last season to Oscar Robertson as the national collegiate basketball scoring champion, is pressing Frank Burgess of Gonzaga for the lead.

Statistics from the NCAA Service Bureau Thursday showed Stith was averaging 31 points a game, compared with 31.3 for Burgess. The figures are for games through Jan. 3.

Stith scored 34 points as St. Bonaventure was beaten for the first time this year, 84-82 by Ohio State in the final game of the Holiday Festival in New York. Burgess scored only 17 points Tuesday night against Whitworth, cutting his average sharply.

Tom Chilton of East Tennessee State also moved up, boosting his average from 28.4 to 30.3.

Two others, Bill McGill of Utah and All America Jerry Lucas of Ohio State, made big gains. McGill advanced from eighth to fourth with a 27.2 average and Lucas from 11th to seventh with 25.3.

Lcuas is the nation's No. 1 rebounder. He has grabbed 20.7 per cent of the rebounds in all Ohio State games.

Memphis State is the team offense leader with a 92.2 average in nine games. St. Bonaventure is second with 90.3 in 10 games.

Palmer 6-1 Favorite At Los Angeles

Classy Field Vies In $45,000 Tourney

By HAL WOOD
United Press International

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — Arnold Palmer, Mr. Moneybags of the 1960 golf circuit, was installed Thursday as the 6-1 favorite to win the $45,000 Los Angeles Open tournament that gets under way Friday on the long, rolling Rancho Municipal course.

Palmer, who won the National Open, the Masters and a half dozen other tourneys, plus about $75,000 in official winnings and another $75,000 unofficially, says he's ready — but he's not sure about the odds.

"I'm playing okay," he says. "I had a good practice round. But I haven't had too much competitive golf lately."

Favorites Seldom Win

Favorites seldom win this tourney — and only twice in history has the champion repeated. MacDonald Smith of a bygone era did it; and a fellow named Ben Hogan repeated in more recent years.

The defending champion this year is Dow Finsterwald, the man who used to be noted for his second-place finishes. He has been a bit off his stick lately and isn't considered the main threat.

"In fact," said Lloyd Mangrum, the former National Oper champion, "there shouldn't be a favorite in this field. At least 50 men could win it. And maybe more."

Snead, Hogan Missing

Mangrum claims, and most agree, this is the finest field in the long history of the event. Every golfe, of note in United States is entered — with the exception of Sam Snead and Ben Hogan. And they seldom come West these years and are not missed too much by the gallery. Additionally, some of the greatest players from foreign countries are entered.

Boros And Brown Sign With Tigers

DETROIT (UPI)—Third baseman Steve Boros and catcher Dick Brown Thursday joined the list of Detroit Tigers signed for the 1961 season.

Boros, who hit .317 with the Denver Bears and was named most valuable player in the American Association in 1960, is slated to take over from Eddie Yost as the Tigers' regular third baseman. Yost was drafted recently by the new Los Angeles club in the American League.

Brown spent most of 1960 with Miami of the International League where he hit .240. He came to Detroit along with Billy Bruton in last month's trade that sent Frank Bolling to Milwaukee.

Wagman Gets Five Years On Bribery Charge

Basketball Fixer Is Fined $10,000

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (UPI) — Aaron Wagman, former $300-a-month New York souvenir salesman, was sentenced to five years in prison Thursday and ordered to pay a $10,000 fine for trying to bribe a University of Florida football player.

Wagman, 27, accused by police as the front man in a nation-wide gambling operation, was convicted of bribery charges Nov. 17 for giving Florida fullback John MacBeth $1,500 to shave points in the Florida-Florida State game Sept. 24.

Circuit Court Judge John A. H. Murphree Thursday denied a motion for a new trial and set the sentence. The judge also ordered Wagman to serve an additional five years—making a total of 10—if he can't pay the fine.

MacBeth, a senior from Pensacola, pretended to go along with the scheme but instead helped police trap Wagman and Philip Silber, 19, also of New York.

Silber, a former Florida student and fraternity brother of MacBeth's pleaded guilty to charges of conspiracy to bribe, and is awaiting sentencing.

Ray Robinson, Gene Fullmer Resume Series

Clash Fourth Time At Las Vegas Feb. 25

By JACK Cuddy

NEW YORK (UPI)—Sugar Ray Robinson, the ring's greatest comeback performer, signed Thursday for an unprecedented eighth shot at the middleweight title in a fourth fight with Gene Fullmer on Feb. 25.

Their nationally televised Saturday-night 15 - rounder probably will be staged at the Las Vegas (Nev.) Convention Hall.

Fullmer, recognized as champion by the National Boxing Association, will sign Friday or Saturday at his home in West Jordan, Utah, or at Las Vegas. He already has accepted the match.

Robinson Thursday put the ballpoint to a contract guaranteeing him $50,000 of the $150,000 television money and 25 per cent of the net live gate. If the fight is held at Las Vegas, his total purse should range between $90,000 and $100,000.

Those terms reflected a double-barrelled victory for 39-year-old Ray, who battled for three weeks to have his gate percentage boosted from 20 to 25 and his TV money increased from $30,000 to $50,000.

For the champion's end, Fullmer gets 40 per cent of the TV fee—$60,000—and 40 per cent of the net gate. His purse should range between $125,000 and $135,000.

Broglio Signs

ST. LOUIS (UPI)—Ernie Broglio, who had a 21-9 record last season, Thursday became the first player to sign his 1961 contract with the St. Louis Cardinals

Mississippi Is Voted Nation's Leading Football Team

Rebels Will Get Grantland Rice Trophy

Sugar Bowl Game Winner Selected By Grid Writers

NEW YORK (UPI)—Mississippi's unbeaten, once-tied Sugar Bowl champions were selected as the nation's leading college football team of 1960 Thursday by a six-man committee of the Football Writers Association of America.

The Rebels will be presented with the seventh annual Grantland Rice Award by Look Magazine.

Mississippi, which had a 9-0-1 regular-season record and defeated Rice, 14-6, in the Jan. 2 Sugar Bowl game, received 13 points to top Iowa by three points. Washington, which beat Minnesota in the Rose Bowl, 17-7, was next with six points followed by Orange Bowl champion Missouri with four and Minnesota with three.

Mississippi received three firsts, one second and two third-place votes.

The six-man committee cast its votes after the results of the bowl games "because we think the bowl games are part of the season," according to look sports editor Tim Cohane.

Mississippi was tied by Louisiana State, 6-6, and beat Houston, 32-0, Kentucky, 21 - 6, Memphis State, 31-20, Vanderbilt, 26-0, Tulane, 26-13, Arkansas, 10-7, Chattanooga, 45-0, Tennessee, 24-3, and Mississippi State, 35-9 during the regular season.

The committee consisted of Kaye Kessler, Columbus Citizen-Journal; Bill Rives, Dallas Morning News; Bill Leiser, San Francisco Chronicle; Edwin Pope, Miami Herald; Al Abrams, Pittsburgh Post-Gazette and Bob Busby, Kansas City Star. Previous winners of the award were UCLA in 1954, Oklahoma in 1955 and 1956, Ohio State in 1957, Iowa in 1958 and Syracuse in 1959.

Steelers Sign Fred Mautino

PITTSBURGH (UPI) — The Pittsburgh Steelers signed their third rookie in five days Thursday when All-America end Fred Mautino of Syracuse came to terms with the National Football League club.

Mautino, the Steeler's fifth draft choice, also had been drafted by the New York Titans of the American Football League. He was signed by Steeler Coach Harry Gilmer in Mobile, Ala., where Mautino will play in Saturday's Senior Bowl.

Mautino is 6-3 and weighs 225 pounds. He made virutally everyone's All-America team. Orange Coach Ben Schwartzwalder has termed Mautino the "best end he ever coached."

Browns Sign Pair

MIAMI, Fla. (UPI) — The Cleveland Browns Thursday signed two University of Mississippi players, including their No. 1 draft choice, halfback Bobby Crespino.

The other Rebel signed was end John Brewer, who was drafted last year when he still had another season of eligibility remaining.

Grand National Attracts Field Of 74 March 25

Safer Approaches Made At 12 Fences

LONDON (UPI) — A total of 74 thoroughbreds, including three from the Soviet Union and the last three years' winners, were entered Thursday for this year's Grand National steeplechase, England's famed horse race first run at the Aintree track near Liverpool 124 years ago.

The race, usually followed by outbursts of indignation because of numerous accidents to both horses and jockeys, will be modified somewhat this year with 12 of the fences which dot the four-mile, 856-yard course altered for safer approaches.

The event will be run on March 25 this year and will have its richest running ever. The total value of the purse will amount to 23,000 sterling ($64,400) and the entry list is the largest since 1952 when there were 47 actual starters from the original entry list of 84.

The Soviet government has nominated Relief, Grifel and Epigraff II, but there is very little chance that they will reach the starting gate because of the British Ministry of Agriculture's strict ban on countries affected by the deadly killer—African horse disease.

The National Hunt Committee, in announcing the runners Thursday, kept the Soviet horses on the list although Britain's Ministry of Agriculture has declared it will not let them into the country.

Merryman II, the 1960 winner, Oxo, the 1959 winner, and Mr. What, the 1958 winner, will be back for another try in the race, regarded as the classic event of steeplechasing.

Grid Rules Are OK, "Rip" Engle Says

UNIVERSITY PARK, PA.—(UPI)—Penn State Coach Rip Engle, outgoing president of the American Football Coaches Association, said Thursday that "any major rules changes this year would be a surprise."

"We have the best rules possible for college football right now," Engle said. "I think the rules committee feels we have a great game too."

The National League baseball schedule will be released January 26.

Charles Town Track Asks Hearing On Racing Dates

Gets Court Order Following Dispute With Commission

CHARLES TOWN, W. Va. (AP)—The Charles Town Race Course obtained a court order Thursday to block the State Racing Commission from setting meeting dates for Charles Town and Shenandoah Downs.

The order, issued in Jefferson County Circuit Court, bars the commission from setting 1961 spring and summer dates for the two tracks until after a Jan. 20 hearing.

Charles Town argued dates set last month by the commission were "discriminatory, capricious and arbitrary in their applications and operation," and that the commission "had not complied with the statutes of the State of West Virginia."

Rejects Proposal

At issue is a dispute between the racing commission and West Virginia's four major tracks over this year's meeting dates. When conflicting proposed dates were submitted by the tracks Dec. 9, the commission rejected all proposals.

The commission then set dates which were accepted initially by only one track, Waterford Park. The Waterford Park seasons will be July 3 through Sept. 4, Sept. 9 through Sept. 17, and Nov. 9 through Dec. 9, the track said.

Wheeling Downs requested a rehearing, but was turned down by the commission.

Shenandoah agreed to its dates, but requested that its meeting start April 14 instead of April 8 and a closing Sept. 23 instead of Sept. 16. The commission agreed.

Want First Choice

Charles Town argued that Shenandoah was favored by the arrangement, and said state law provided that tracks returning the most revenue to the state should get first choice of racing dates.

The current controversy does note involve Charles Town's meeting that began Jan. 1 and will end Jan. 21. Charles Town's meeting next December also is outside the dispute.

South Is Choice In Senior Bowl

MOBILE, Ala. (AP) — The South was established as a slight favorite in Saturday's 12th annual Senior Bowl as the two squads wound up heavy work in spirited drills Thursday.

The oddsmakers came up with a five-point edge for the Rebels, who are directed by Coach Weeb Ewbank of the Baltimore Colts.

This undoubtedly pleased Coach Jim Lee Howell of the New York Giants. His Northern squad was a 3½-point underdog last January but walloped the Southerners 26-7 on the passes of Cincinnati's Jack Lee.

Condition Of Howe Is Reported Good

TORONTO (AP)—Gordie Howe, veteran front line ace of the Detroit Red Wings, was reported in good condition at a hospital here Thursday after suffering a head injury in Wednesday night's National Hockey League game against the Toronto Maple Leafs.

A hospital spokesman said Howe suffered a concussion, with no complications, and will be released in two days.

Set Racing Dates

CHARLESTON, W. Va. (UPI)—The West Virginia Racing Commission Thursday approved 1961 racing dates for Waterford Park, near Chester. They are:

July 3 - Sept. 4, 55 days; Sept. 9-16, 7 days and Nov. 9-Dec. 9, 27 days.

Dates for Charles Town and Shenandoah Downs have been held up by court action and no application has been received yet from Wheeling Downs, a spokesman said.

Market Left With Small Gain After Profit-Taking

NEW YORK (UPI) — Stocks rang up a small gain Thursday—all that was left after late hour profit-taking snuffed out a strong follow - through to Wednesday's booming market.

Cyclical issues received another big play before being cut down in the final hour but rails finished strongly and all the steels were up. Non-ferrous metals also finished higher.

The Dow-Jones industrial average rose 1.18 to 622.67 largely due to Union Carbide, up 2¾, and Alcoa, up 1⅛. Rails continued their strong upswing by racking up 1.43 to 135.14 with only Norfolk & Western, off 2¼, finishing on the downside among the 20. Utilities notched 0.17 to 100.58.

Volume climbed sharply to 4,130,000 shares from 3,840,000 Wednesday. A large accumulation of overnight buy orders caused a late tape during the first hour with the ticker again sputtering behind at the close.

The market breakdown looked a little better than the averages, however, with 744 advances and 330 losers included among the 1,259 issues crossing the tape. New highs outnumbered new lows 40 to 5.

Card Of Thanks

We wish to express our sincere thanks and appreciation to all of our relatives, neighbors and friends who were so kind to us during the illness and following the death of our beloved husband and father, Richard "Buck" Cross. We especially wish to thank Rev. Louis Emerick, Rev. Paul O'Brien, the Bowman's Addition Auxiliary, the pallbearers and fellow workers of Local 489, and all those who sent flowers, cards or helped in any way.

Mrs. Maryland Cross and Family

Air Service Plea Is Made By Chamber

Support Of Beall's Subsidy Plan Urged

The Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, in a letter mailed to members yesterday, warned that the owners of Algonquin Airlines are meeting Monday to consider dropping service to the Cumberland area.

It urged members to write U. S. Senator J. Glenn Beall, supporting his demand that the Civil Aeronautics Board hear his case for transferring the subsidy from Allegheny Airlines, which dropped service here, to the new line.

The Chamber also suggested that members write to T. J. Whelan, president, asking the company to hold on a little longer while the subsidy case is fought through.

Algonquin Airlines, the Chamber said, has given Cumberland the best air service it has known, but the use made of it has been light, mainly due to cost.

The Chamber said that during the years Allegheny was supposed to be giving service here, and even after it dropped flights here, it received huge government subsidies which enabled it to hold down the cost of fares.

The Cumberland area, it said, needs the service and needs it at reasonable rates.

The old National Pike was the first road to be built by the United States government.

A group of Allegany County farmers is planning to attend the 11th annual meeting of the Four-State Farmers Association January 20 at Hagerstown.

Joseph M. Steger, county farm agent, said the meeting will be held in the Franklin Court auditorium on West Franklin Street.

CIDC Board Plans Dinner Meeting

The executive board of the Cumberland Industrial Development Company will meet Tuesday at 6 p. m. at the Cumberland Country Club.

Robert G. Garner, local manager of the Chesapeake and Potomac Telephone Company, will be the host at the dinner meeting.

Permits Issued

Two new trailer permits were issued yesterday by the Allegany County assessment department upon the payment of the $10 trailer arrival tax. The permits were issued to Robert Lacko, RFD 1, for a trailer in Election District 29, LaVale, and to Edward C. Swanger, Corriganville.

Chamber Calls For Action On Improvements

A number of suggestions for improvement in the downtown area were included in the New Year's letter of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce along with a warning that "Action not talk is what produces results."

Downtown projects that could be accomplished now, the Chamber said, include the extension of George Street, additional off-street parking and the elimination of much of the on-street parking.

Modernization of some business houses and more attention to developing good service personnel were also suggested, along with improved selection of merchandise, improved traffic control, enforcement of rules on the books concerning care and maintenance of sidewalks and buildings, collection of trash, elimination of bird nuisance and an improved street cleaning program.

The major project of the year, it said, should be the establishment of a city-manager-type government or perhaps a county-manager type to eliminate duplication in the city-county governments.

It said the federal government will no doubt institute a broad program of area development but that there are many problems "we will only solve by ourselves."

'Summer-Like' Weather To Continue Here

Another "summer-like" day is forecast for today.

Yesterday afternoon the temperature rose to 46 degrees, according to Robert R. Golden, weather observer here, who said it was the highest since Christmas Day when the mercury reached the 47-degree mark.

The official low temperature yesterday was 25 degrees and at 7 p. m. it was 35 degrees.

Today the skies are to be partly cloudy and temperatures should range from 40 to 45 degrees in Western Maryland. Cloudy skies, with a chance of rain are forecast for tomorrow.

U. S. Route 40 east and west of Cumberland was reported in good shape last night, State Police said.

Severance Tax On W. Va. Coal Again Proposed

BECKLEY, W. Va. (UPI)—Del. Roy Lee Harmon, D-Raleigh, said Thursday he plans to again introduce a severance tax bill on coal in the upcoming West Virginia Legislature in spite of apparent new opposition from the United Mine Workers union.

At the same time, Harmon accused the UMW of collusion with coal operators in opposing the measure. He described the mine owners as "absentee landloards who have skinned and gutted West Virginia for years and left the state a shambles."

Harmon charged that orders to oppose the severance tax were passed down by UMW President Thomas Kennedy, "another out-of-state man."

Harmon's statement followed disclosure by UMW District 29 legislative chairman James Leeber, Beckley, that the union, which formerly advocated a severance tax, was now against it.

Leeber said the result would be to place the West Virginia coal industry in an even worse competitive position with other coal-producing states.

Westvaco Sales Set Record; Income Drops

NEW YORK (AP) — West Virginia Pulp & Paper Co. Thursday reported record sales but a six per cent decline in earnings for 1960.

The company earned $11 million, equal to $2.07 per share, on sales of $250 million. In 1959, its earnings totaled $11.8 million, or $2.21 per share, on sales of $233 million.

President David L. Luke attributed the decline in profits to a softening of general business and heavy start-up expenses of a new paper machine.

Delegation Begins Study Of Requests

Minority Leaders To Retain Posts

Allegany County legislators met in Annapolis yesterday to review suggestions made during a series of meetings held here in November and December.

Del. Fred B. Driscoll, chairman of the Allegany County Delegation to the General Assembly, said the meeting was held in the delegation room and attended by State Senator Charles M. See and all six Allegany County delegates.

He said no action was taken at the exploratory session which lasted several hours, but that all suggestions are being considered.

Dozens of legislative items were discussed during the hearings here, but many of them are statewide bills for which Allegany County support was sought.

Del. Driscoll said another joint meeting will be arranged next week.

During a Republican caucus in Baltimore Tuesday night, Senator Harry Phoebus of Somerset County and Delegate Lester B. Reed of Allegany County were renamed minority leaders of the General Assembly. Del. Driscoll yesterday was asked to continue as chairman of the Allegany County Delegation.

Students To Pay Cost Of Windows

A group of students from North End who attend Allegany High School will make restitution for breaking windows of a Wills Creek Avenue home with snowballs this week, police said.

City Police Detective Captain James E. Van said he received a complaint from Mrs. Mary E. Carney, 222 Wills Creek Avenue, who said some youths tossed the snowballs and broke some windows.

Captain Van went to the school and upon investigation learned the names of at least four who were in on the vandalism.

Arrangements have been made to have one of the youths collect the money from the others and turn it over to the school principal, Van said.

Plan To Aid

County 2 each. One more seat each would go to Harford, Howard, St. Marys and Charles counties.

This would increase House membership from 123 to 143.

Follows Walsh Plan

The principal features of the bill are similar to those proposed by a governor's commission under William C. Walsh, Cumberland attorney. Differences include the immediate addition of seats to the two city districts and Harford, Howard, St. Marys and Charles.

Tawes indicated after his conference with the senators that he had an open mind on the plan. He had endorsed the Walsh proposal in the 1959 legislature, when it failed, and had expressed hope that it or something similar might be enacted in the current session.

Del. Margaret C. Schweinhaut, D-Montgomery, chairman of the State Coordinating Commission on Problems of the Aging, proposed the tax relief for the elderly.

Her bill would enable county or city governments to set up provisions for exempting property of the aged from taxation.

Another of her bills would remove the $25,000 a year ceiling on the budget of her commission.

Help For Aging

She also introduced three resolutions relating to the aging. One would request all counties and Baltimore City to set up local commissions on the aging.

Another would ask Congress to permit social security recipients to earn up to $30 a month without forfeiting any of their benefits.

A third would request the Legislative Council to study whether changes should be made in the present legal requirement that children must support their parents.

The State commission on aging was established in 1959, the first year of Tawes' term. In his opening message to the legislature Wednesday, he pointed out that Maryland can expect to have more than 250,000 persons 65 years or older by 1970.

Two bills aimed at ending segregation in hotels and restaurants were introduced. One would make the penalty $100-$500; the other would make it $25-$500.

Are Sponsors

One bill was sponsored by a dozen Baltimore City delegates. The other had 11 city sponsors and nine from the counties.

The county delegates were Estel C. Kelley and Lester B. Reed, Thomas F. Conlon Jr. of Allegany County, Joseph D. Tydings of Harford, Mrs. Schweinhaut, J. Grahame Walker, Blair Lee III and Edna P. Cook of Montgomery.

Del. Robert P. Cannon, D-Wicomico, proposed that inmates of penal institutions be made ineligible for workmen's compensation.

The State Industrial Accident Commission has expressed concern over the number of claims recently made by prisoners. They are drawing benefits at a rate exceeding the amount of premiums paid by the State to insure such cases.

Cannon said Tawes had looked with favor upon his proposal but wanted to amend it so that seriously disabled prisoners might collect compensation after being released from the institution.

Plan To Aid Counties Is Dusted Off

Reapportionment Bill Is Introduced

By LOUIS G. PANOS

ANNAPOLIS (AP) — Maryland lawmakers popped up Thursday with individual plans to ease the money woes of local governments and reapportion strength in the General Assembly.

Sen. H. Winship Wheatley Jr., D-Prince Georges, dusting off an old weapon for a new fight, introduced a bill which would mean more tax money for 21 counties at the expense of the other two and Baltimore City.

The measure, defeated in several previous sessions, calls for the taxing of public utility shares by each subdivision according to the amount of property and equipment it has in that subdivision.

Two other senators sponsored a bill to give the State's more populous areas a total of 20 new seats in the House of Delegates.

Ask Exemptions

In the House, delegates introduced legislation to prohibit racial discrimination by operators of restaurants and hotels, authorize local governments to grant property tax exemptions to elderly persons, and deny workmen's compensation benefits to injured inmates of penal institutions.

Sens. Edward S. Northrop, D-Montgomery, and James A. Pine, D-Balto County, teamed up on the reapportionment measure. They discussed it with Gov. Tawes and Senate President George W. Della, D-Balto, 6th, after the Senate held a brief afternoon session.

Northrop and Pine later said they plan to introduce the bill when the senators return Monday night from a four-day layoff.

Loss For Baltimore

In his "State of the State" speech after the 90-day session opened Wednesday, Tawes cited the financial plight of local governments and reapportionment as two of the biggest problems facing the Legislature.

City officials estimated Wheatley's utility tax plan would mean a loss of $1½ million a year to Baltimore. Wheatley acknowledged that Wicomico County and Frederick County also would probably suffer under his proposal.

This is because utility shares are now taxed by the subdivision where the utility company's headquarters is located. The headquarters of most of the State's major utilities are in Baltimore, Salisbury and Frederick.

Cites Urgency

"With all these counties now asking for more tax revenues," Wheatley said, "something must be done."

He said Prince Georges would net $70,000 to $100,000 under his proposal and he had asked the State Department of Assessments to give him figures on its effect on other subdivisions.

The Northrop-Pine reapportionment bill would mean these additional House seats for subdivisions now assigned the maximum of six each: Baltimore County 4; Prince Georges and Montgomery 3 each; Baltimore's 3rd and 5th Legislative Districts and Anne Arundel

Firemen At Work

Firemen are shown using the 85-foot aerial ladder to scale the Times-News building, where a minor fire broke out in the housing of an exhaust fan between the second-story ceiling and the roof just before 5 p. m. yesterday. The fire was discovered soon after it started, and firemen quickly extinguished it. Damage was negligible, but the big ladder truck attracted several dozen rush-hour passersby because it had to block South Mechanic Street to get at the fire.

Many Lands Will Observe 'Little Christmas' Today

By C. WESLEY BLACKBURN
News Staff Writer

Today is observed as "Little Christmas" in many parts of the Christian world.

In families in lands which cling to the old customs, there are gifts for the children and a treat for all members of the families as Christmas dainties, stored away for the Epiphany feast, are brought forth.

Today is observed as the feast of the Epiphany and is also called the Feast of the Three Kings — marking the visit of the Magi to Jerusalem, or Twelfth Night — since it is the 12th day after the birth of the Christ Child.

The word Epiphany comes from the Greek "epiphania" which means a showing or manifestation.

In the Roman Catholic Church, the feast ranks with the great feasts of Easter and Pentecost. It is observed in honor of Christ's manifestation to the Gentiles, represented by the Three Kings who followed the Star of Bethlehem to the place where the Christ Child lay.

Other manifestations marked by the feast include Christ's baptism in the River Jordan and his power as shown at the marriage feast of Cana.

The Bible tells all that is really known of the Magi—of how wise men from the East came to worship the Christ Child and how, after they had been led by a star, they "fell down and worshipped him" and presented their precicus gifts of gold, frankincense and myrrh.

Figures of the traditional wise men, Balthasar, Casper and Melchior, are featured in Cumberland's Christmas display on the grounds of Emmanuel Episcopal Church. They are copied after figures of the Wise Men which are displayed in the Cloisters in New York City.

Scholars say the "wise men" could not have appeared by Twelfth Night and that as much as a month of even a year elapsed before they presented their treasures to the Christ Child.

There has been a revival in the Tri-State area of the Burning of the Greens ceremony as the torch is applied to Christmas trees and decorations.

The Twelfth Night bonfire carries out the tradition that good fortune follows the destruction of Yule decorations on the Feast of the Three Kings.

Judges Give David Rose His Freedom

A 23-year-old former Cresaptown resident, who has served more than three years in confinement since a 1957 burglary conviction, yesterday was given his freedom by Chief Judge Morgan C. Harris and Associate Judge W. Earle Cobey after a hearing in Allegany County Circuit Court.

The hearing was designed to determine whether David Royce Rose is still a defective delinquent.

Rose was found guilty November 29, 1957, by Judge Harris on a charge of breaking into the dwelling of Ray Eugene Bookheimer, Winchester Road, on October 3, 1957, and stealing articles valued at $102, including a pair of trousers, a shirt, pair of shoes, wedding ring, three silver dollars and some canned goods.

At the time, Judge Harris imposed a sentence not to exceed one year in the Maryland Reformatory for Males with a recommendation that Rose be transferred to the Patuxent Institution for defective delinquents.

On November 12, 1958, Judge Harris held a hearing and determined then that Rose still was a defective delinquent.

Yesterday's hearing was the result of a state law which provides that an inmate at the Patuxent Institution is entitled to periodic re-hearings to determine whether he still is a defective delinquent and still subject to indeterminate confinement.

Two primary witnesses were heard yesterday, Dr. Richard W. Trevaskis Jr., local psychiatrist, and Dr. Harold Boslow, director of the Patuxent Institution, were the key witnesses. Dr. Trevaskis said that Rose never has been a danger to society and needs a chance to "grow" into maturity. His intelligence quotient or "IQ" was listed as 97.

Judge Harris announced the decision freeing Rose and in which Judge Cobey had concurred.

Assistant State's Attorney Donald W. Mason represented the state and Thomas N. Berry served as defense attorney at the hearing.

Fire Damages Small House At Flintstone

A small five-room house in the Flintstone area was badly damaged yesterday morning when an overheated stove caused a flue fire.

The fire broke out about 11 a.m. at the home of Fitch Imes who resides along Flintstone Creek about a mile and a half north of Flintstone.

Firemen from Flintstone Volunteer Fire Company responded to the call and fought the blaze for nearly two hours.

Firemen said the fire apparently started in the flue when the stove in the home became overheated. A room downstairs and a room upstairs at one end of the small, two-story house were damaged extensively, firemen reported.

No estimate of the damage was made, but firemen said about 50 per cent of the residence was damaged by fire.

Mr. Imes lives alone in the small house, which is made of logs.

Sanitary Unit Will Organize Here Tonight

New Commission Begins Duties

Allegany County's new Sanitary Commission, created by act of the Board of County Commissioners December 13, will have its organizational meeting at the Court House at 7:30 o'clock tonight.

Two of the commission members, Playford S. Aldridge, RFD 3, Bedford Road, and Robert A. Reinhard, 310 National Highway, LaVale, are expected to attend tonight's opening session with Leslie J. Clark, attorney to the county commissioners. The third commissioner, Alvin H. Rankin, 175 Maple Street, Frostburg, is visiting a daughter in Florida and is not expected home before next week.

Since last summer there has been considerable discussion on the part of county officials concerning a plan to solve the miscellaneous sewage disposal problems that are developing in the unincorporated areas of the county as well as in and around Frostburg. Cumberland, Westernport and Luke are the only communities with sewage treatment facilities.

Commissioners John T. Mason and William A. Wilson agreed on November 29 that there is a need for a sanitary commission in the county. On that occasion Commissioner John J. Rowan voted against the proposal. However, on December 13, Commissioner Rowan joined the other two when the formal resolution was adopted creating the Allegany County Sanitary District and designating the three-member commission to handle the operations.

The commissioners' resolution said the commission is being created to "acquire, construct, reconstruct, extend, repair and improve, maintain and operate water systems, sewage systems and other related projects within Allegany County."

WM To Cut Salaries Of Officials

Railway Also To Reduce Force

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Western Maryland Railway announced Thursday that because of reduced freight revenues it is furloughing a number of employes and reducing the salaries of executives and supervisory personnel.

The reduction on the higher level would be 10 per cent of the salary beyond $10,000 a year.

The Western Maryland, a freight carrying line whose major revenue comes from coal loadings, operates in Maryland, Pennsylvania and West Virginia. A statement from President W. Arthur Grotz said:

"Because of the reduced level of its freight traffic, the Western Maryland Railway is effecting substantial economies, including the furloughing of employes and the reduction by 10 per cent in the amount by which the salary of executive or supervisory employes exceeds $10,000 per annum."

"The railway is confident of an early upsurge in business which will permit the prompt restoration of former salary levels."

A spokesman for Western Maryland said no estimate could be made at this time of the number of persons to be furloughed or the number of executives whose income would be reduced.

The Western Maryland, which formerly was also a passenger road, left that field about three years ago.

Many Sick Are Aided Here By Medical Care

$187,241 Is Spent For Plan In County

Free medical services were provided to 5.5 per cent of the citizens of Allegany County last year under the Medical Care Program of the Allegany County Health Department.

The services were provided under Maryland's Medical Care Program at a cost of $187,241, according to a report issued yesterday by Dr. Ton van Strien, county health officer.

The program which provides medical attention, drugs and dental services to the indigent (those on relief rolls) and the medically indigent (those who cannot meet medical costs on their limited incomes) was provided at a per capita cost of $2.25 in this county.

Far less use of the service was made by other sections of Maryland. For all counties, only 1.8 per cent of the population was enrolled, and the per capita cost was 56 cents.

4,544 Are Aided

During last year, 4,544 persons in the county received medical care services at an average cost per person of $41.21. The state average was $31.58.

The annual cost for Medical Care to those on public welfare averages $37.25 in this county. The state average was $25.53.

The $37.25 included an average of $13.34 for the services of physicians, $21.45 for pharmacy bills and $2.46 for dental services.

Services to the medically indigent cost an average of $118.47 and included $36.30 for the services of doctors, $73.57 for prescriptions and $8.58 for dental services.

The higher costs for the medically indigent results from the fact that persons on public welfare rolls automatically receive Medical Care cards while the medically indigent are placed on the rolls only when they are in need of medical services they cannot provide with their limited incomes.

Fees Are Set

A total of 51 physicians in Allegany County were certified to participate in the Medical Care plan, and received $62,881 for 26,009 calls.

Nineteen county pharmacies participated in the plan and filled 45,248 prescriptions at an average cost per prescription of $2.46—slightly less than the state average of $2.55 per prescription.

Doctors here wrote 174 prescriptions for each 100 calls, while the state average was 129.

There were 19 dentists enrolled in the program in this county. During the year they received $12,872 for their services which included 56 dentures.

All physicians, pharmacists and dentists who participate in the state-financed Medical Care Program do so at reduced fees set by the Medical Care plan.

Dr. van Strien said the entire program here is handled by Miss Mary Rooney and Miss Regina Pryor under the supervision of Mrs. Jennie J. Grahame, administrative assistant of the department.

Daughter Lives At Potomac Park

Roger W. Jones, who yesterday was appointed by President-elect John F. Kennedy as the deputy undersecretary of state for administration, is the father of Mrs. Cynthia Hodges, a Cumberland area resident for the past nine years, who now resides in Potomac Park.

A career man whose federal service began in 1933, Mr. Jones is now serving as chairman of the United States Civil Service Commission. Although he has lived in Montgomery County since 1937, Mr. Jones has maintained a legal residence in Connecticut and is a registered Republican.

Mr. Jones is a frequent visitor to Cumberland. His daughter said last night that his most recent visit was over the Veterans Day holiday.

Some three or four years ago, Mr. Jones came to Cumberland to address the Men of Emmanuel at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, to which his son-in-law and daughter belong.

C & O Canal Proclamation Hits A Snag

Commissioners Fail To Act On Proposal

WASHINGTON (AP) — A move to have a 165-mile stretch of the Chesapeake & Ohio Canal declared a national monument by presidential proclamation has hit a snag.

Approval of the proposed executive order has been recommended by Secretary of the Interior Fred A. Seaton but the District of Columbia commissioners have not yet expressed a view.

The Interior Department contends that no concurrence by interested jurisdictions is necessary. Nevertheless, the Budget Bureau, which studies such proposals to determine whether any appropriation will be needed, sent a copy of the proposal to the District commissioners. They have taken no action on the proposal. The commissioners said they are awaiting a recommendation from staff members who are looking into it.

Means Fresh Start

Interior Department officials had hoped by this time the order would be at the White House awaiting President Eisenhower's signature and that the proclamation could become effective before the Eisenhower administration goes out of office Jan. 20. Any such action under the new president, John F. Kennedy, would have to start all over again in the Interior Department.

Seaton took the presidential proclamation route after several bills to establish a Chesapeake & Ohio Canal National Park failed to be passed by Congress.

Show Concern

The park would extend roughly from Washington to Cumberland, Md., following the old canal route.

Some District officials are concerned that approval of the proclamation might hamstring attempts to build a dam on the Potomac River upstream from Washington. Such a dam is one of several alternatives for providing additional water for the Washington area. If such a dam were built, its reservoir would flood a portion of the canal.

Meanwhile, Sen. J. Glenn Beall, R-Md., introduced a new bill to authorize establishment of a Chesapeake & Ohio Canal National Historical Park.

Beall said he thinks the new Congress will approve the measure. Noting that in previous Congresses only the Senate had approved the proposal, Beall said his new bill includes some changes which he feels will make it acceptable to those in the House who previously opposed it.
